A PART OF WHAT'S HAPPENING

TIME, considered by many renowned scientists to be the fourth dimension, tends to bring forth various aspects of reformation in relation to happenings throughout the world. The United States of America, now over 200 years old, also is afflicted from the over-powering effects of time, even though much of its actions are for the better. Anaheim High School, although only a grain of sand on the beach when compared with all that exists, is just as equally involved in what is occurring around the globe as anything else. Taking advantage of this fact, members of the '78 "Vintage" staff decided to utilize as the theme of this yearbook, "Anaheim — A Part of Whats Happening." While showing Anaheim's involvement with events around the nation, the "Vintage" '78 yearbook is also aimed at being a historical account of the events of 1978 in order to refresh the memories of those who were a part of what was happening this year at Anaheim. Luckily, this book is likely to survive time's actions.

Campus events pleased Anahi fun devotees

FOLLOWING a year of many changes the students at Anaheim branched out and started to take many interests in different endeavors. Activities, sports, and academics, to a great extent, reached more students than before. Homecoming, Spirit Week, Junior-Senior Prom, and other traditional activities were still a part of Anaheim along with new ones, such as the Winter Formal and special interest assemblies.

The 1977-78 school year also brought more foreign exchange students to Anaheim than ever before. After settling into their new environment, these students contributed much to the spirit and pride of the Anaheim. These new ethnic cultures as well as the established ones at Anaheim, introduced the Colony to different ways of life. As always Anaheim's clubs played a vital role during the year. Not only were they a diversification from studies, but provided a medium for the bonding of new and old friendships.

Colonists showed varied interests

INDIVIDUALISM was quite obvious at the Colony. Different personalities showed through the dress, speech, and actions of students. There were many clubs or groups that gave colonists the opportunity to be with others that shared similar interests. Those interested in drama tried out for the annual fall and spring plays which were "Hey, Naked Lady," a dramatic comedy and "Godspell," a colorful musical.

Besides the extra-curricular activities the Colony offered courses in journalism, art, the sciences, industrial arts plus more that gave students other areas to show their talents.

Although Anaheim plays a small part in the American scene, students were aware of what was happening outside school through their various interests.

FAR LEFT: Mr. Quille's journalism classes were well liked among Colonists. Many individual interests and talents were displayed through working on the 'Anoranco' & 'Vintage' staffs.

LEFT: Depicting favorite habits of tourists, colonists dressed in the typical garb of Bermuda shorts and Disney T-shirts for Tourists Day.

BELOW: Anaheim's spring play this year was "Godspell." A production of the spiritual revival that took place in the 1960's among the youth.

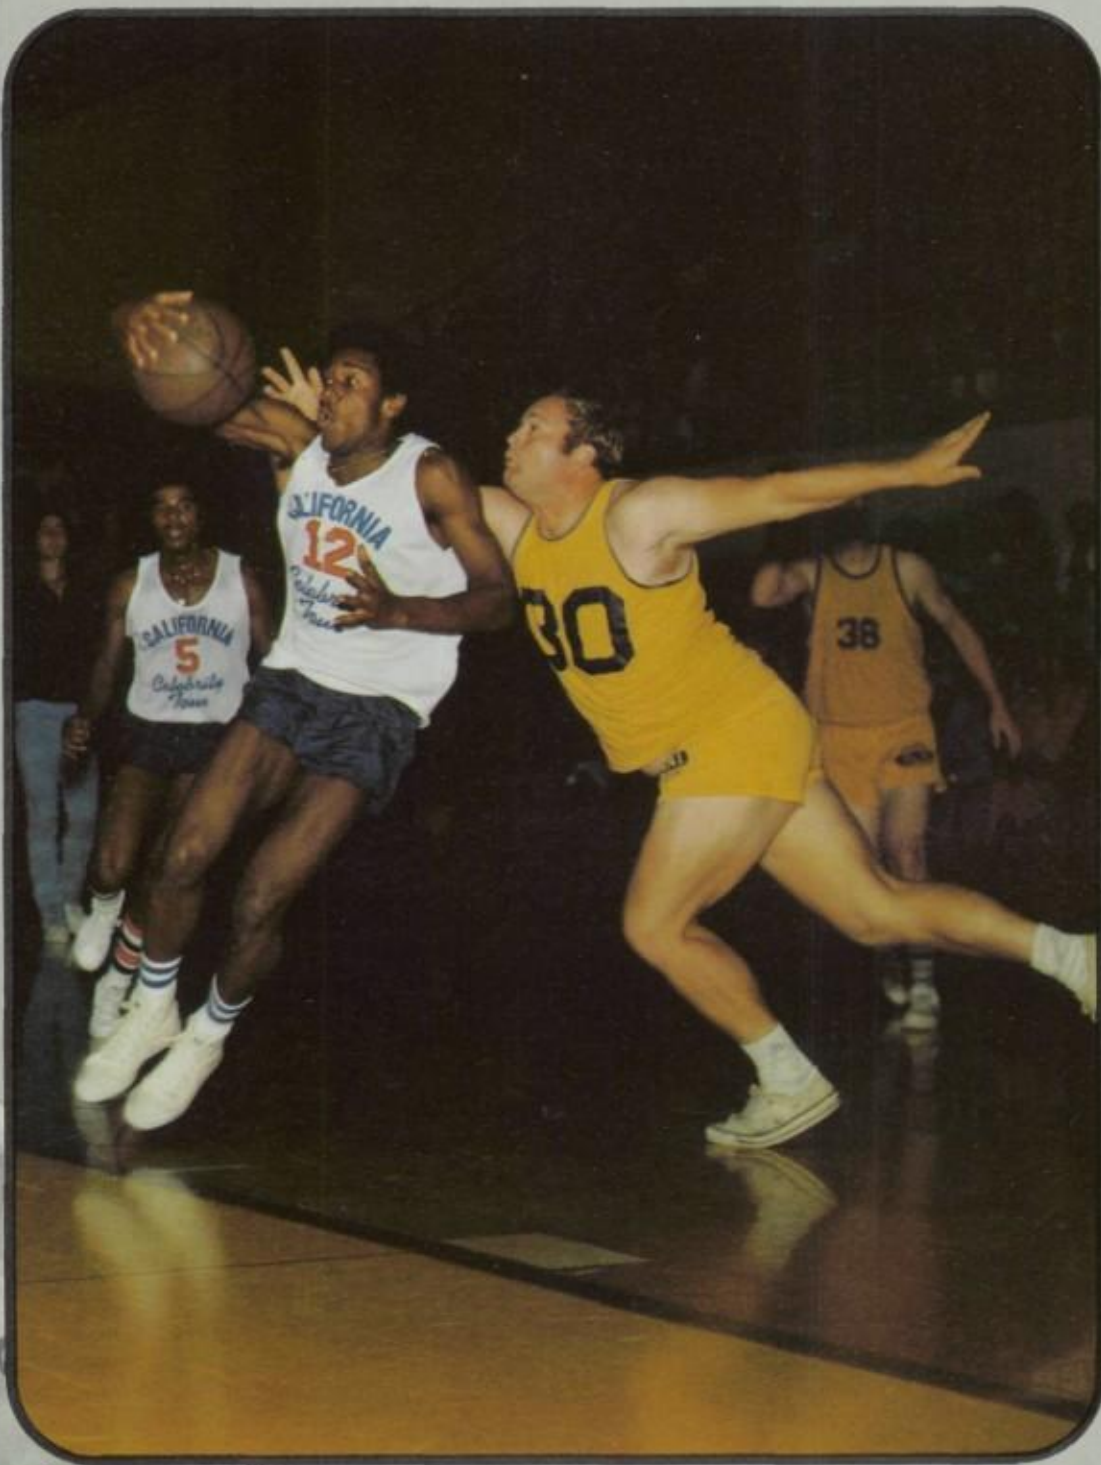

Assemblies, plays, tilts proved fun

IN ORDER to break away from everyday demands of the classroom and teachers, Colonists involved themselves in various campus activities. Throughout the year the school calendar was dominated by events such as Super Teams Week, Senior follies, assemblies, and athletic titles.

Super Teams Week was a favorite among colonists. Homeroom classes battled against each other for a week in relays, races, and a super strength tug-a-war and ending the week with a victory dance.

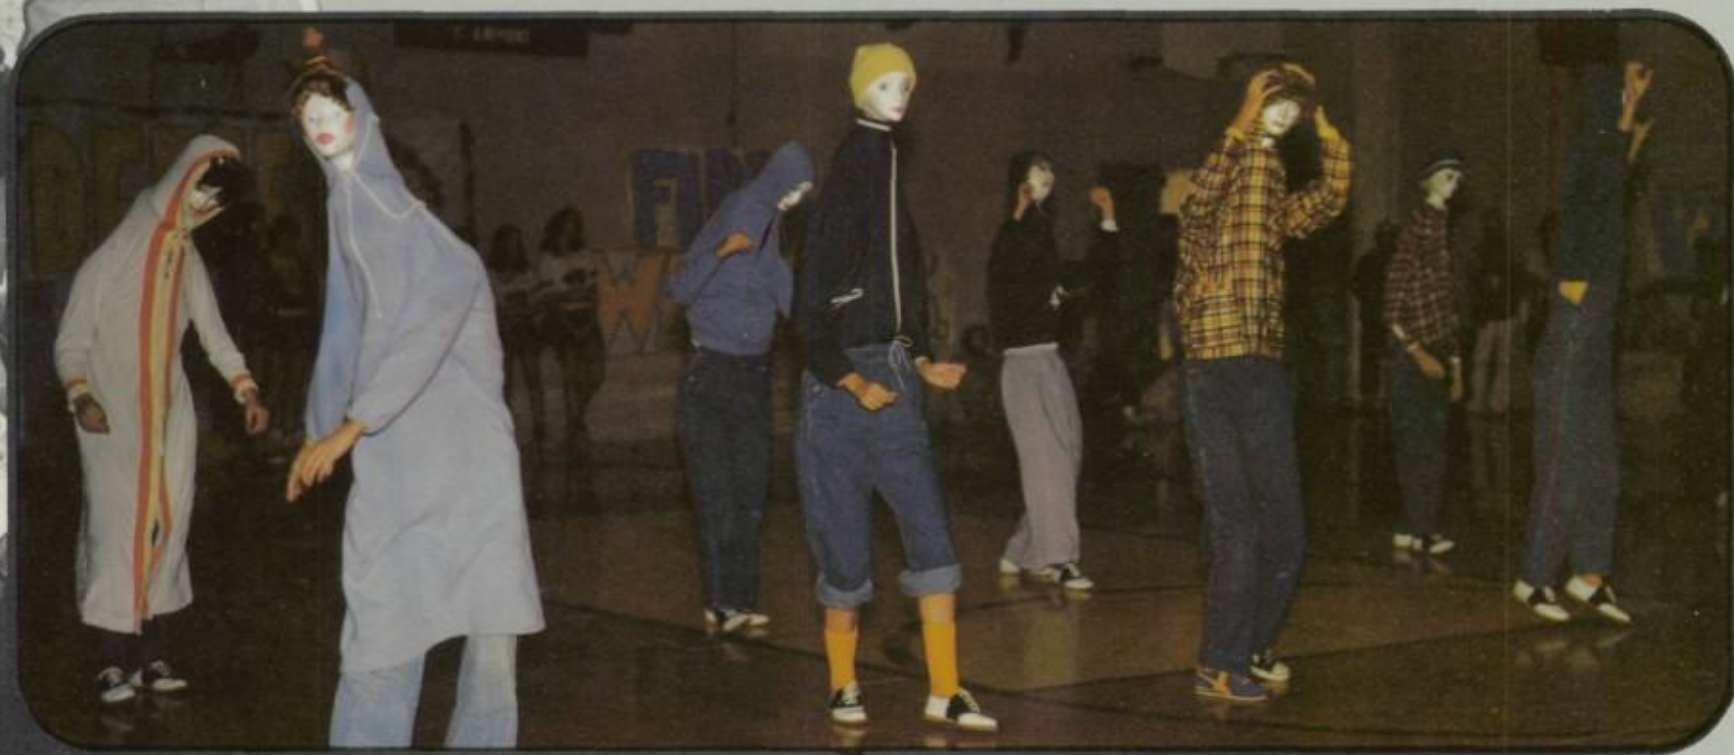

Besides traditional can-food drives, Anaheim hosted a celebrity basketball game with several coaches battling against the famous Jackson-5. The funds raised from the game went to various needy charities.

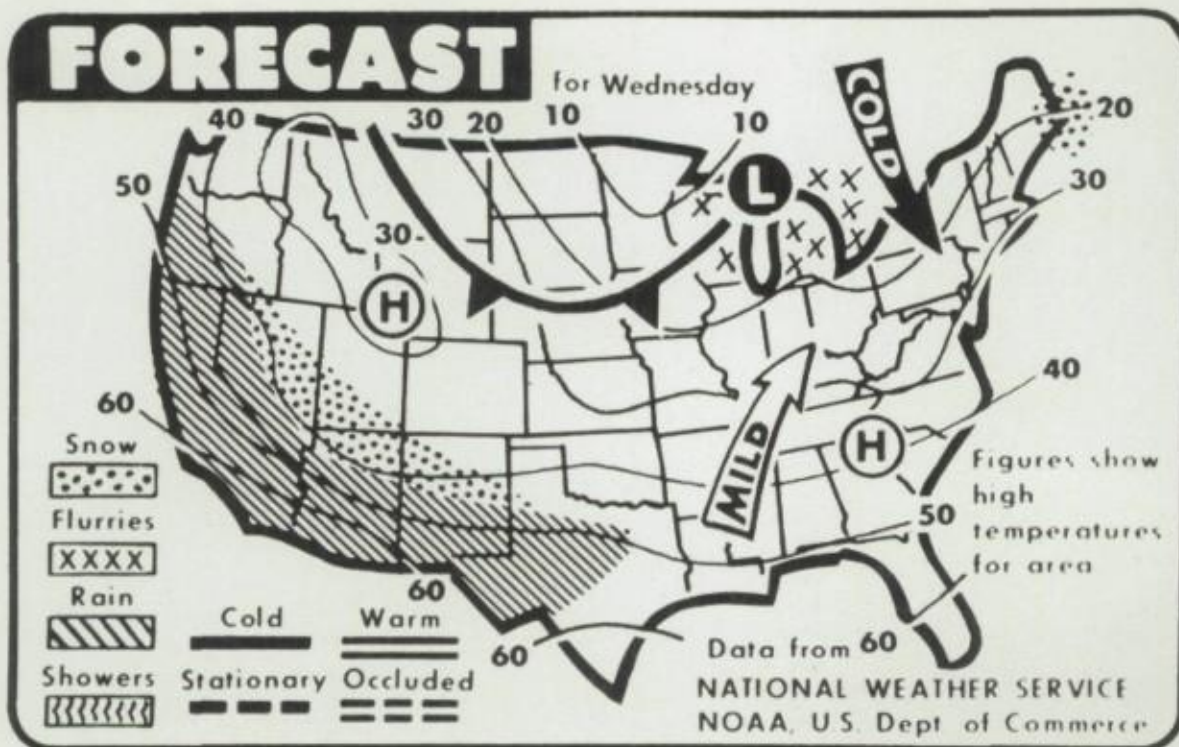

FAR LEFT: Heading another successful Salvation Army Canned Food Drive was the 1977-78 student council. Over 20,000 canned goods were collected.

LEFT: Stalhut extends himself to steal the ball from an opposing celebrity tour quintet in a benefit game played in Anaheim's gym.

BELOW: Song and cheer leaders roused colonists with their pin-head dance. Their various routines encouraged and inspired teams to victories.

AFTER THE LONG DROUGHT endured by the nation, a spring of rains and floods dominated weather charts. Record breaking storms dumped many inches of rain and snow on Southern California, nearby cities were hit by floods and mudslides. These storms also brought pounding surf to the beaches while at Anahi the rains did little damage; wetting clothes 'n damp spirits.

DEATHS AND CONTROVERSIES highlighted headlines during '78. Elvis Presley's sudden death shocked many of his devoted fans. Bing Crosby's memorable "White Christmas" and road movies will always remain in the hearts of Americans. On the political side, Hubert Humphrey motivated various groups with his determination to fight the war against cancer, and the anti-gay establishment was stirred on by the antics of Anita Bryant.

Famous people highlighted news

COMEDIAN CHARLIE CHAPLIN entertained movie goers for generations as the mustached little tramp in baggy trousers and derby hat. In 1972 he was presented a honorary oscar for his contributions to the film industry.

JOINING STARS of the past and present, C3PO, from the box busting 20th Century-Fox film "Star Wars," placed his foot prints in front of Mann's Chinese theater. C3PO joins such stars as Gabel and Streisand.

CALIFORNIA EXPERIENCED one of the most devastating droughts in history. Families were forced to conserve water and were penalized for exceeding the set quotas. Black Star Canyon exemplifies the conditions faced.

SEVENTY-EIGHT was a year of the unexpected and the shocking. The country was stunned by the deaths of famous faces. Bing Crosby with White Christmas and Elvis Presley who revolutionized rock and roll, were adored by the music public for decades. Also Hubert Humphrey will always be remembered as the "great politician" and Charlie Chaplin for the enjoyment he brought to the audiences through his silent movies.

The western and eastern parts of the United States experienced unprecedented weather. The west fought a drought which caused rationing of water along the entire coast and thousands of dollars in damages to homes due to the severe rainy weather. A tremendous snowfall hit the eastern areas closing schools and stopping industry. And the 100 day coal strike made life very frigid with the lack of heat.

After many years of war, peace seemed nearer in the Middle East. For the first time the leaders of Israel and Egypt met at the negotiation table. The controversy over the Panama Canal was as strong as ever. The Congressional debates, on ratifying the treaties which gave Panama possession of this international waterway, resulted in varied opinions.

From Hollywood came the box office breaker "Star Wars." While it was attracting millions, the unknown Debbie Boone delighted hearts with the hit single, "You Light Up My Life."

During this year in sports, Reggie Jackson helped the New York Yankees win the World Series with three home runs in the final game and the legendary Muhammed Ali was dethroned by the young Leon Spinks.

BILLY CARTER, the renowned brother of President Carter, often was more popular around the country than his famous brother. Billy Carter beer became a publicized beverage around the nation during the '78 year.

What's happening"

A PART of Anahi happenings were displayed through its various activities. Besides the traditional events such as Homecoming, Sadie Hawkins, and Big-Bop, students enjoyed the presentations of "Hey, Naked Lady," a story on the problems of a generation gap, and "Godspell," a colorful presentation of the parables of the Bible.

New activities provided much anticipated excitement, like the Winter formal, a multimedia presentation, "Fat City," and the Bong Show. Along with dances and plays, many Colonists spent Friday nights supporting athletic teams in action.

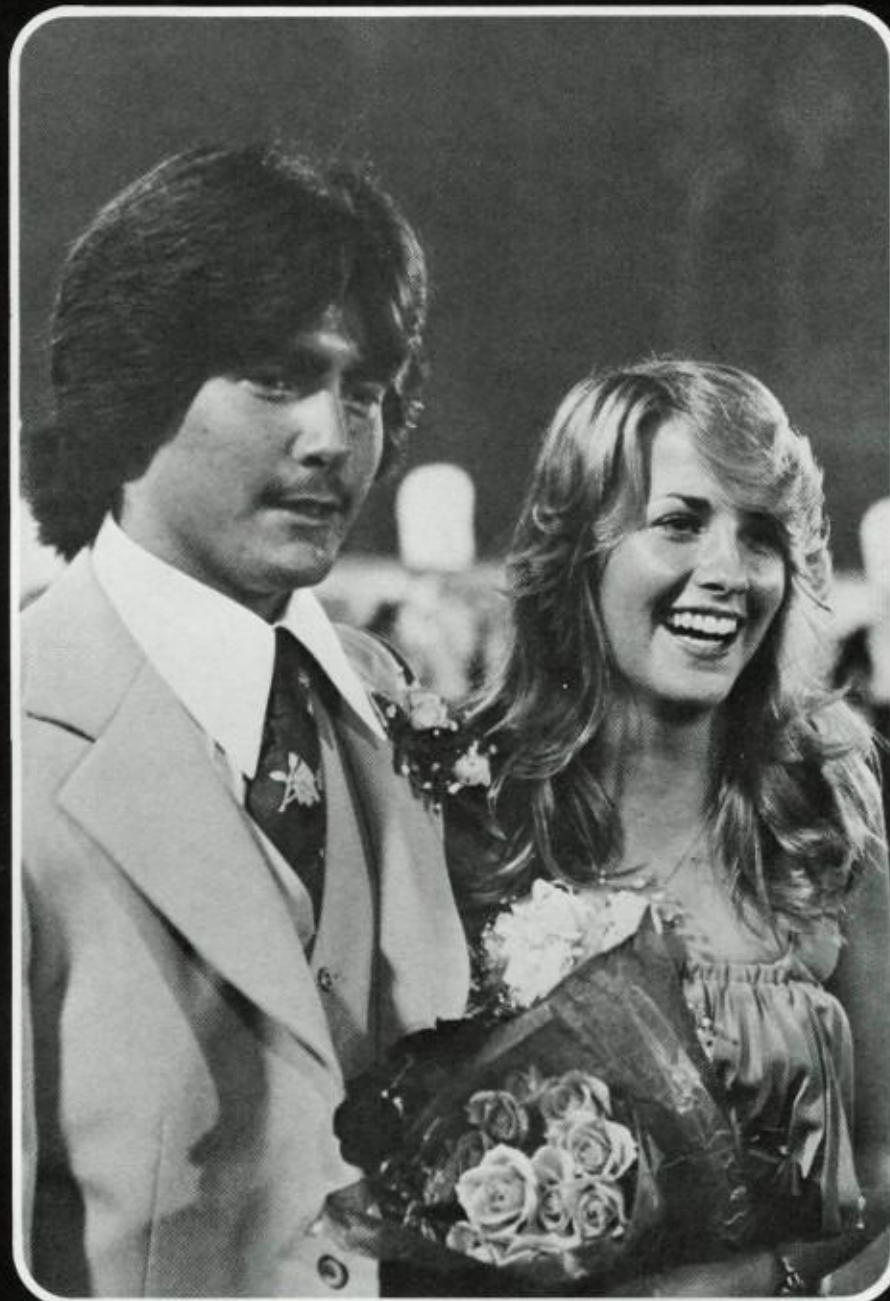

"As time goes by"

Theme set mood for Anahi Homecoming '77

ALTHOUGH the Colony lost its homecoming game to Savanna, the excitement of the dance and the festivities made it a very memorable event. Spirit week roused the student's attention as many dressed-up for each of the days. The senior officers, class advisers and a voluntary committee worked hard in preparation for the dance. Saturday morning found many at the Fullerton Student Center, the location of the homecoming dance, decorating the hall.

'As time goes by' was the theme chosen, and it appropriately set the mood for Saturday night's dance. The coronation of Tanza Treece and Mark Amador as queen and king highlighted the evening and made it a very special occasion for all.

SOPHOMORE ATTENDANT Tammey Hemerick and junior attendant Maria Gerace, chosen by their respective classes to represent them, proudly ride past the crowd cheering stands.

DURING THE HALFTIME SHOW at the Anaheim-Savanna football game, the '77 Homecoming Court was announced. Last year's queen and king, Laura Robinson and Stan Pinmental assisted.

TANZA TREECE and MARK AMADOR, chosen by their peers to reign as homecoming queen and king for 1977-78, thrilled in the excitement as their announcement was made.

HOPE WALTER and BILL HALEY were honored by their classmates to serve as princess and prince. Actively participating in this special event, they were an asset to the court.

ALSO ADDING to the court were Prince David Ponce and Princess Susan Porter. Both enjoyed participating in sports on Anaheim's campus.

ALTHOUGH THE BAND originally scheduled to perform could not make it, Connies and Clems enjoyed dancing to a new band's music.

Spirit week fired up Colonists

TO BREAK the monotony of everyday attire the Anaheim student body can rely on spirit week. For one week, which also was homecoming week, the students dressed according to designated days. Monday was Tourist Day and we all know how a tourist dresses, the classic getup was dark glasses, a camera around one's neck and the inevitable Mickey Mouse t-shirt. Tuesday the Connies dressed as Clems and the Clems as Connies signifying Turnabout Day. As the week progresses Wednesday means Sport's Day to the Colonists. Several groups dressed as teams such as roller-skating teams displaying excessive school spirit. Thursday brought with it Color Day. With the homecoming game on Thursday there was quite a few gold and bluers on campus. And Friday revealed the untidy side of Colonists as it was Bum Day. Spirit week certainly aroused the spirit in everyone.

COLOR DAY WAS THURSDAY as was the homecoming game. Suzi Linn and Lynn Terrell said the traditional alma mater after the game. The alma mater is engraved in the heart of every Colonist.

SPIRIT WEEK kept all the students busy and very enthusiastic throughout the week. Deby Zimmerman showed her school spirit on Monday which was Tourist Day. Deby looked like a visitor just walking out of D-land.

ONE OF THE COMICAL lunch-time activities included the homecoming court gals making the guys faces up with makeup. The court was Hope Walter, Robert Or-low, Tanza Treece, Mark Amador, Susan Porter, David Ponce, Rick Taipale, Maria Gerace, Tammy Hemrick, and Mark Conrad. The activity drew a spirited crowd.

CAUGHT CHECKING OUT the "Hot-spots" in town were "tourists" Shelley Frawley, and Susan Gunderson. Though cameras and Mickey Mouse t-shirts are definite tourist traits, the students originality used many items to their avail.

A FAVORITE DAY for many Colonists was Sport's Day, Wednesday. Acknowledging this occasion was Heather Lamb, and Lana Carol. Anaheim looked like an athletic camp with every sport imaginable depicted.

Hey, Naked Lady

HHEY, Naked Lady" proved the importance of making an attempt. Jody Culligan, a vigorous young woman who wanted only "to be recognized as a person" and an elderly gentleman, Robert Wexler, who wanted to feel useful, helped each other lessen the generation gap. Also living in the same apartment were Paula Graig and Stanley Garyson, two lovers both waiting to break into show biz. Mrs. Bernadine Dill, the building superintendent, only lived a simple way, until Wexler stepped in to spicen her life. Hudson was a drug addict who leached off Jody and later robbed her apartment. The naked lady stood outside on a window sill and was greeted by everyone coming and going. In the end, she too was seen attempting to get along and to see things from other's view, as she finally put on her clothes.

CAST - David Bongiovanni, Hudson; Lisa Detanna, Paula Craig; Beth De Wott, Bernadine Dill; Robert Miranda, Stanely Grayson; Stacy Hollister, Jody Culli-gan; Tom Sanders, Robert Wexler. With the able direction of Mr. Richard Lovegren and student director, Steve Wehn, the cast presented "The Naked Lady".

WITH A LAST ATTEMPT, Hudson pleaded with Jody to let him stay. Hudson, an unemployed poet, couldn't pay his rent.

JODY AND PAULA SHOWED their compatibility as they often had trivial disagreements. Both played very colorful characters.

AFTER HE HAD BEEN ACCEPTED to do a television commercial, Grayson jumped around and visualized his sparkling future.

IN A QUIET AND ROMANTIC scene, Wexler and Mrs. Dill sipped wine before dining on burnt TV dinners and potatoe chips.

DESPERATE FOR MONEY for a fix, Hudson returned to the apartment; he demanded money from Wexler and Mrs. Dill.

WITH FEELINGS of understanding, Wexler and Jody said their good-byes. Through each other, they learned about themselves.

IN "ALL FOR THE BEST", Jesus (John Sturgis) and Bob Miranda sang of good and evil lives.

SINGING "BY MY SIDE" to Jesus (Matt Doretti), Disciple Rossy Perrotta comforted her Lord.

Cast action in 'Godspell' drew praise

"GODSPELL" razzled and dazzled the audience with colorful costumes and magical language. Double cast, John Sturgis and Matt Doretti portrayed Jesus Christ. Bobby Miranda, a third year thespian, did the dual role first as John the Baptist and later as Judas Iscariot. The rest of the cast made-up the disciples: Lisa Detanna, Todd Faux, Diane Gates, Stacy Hollister, Mary Johnson, Jim Maldonado, Linda Martz, Cassie Miller, Bob Mispagel, Andrea Palombo, Rossy Perrotta, and Craig Underwood. The musical was again under the direction of Mr. Richard Lovegren with the assistance of Steve Wehn. Keith Hendon and Bev Wisniewski did the choreography; Glen Mehrbach, the musical direction; and Steven Schwaer, set construction. Poster/program design was the unique creation of alumnus, Mr. Lester Luzar.

Based on the Gospel according to Saint Matthew, "Godspell" portrayed Christ and His disciples as clowns. In each parable, a different technique was used to narrate the moral; some used sign language, others mime, and still others with the use of song and dance. The real message transmitted through the story, said Lovegren, was, "What is most needed today is the loving simplicity and humor of a clown." Climaxed by the Last Supper and Crucifixion, the audience was moved by the impact of the cast's acting abilities and dramatizations. "Godspell" was a most colorful and thought provoking musical.

NAILED TO THE CROSS, JESUS (John Sturgis) looked toward His Father in Heaven and cried, "Oh God, I'm dying." At his feet, His followers trembled and wept in ignorance. Dancing to "We Beseech Thee," Bob Miranda and Cassie Miller backed-up Disciple Bob Mispagel as he ran through the audience singing of praise and his love for Jesus.

DURING THE CRUCIFIXION the people reached out to God with mixed emotions of love, fear, and sorrow, as the dark approached.

"TURN BACK, O MAN" had Lisa Detanna tempting Christ. The song begged Doretti to turn from his religious way of life.

LINED-UP AFTER BEING BAPTISED, the followers of The Messiah sang "Save the People" in expression of their new found joy.

Dances provided varied interests

DANCES were very much a part of what was happening this year at Anaheim. Dances included were the Can Food Dance, the Winter Formal, and the Big Bop dance. Held in December, the Can Food Dance enabled students to attend for the reasonable price of one can of food, which was used to feed the poor at Christmas. "A Sleigh Ride to Fantasy," the theme of this year's Winter Formal. It was bolstered by "Giant City," the evenings band. The Winter dance was held at the Buena Park Community Center in January and was co-sponsored by the Girls' League and Varsity A. The annual Big Bop Dance brought students back into the days of the 50's. After a time of bopping on the dance floor, Pop's Malt Shop provided ice cream, root beer floats, malts, gum, and licorice for all the students that attended the wild Big Bop.

MOLLY CASSFORD, experiencing the "good ole" days of the 50's, participated in the annual Big Bop dance by dancing to that era's "Rock-n-Roll." Students enjoyed escaping from reality for the short time of the dance.

AFTER PAYING an admission fee of one can of food, Anahi students were able to attend a December dance in the cafeteria. The annual Can Food Dance helped to provide food for the poor during the Christmas season.

TONY FREEMAN, photography teacher at Anahi, contributed his efforts by photographing couples attending the Big Bop dance in February. Using a jute box for background, Freeman captured the spirit of the 50's on paper.

ORIGINALLY NAMED a victory dance, organizers soon decided to change the name to an after the game dance, even before the resulting loss of the basketball game. The students that attended certainly enjoyed it.

THE MAIN ATTRACTION of the Big Bop dance was to dress and dance in the style of the 50's. Students revealed their talents while dancing on the gym floor. Some students spent their time hanging out at the malt shop.

AFTER A TIME of fast dancing and slow dancing to the magnetic music of "Giant City", there was plenty of refreshing punch for the thirst-stricken students, who attended the Winter Formal dance held annually at mid-year.

SADIE HAWKINS DANCE

Grab your date!

THE ANNUAL Sadie Hawkins dance, sponsored by Girls' League, provided its usual fun and entertainment. Connies and clegs danced to the music of "Legacy" and enjoyed the tradition of getting hitched by "Marr'in Sam." Photographs were taken by Mr. Freeman, who arranged students on an original worn shanty background.

Anticipating a smaller crowd than in recent years, the Girls' League board elected not to have such a variety of booths because of the money involved to run them. But there was the customary General Store, Divorce Court, and "Marr'in Sam." Although the turnout was not as good as in the past — it was a monetary success.

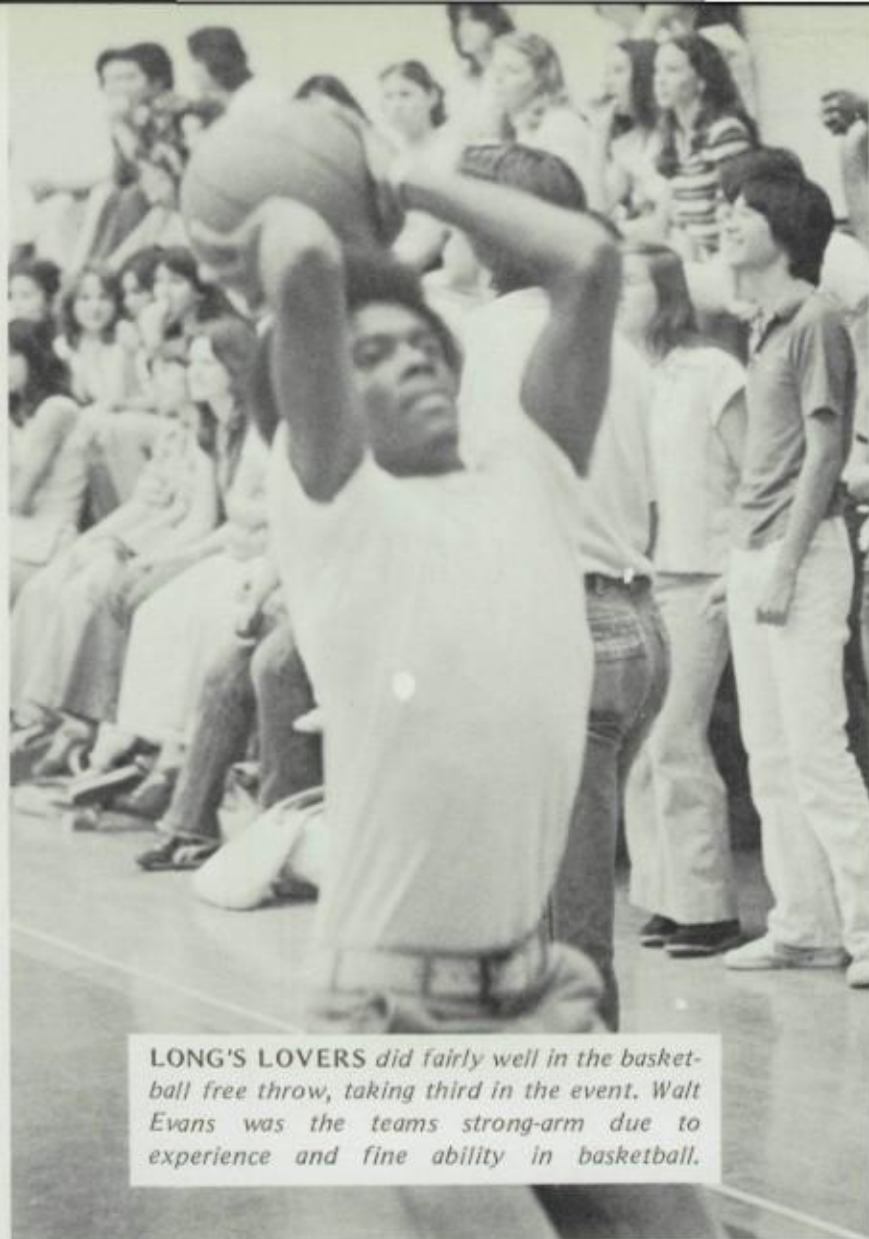

ANNA BRADLEY AND HER DATE are shown getting hitched by "Marr'in Sam", Howard Terry. This was the gals chance to get hooked to their favorite guy.

Super Teams week enjoyed by many

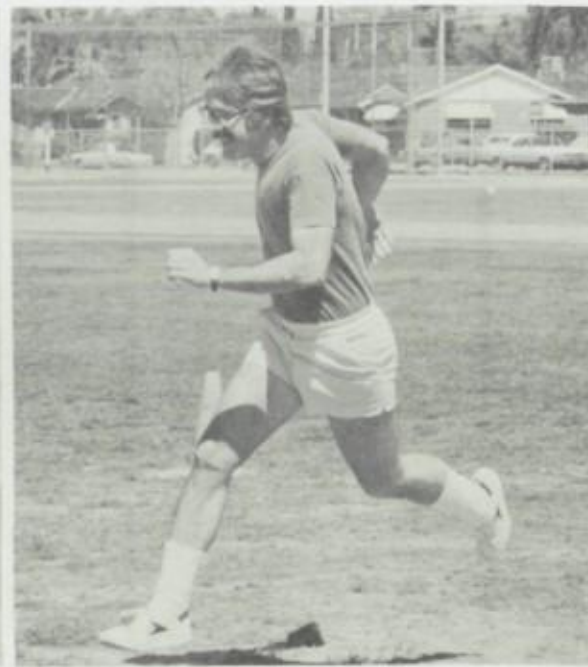

PROMOTING mid-year spirit was Super Teams week, a long awaited event for many Colonists. It was a week long drama of who would win the championship trophy and enjoy a free party. Fruit Pies won the contest with 97 points, with Mania Mualers taking a close second with 96 points. Quille's Kumquats took third place with 86 points.

The week started off with a volleyball game won by Cross Encounters, 11-6. Following the volleyball game were, Tuesday-inner tube races-Wilson's Wallopers, Wednesday izzy dizzy relay-Robert's Ruff Raiders, Thursday-Big Wheel race-Quille's Kumquats, and Friday-free throw-Mahaffie's Musketeers. The Tug-o-War prelims were also held Friday with the top eight teams competing in the finals held that night at a victory dance.

Much time and effort from the Varsity A went into making the week a huge and memorable success.

LONG'S LOVERS did fairly well in the basketball free throw, taking third in the event. Walt Evans was the team's strong-arm due to experience and fine ability in basketball.

SUPER TEAMS proved to be a very entertaining event for many Colonists. Laura Ibsen displays her aquatic abilities in the highly popular inner tube race while Andrea Palumbo splashed through the water to an awaiting teammate. Mr. Clement used the izzy dizzy relay as a rationalization for his instability when in actuality he ran amok.

THE IZZY DIZZY RELAY was one of the favorite among the events of Super Team week. Colonists were to base their heads on a baseball bat and spin around in a full circle eight times. Contestants needed agility.

Court dominated Mayo Festivities

CINCO de Mayo celebration, a fast growing tradition at Anahi's campus, involved much preparation from staff members and students. The highlight of the celebration on campus was the queen contest. The Title I Parent Advisory Committee sponsored the contest and had various engagements for the candidates to participate in. Some of these dates included a breakfast with Mayor Bill Thom and Mr. Dale Schroder and Mr. Robert Cross, school principals. The girls were also invited to dinner at the South Coast Plaza, where a handsome group of Mariachis serenaded them.

The queen received a $300 scholarship, free dancing lessons, and a trip to Guadalajara. Mayor Thom crowned the queen at the Coronation Dance on April 28. On April 30, the Cinco de Mayo Queen and her court reigned over the day-long festivity filled with much food, entertainment, and a competitive soccer game.

Thanks to Mrs. Helen Daniels and others, the Cinco de Mayo queen celebration was a wonderful success.

COORDINATORS OF Cinco de Mayo activities, Mrs. Grace Roundtree and Mrs. Jo Flores, excelerated much time and effort into having a smooth running festival. Appreciation was bestowed upon these ladies.

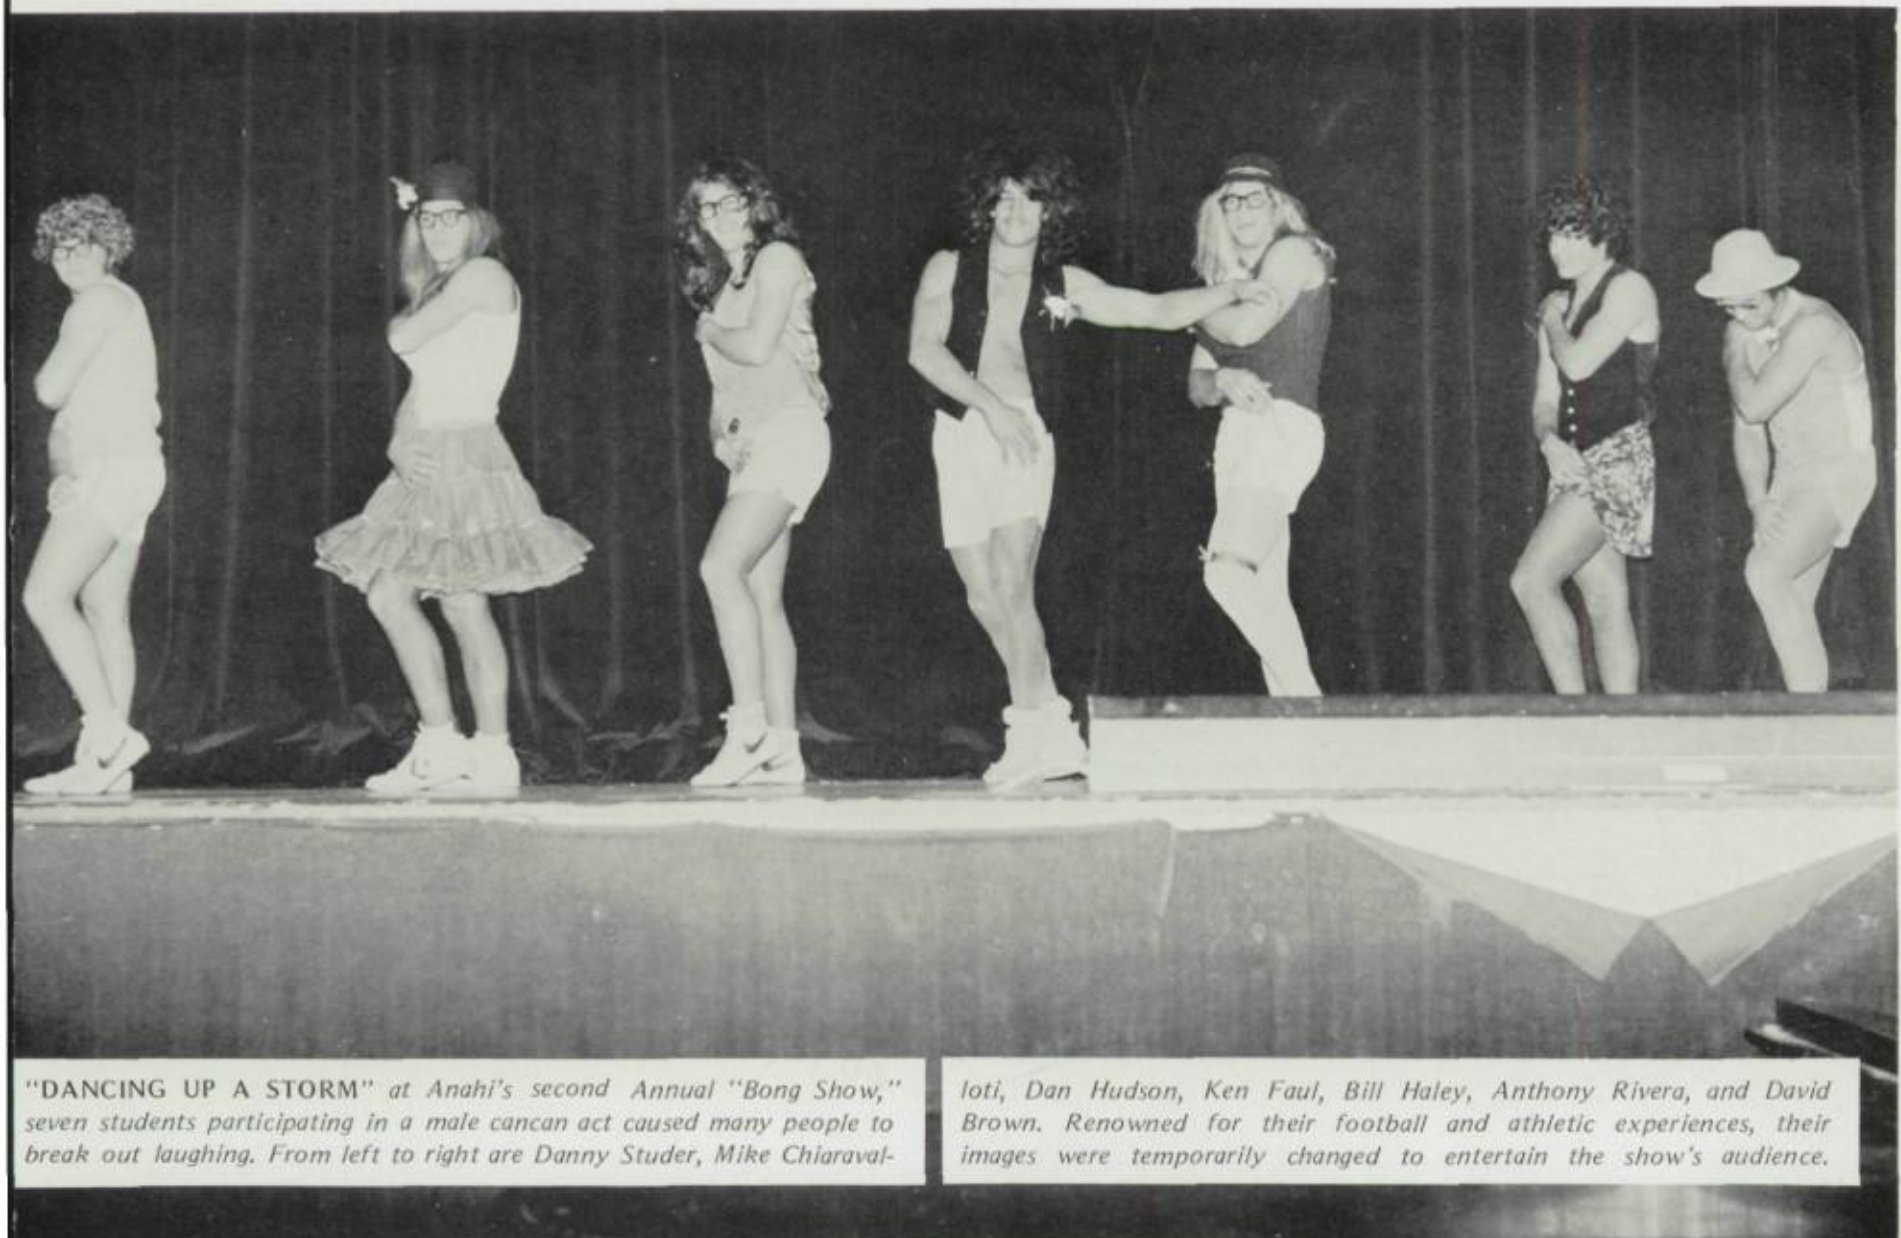

TOP ROW: Susan Aceves, Dora Lopez, Chip Disney of the famous duo Chip and Dale, Annette Guiterrez, Charlene Ruele, Patty Rivas. Front Row: Maria Acevedo, former Queen Yasmin Miramontes, Irma Alvarez. The candidates for Cinco de Mayo enjoyed spending a day at Disneyland.

Show highlighted wedded twosome

THE BONG Show got the bong," criticized Bill Daly, English teacher at Anahi, about a two-hour talent show dominated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Savage, a male can can act, and an array of egg throwing. After paying a $1 admission fee, students were "entertained" by acts performed by their peers. A take-off from the popular "Gong Show" on television, Anahi's "Bong Show" was presented in a similar manner. Because they were being rated by three judges during their performances, the amateur entertainers tried to put on a good show. Jack Clement, Dave Motyka, and Daly, three educators of Anahi, were the judges of the show. During tense moments of performance, identified flying objects, namely eggs, interrupted student's acts, dirtied the stage, and damaged Daly's expensive suit.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT SAVAGE, featured couple of Anahi's second "Bong Show," entertained the many patrons attending. A re-enactment of this twosome's marriage created a lot of emotion from the audience.

loti, Dan Hudson, Ken Faul, Bill Haley, Anthony Rivera, and David Brown. Renowned for their football and athletic experiences, their images were temporarily changed to entertain the show's audience.

'78 Cheerleaders aroused spirits

BOUNCING with enthusiasm the cheer and song leaders went through their ritual in supporting all Anahi athletic teams — putting their time, effort, and hard work into "the cause." Often, times their ceaseless exhortations and voices of encouragement made the difference between victory and defeat. All this excitement was promoted through signs, attendance, and chants. The girls frequently gave up much spare time to learn and practice many synchronized routines, as well as to originate numerous spirit raising skits for pep assemblies before the big games.

Cathy Richardson performed as head cheerleader, making final decisions on new cheers, and Lynn Terrell held the position of head song leader. Both had many added responsibilities. All the girls worked with Howard Terry, cheerleader adviser this year for the first time. He helped them with new ideas, on money raising projects and practice.

JV's, sophs led students by cheering

JUNIOR Varsity, Sophomore cheerleaders worked together throughout the year in practices, assemblies and competitions, but worked as individual squads as well. They promoted spirit for the JV and sophomore athletic teams. It was a difficult job because the crowds to these games were small due to lack of support from Anahi Colonists, whom most leaned their attention toward the Varsity teams. Wendy Treece did not let this bother her, as head JV cheerleader, nor did it stop Patty Dugard, head sophomore cheerleader, from doing her duties of arranging various practice sessions.

JUNIOR VARSITY CHEERLEADERS — Molly Cassford, Wendy Treece, Bronwyn Llewellyn, Debbie Acuna, and Norma Guevara displayed their talents in an original stunt on the girls' P.E. field wearing their blue and gold uniforms. They all enjoyed their junior year as cheerleaders.

SOPHOMORE CHEERLEADERS — Barbie Brunick, Karol Barber, Patty Dugard, Donna Mispagel, and Shirley Vienna assembled a stunt they originated at a cheerleading camp last summer, which helped them with new ideas.

LEADING THE JUNIOR CLASS in the cheers at a pep assembly was Molly Cassford, Wendy Treece, and Bronwyn Llewellyn. The pep assemblies were lots of fun and got everyone "a little bit rowdy" for the upcoming events.

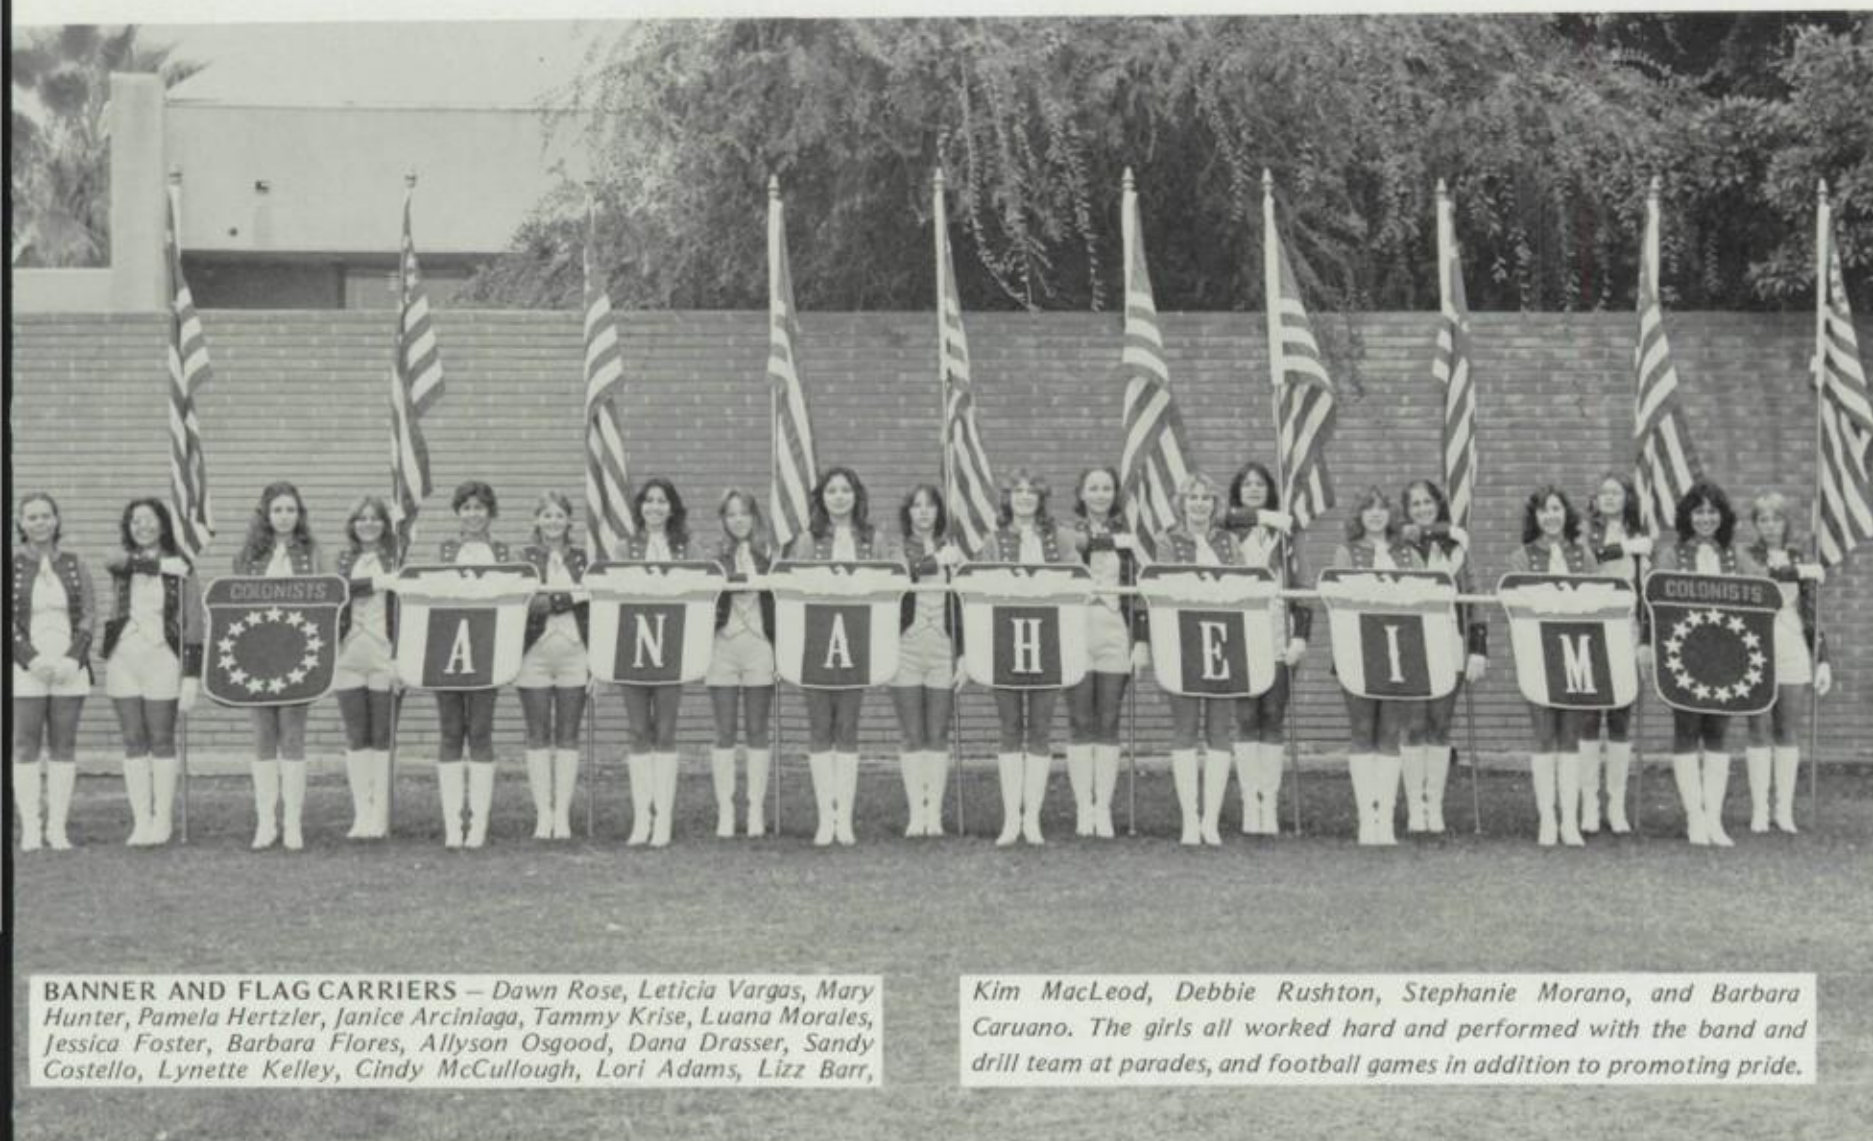

GATHERING AROUND the band circle after morning practice, several banner and flag girls, wearing their blue and gold Friday uniforms, talked over plans and routines for upcoming parades and football games.

Banner-Flag girls promoted spirit

EXPRESSING pride and spirit for Anaheim High School were the banner and flag carriers in the many parades, competitions, assemblies, and all home football halftime shows. The girls worked with Anaheim's band and drill team every morning before school, during football season, practicing for these events. These early morning practices provided the opportunity for the girls to get to know each other better as well as the members of the band and drill team.

Ron Davis, band director and Louis Lance, banner and flag carriers' adviser, steered the girls toward an exciting, in addition to a very successful year. All the girls worked well together because of the unifying power that Anaheim High School is justly proud.

Dawn Rose held the position of head flag and Pamela Hertzler was her assistant. Head banner was Dana Drasser; Lynette Kelley served as her assistant. These girls had many responsibilities; they kept track of all the equipment and their maintenance and kept pattern records.

BANNER AND FLAG CARRIERS — Dawn Rose, Leticia Vargas, Mary Hunter, Pamela Hertzler, Janice Arciniaga, Tammy Krise, Luana Morales, Jessica Foster, Barbara Flores, Allyson Osgood, Dana Drasser, Sandy Costello, Lynette Kelley, Cindy McCullough, Lori Adams, Lizz Barr, Kim MacLeod, Debbie Rushton, Stephanie Morano, and Barbara Caruano. The girls all worked hard and performed with the band and drill team at parades, and football games in addition to promoting pride.

PRACTICING ROUTINES every morning and sometimes after school for drill team competition was part of the dedication put out by the drill team members. All the girls worked very diligently for a highly successful year.

HELPING ADVISER MRS. LANCE with drill team was head leader Jennie Downs and first assistant Linda Haddock. The leaders worked well together to create some of the squad routines used for halftime and other shows.

Steppers perform for Anaheim fans

ALTHOUGH the drill team was small this year it didn't keep them from maintaining their school spirit for Anaheim High School.

Directing the squad for her second year was adviser Mrs. Lance. Acting as head leader was Jennie Downs and helping her was first assistant Linda Haddock.

The girls participated in many activities throughout most of the year, such as paper drives, parades, and also performing halftime routines at home football games.

The highlight of the year was being involved in the fifteenth band and drill team spectacular held annually at the Anaheim Stadium. The girls put in much work.

BEFORE THE HOMECOMING GAME started the drill team did a routine, marching alongside to the music of the band and they also added to the excitement of the evening. Shown is Jennie Downs, the drillers head leader.

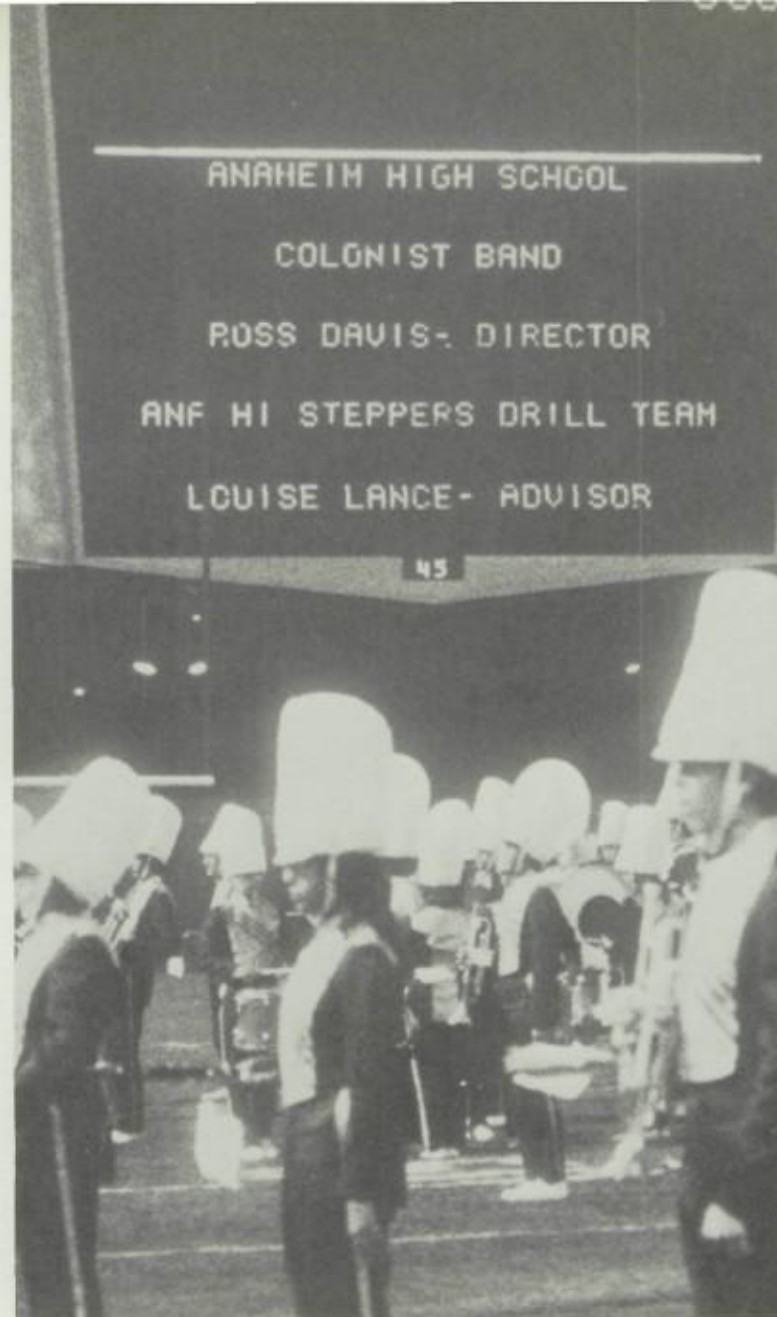

ADVISER, MRS. LEONA LANCE was a great asset to this years drill team. She helped the girls work for a more exciting year, while the team participation and dedication led to a most rewarding year under her supervision.

MARCHING BAND spent another fun-filled year with Orlena Johnson as drum major. She proved to be quite valuable as the band fared well through competitions in Colton, Santa Monica, Lester Oaks, and West Arcadia. Not all of the band's efforts were spent for contests. During football games, they entertained half-time audiences and increased the enthusiasm of the crowd with its music. The band and its banner carriers were a part of Anaheim's Halloween Festival as they marched in the Halloween Parade.

Ross Davis, instructing Anahi's band for his eleventh year, exerted great effort to help the band perfect its routines. The individual band members also put great amounts of time and effort to improve their music and formations.

Marching Band for the 1977-1978 year was an important part of Anaheim's happenings, and its spirit long remembered.

SENIOR ORLENA JOHNSON spent her second year as drum major for Marching Band. She proved to be a valuable asset as she led the band to many competition victories. Her previous experience contributed to the organization and successes.

Musical groups enjoyed junket

SECOND semester witnessed the annual creation of Concert Band I and Concert Band II. Much time was devoted by Anaheim students preparing for the annual Band Festival held March 14-16. Other bands doing their share for Anaheim were the Pep and Stage Bands. After months of preparation, the band highlighted its year with a trip to San Francisco. Band members embarked on their journey the morning of May 18 as they and their adult chaperones boarded waiting buses. After five days of visiting the Golden Gate Bridge, Fisherman's Wharf, and Alcatraz, the time had come to return to Anaheim High School.

PLAYING SOME of the more popular songs of today were the members of Stage Band. Practicing during fourth period under Ross Davis' leadership, its songs were a memorable part of Anaheim's happenings.

Mozart choir entertained many listeners

ENTERTAINING a large capacity of viewers throughout the year was the Anaheim Mozart Choir. Under the direction of John Walker the choir spent numerous hours of rehearsals before and after school perfecting their performances to achieve superior tone quality. Mary Johnson the president of the choir and other members volunteered much of their time and effort coordinating stage routines and costumes for different shows. The choir's first stage production was the Thanksgiving program held in the school auditorium. During the Christmas holidays the choir attended various engagements. The "Holiday in Music" held at the Anaheim Convention Center was the major event of the season. Other renditions included visits to elderly homes, variety shows, banquets, annual music and school concerts among other events. The Troubadours upheld an old school tradition of pride and success.

MANY OF THE MEMBERS of Mozart would spend their lunchtime in the music room working on choreography for upcoming performances. Robert Miranda, Mary Johnson and Dean Brown were well equipped talently for this task.

"THE GROUP IS ONLY as good as its leader." This phrase corresponded with the relationship between John Walker and choir members. He spent many hours devoting his musical abilities for the benefit of the choir.

Mozart

Concert Choir sang to audiences

ENTHUSIASTIC members of Concert Choir accomplished a great deal of work during the year. With the aid of director John Walker the members were able to perform with great ability. The small group of members transformed their voices into a harmonized choir. Striving for quality sound was the basis of meeting daily.

A change in the music department this past year led to the combining of Mixed and Advanced glees which created the Concert Choir. The engagements of the year included school performances accompanying the Mozart Choir, the annual Christmas "Holiday in Music", and various music festivals among other events. John Walker agreed that the choir members were a cooperative, energetic and reliable group of students to work with.

The 1977-78 school year for Concert Choir proved to be a substantial gain for the reputable Anahi Colonists.

CHOIR MEMBERS REVEALED their interest by expanding their musical talents. Grace Chikui, Tammy Logon and Jennifer Dow cooperated with the instructor for the choir's benefit.

COACHING TO THE BEST of his ability to attain perfection in music, John Walker listened for flaws to improve the groups choral qualities.

SHOWING A GREAT DEAL of enthusiasm, Robert Savage performed exceptionally well in a choir surrounded by talented ladies. Robert was the only male student in the group and concluded that it was a rewarding time.

BEING VETERANS of the group Mary Hunter and Jill Donaghey discovered the proper way of putting away their choir robes. Their performing attire consisted of a sparkling blue robe with a dark gold strip lining the collar.

Students partook in American life

TRAVELLING to the United States from various areas of the globe were five foreign exchange students who attended Anaheim for the '78 school year. By way of the Youth for Understanding program, the students were enabled to reside with various families. The students were warmly welcomed and soon adjusted to the daily routines.

Both Sali Keiso and Sisko Hallavaino journeyed from Finland to the arousement and outgoing life in Anaheim. The girls found the weather very pleasant as well as the Americans.

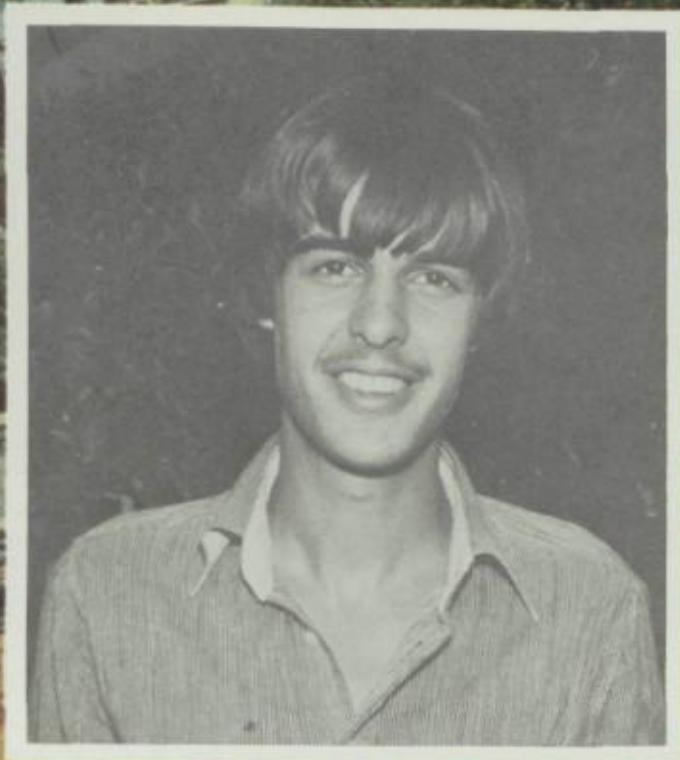

Zolton Jokay flew over from Germany and found Anaheim to be very exciting. During lunch time Jokay had the opportunity to exchange ideas and opinions with his new found colonist friends.

Leaving the lands of windmills and dikes in Holland Erwin Van Damme became a liberated American for a year! girls and food were among his favorite attractions in America.

Samuel Moreno traveled to California from our neighboring country Mexico. He kept busy getting involved in Anahi sports.

Arriving second semester, Antonio Santo ventured to California from his native home in Brazil. Santo quickly simulated into the Colonist crowd.

To learn the American way of life and continue their education was the primary interest that lured the foreign exchange students to study abroad.

SAMUEL MORENO was involved in water polo and swimming. Moreno enjoyed staying with Coach Wagon-Weber while at the same time improved his skills.

TAKING PICTURES was one of Erwin Van Damme's past times on campus. Van Damme felt that he learned a lot in photography and expanded his knowledge in it.

QUIET, BUT WELL LIKED Sisko Hallavaino found Anahi students very friendly and outgoing. The sunny California weather impressed Hallavaino the most.

SAILA KOISO soon adjusted to the California way of life. She was president of the International Relation Council and also partook in cross country at Anahi.

CURRENT ISSUES kept Zoltan Jakay informed with the daily news. Jakay was enrolled in photography and drawing which were among his favorite classes.

SOCCER PRACTICE AND SURFING were among Antonio Santos extra-curricular activities. Economics kept him busy for it was his most difficult class.

"ANORANCO" PAGE EDITORS — Dora Lopez, Clubicity; David Rowe, Sports; and Sherri Platfoot, Features. It was the job of the editors to hunt out stories, assign them, paste up the dummies, and write headlines. STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS — Tim Coombs, Dan Duquette, Brad Bradley, and Doug Pettibone. Led by Coombs, the four shot photos for the "Anoranco" and "Vintage", to photo record a part of what's happening.

AS EDITOR-IN-CHIEF of "Vintage", Cindy Stewart showed Duane Julian uses of layout charts. As co-editor in 1977 and editor at her junior high school, Stewart came well qualified.

"ANORANCO" ASSOCIATE EDITOR, Jeff Renk and editor-in-chief, Jolyn Thomsen, together ironed out the problems of the school newspaper.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR of the yearbook, Steve Loeschen and staff adviser, Bill Daly, looked over important matters and checked photos by phone.

IN HOPES of capturing the highlights of the 1977-78 school year, the "Vintage" and "Anoranco" staff did its best to create an effective memorable yearbook and to accurately report Anahi news, through monthly newspapers.

Summer meetings, Saturday work days, and night colloquies were necessities of producing a meaningful yearbook and an informative newspaper. For a money raising project, the staffers operated the concession stand at Glover Stadium during home football games. Between hot dogs, broken coffee pots, and understaffed half-times, the "Vintage" workers were able to earn enough for the yearbook and "Anoranco" to stand on its own and to hire a photographer from Arsene Studio.

Much gratitude went to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, owners of Arsene Studio; and to Mr. Dirk Ernst, also of Arsene's, for all their extra efforts and work toward producing this book.

SEVENTY-EIGHT was a year of rapidly declining memberships in clubs. Although club registration dropped considerably from past years, the clubs that managed to stay alive, kept many active and interested students busy. Among the active clubs were Pep club, Kewanettes, German club and Varsity A.

The Varsity A club was the sponsor for the Super Star week for the third year in a row. Clubs and homeroom classes all submitted entrees that represented the club. The activities ranged from izzy-dizzy relays to a super strength tug-a-war.

The Ski Club was the most active it's been in years. Besides short ski ventures to local Snow Summit, the skiers went to Utah where they skied Snow Bird, Park City, and Alta.

All in all, those clubs that remained together this year, were certainly a part of what's happening at the Colony.

GIVING MEMBERS the opportunity to talk to one another about the relationship between America and other countries, International Relations Club meetings were advantageous.

BARELY LOSING Anahi's Kiwanis Bowl Competition, Laura Ibsen, Linda Martz, Lisa Gondek, and Brian Roberts, members of French Club, placed second after a close final round. French Club was out in front in the final round till Press Club turned the tables & won.

K-Bowl, IR Club excited campus

ANSWERING factual questions about math, science, and literature, students competed in the annual Kiwanis Bowl Competition again this year. After a grueling final round with the French Club, Anahi's Press Club won the competition which was held on our campus. Outstanding players were then chosen by bowl judges to represent their school in interscholastic competitions with teams of other schools.

International Relations Club, previously named the Foreign Exchange Club, also was a part of what was happening this year at Anaheim. Composed of both foreign exchange students and native Anaheim students, the club tried to enlighten students with cultures of foreign countries. For many, this club was an exciting aspect of Anahi.

SAILA KOISO, president of International Relations Club, led members through an organized year of activities. A foreign exchange student from Finland, Koiso taught members the culture of her country.

Key Clubs aided community

ONCE again one of the more active groups on campus are Key and Keywanettes Club. Acting as adviser for both clubs was Bill Daly. Key members participated and kept active more than they have in past years. Some of the events of the year were balloon sales, Christmas pancake ticket sales, and a basketball game with some local disc jockeys. But all the events were not work — some of the special events were car rallies, swim party, and also a picnic with Keywanette members. This was a successful year for Key Club members.

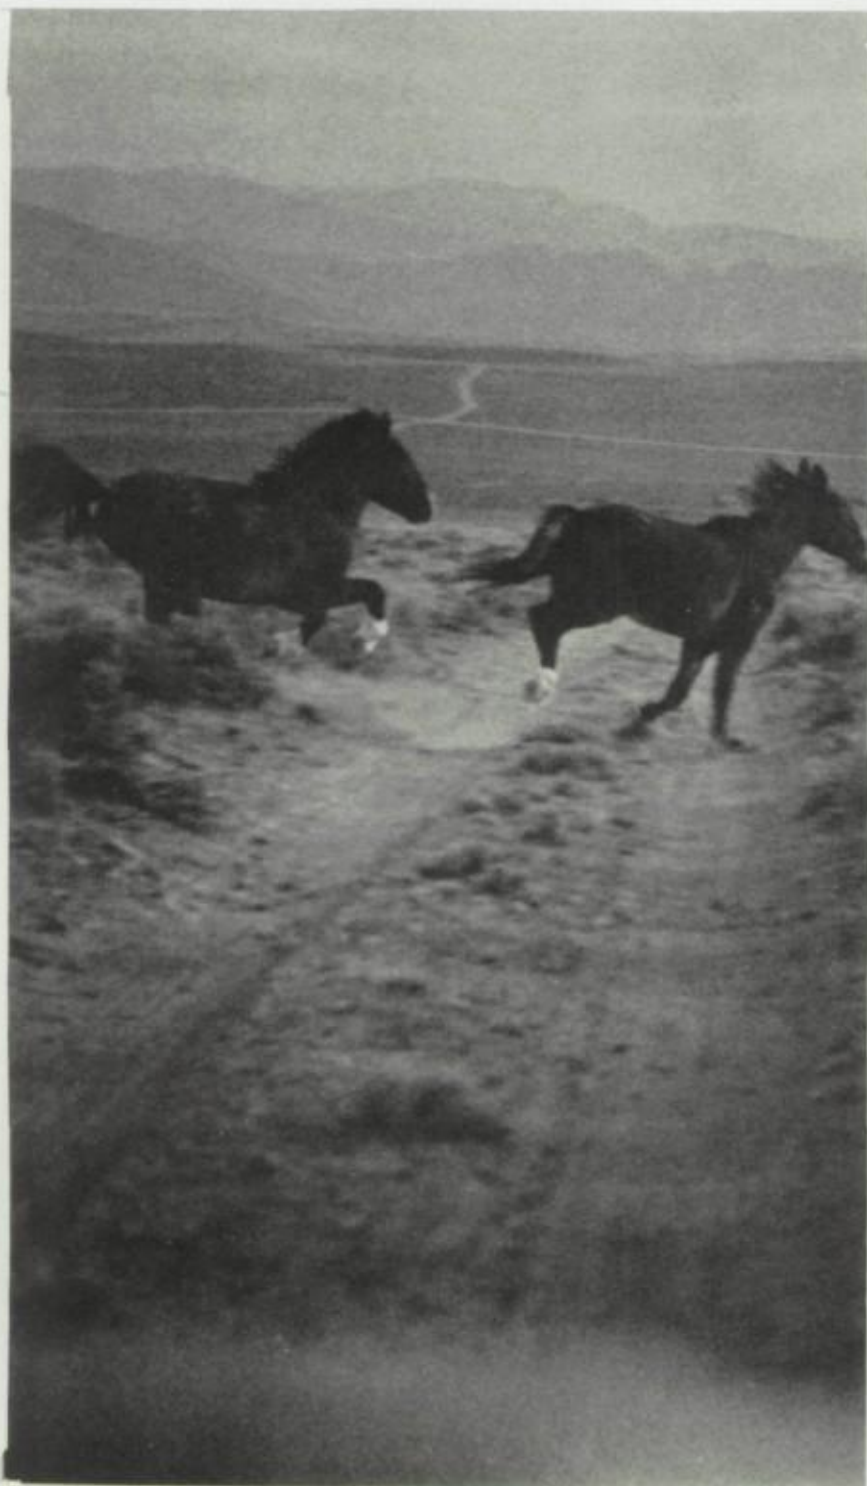

Keywanettes also kept very busy this year by starting the year with an active schedule. The girls took occasional visits to a convalescent home, and other activities were a Halloween Party, a picnic with Key Club and highlighting the year was a snow trip to Lake Arrowhead. Also, helping out by selling pancake breakfast tickets sponsored by Kiwanis men. Every Thursday someone was chosen to attend the weekly Kiwanis Breakfast at Disneyland Hotel. Both Key Club and Keywanettes are to serve the community. Kiwanis sponsored both clubs.

Various trips filled agenda

UNDER the direction of Tim Coombs, president and Tony Freeman, adviser, Anaheim had a very successful Photo Club this year. Some of the major activities on this year's agenda included various field trips to Los Angeles International Airport, Ports O' Call and the Laserium located in Hollywood. Shooting couples at dances to raise funds for the photo department was also on the schedule. Some of the other activities included entering many photo contests, such as the National Scholastic Photo Awards and the Los Angeles County Fair. Other trips were taken in search of the outstanding photo such as traveling to the beach to shoot the surf and surfers. Concluding a very successful year, Freeman and his crew returned to Yosemite.

PRESIDING OVER Varsity A during one of their many meetings were Matt Doretti, president; Dan Tambourine, secretary, and Randy Horton, treasurer. This trio provided ample leadership.

MATT DORETTI, president discussed plans with club adviser, Roger Stahlhut about the basketball competition during Super Teams week. Stahlhut supervised the club's activities.

A COUPLE OF ENTHUSIASTIC YOUTHS involved in Anaheim's Varsity A Club were Randy Horton and Robert Orlow, vice-president. An event of Varsity A was sponsoring Super Teams.

Varsity group = had fine year =

The club's members were led by Matt Doretti, president; Robert Orlow, vice-president; Dan Tambourine, secretary; and Randy Horton, treasurer. The club inspired many students with its varied activities this year.

Spirits kept high with such events as the first Winter Formal Dance and the third annual Super Team competition. Other beneficial activities included running concession stands at sporting events, car rallies, and serving at the Girls' League dinner. Keeping Anahi's competitive standards high was the lettermen's primary goal.

Girls' League staged happenings

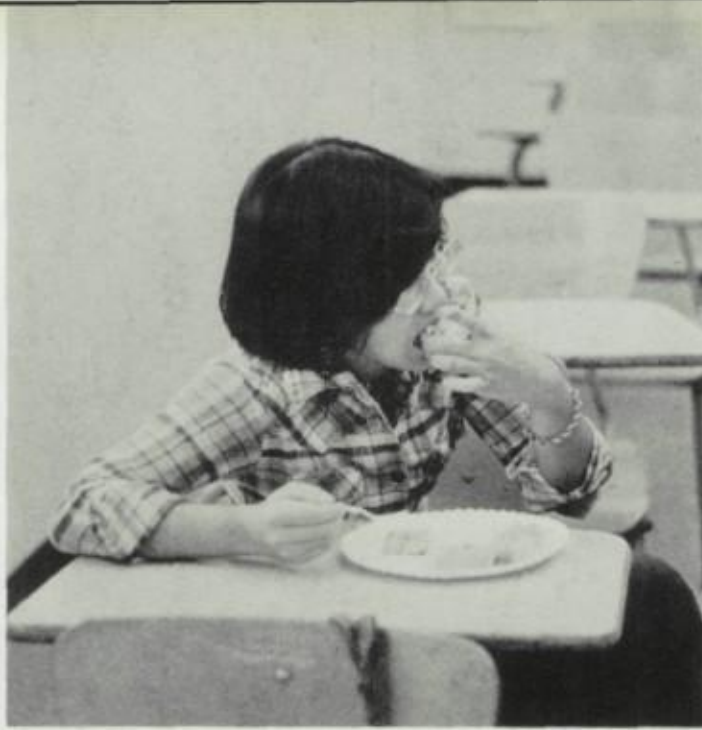

INDEFATIGABLE energy is sponsoring a large number of extra-curricular activities enabled Girls' League to be a part of what was happening this year at Anaheim. Sadie Hawkins, the Winter Formal Dance, an annual Father-Daughter Banquet, a Mother-Daughter social gathering, and an introductory picnic at Pearson Park at the beginning of the school year were many of the highlighted activities of the 1977-78 Girls' League. With the advent of the Homecoming came the traditional mum sale, giving members the opportunity to raise funds in order to increase the amount of money in the club's treasury.

Leading members of Girls' League through an organized year of happenings, the club's board and officers, advised by Mrs. Edna Weir, helped to make Girls' League memorable for all Colonists involved.

JULIE HAFNER and Mary Ann Caskey, two ardent members of Girls' League, provided entertainment at the annual Father-Daughter Banquet by singing Simon and Garfunkel's hit song, "Sound of Silence."

CONSUMING ROAST BEEF in Anahi's cafeteria, Leslie Brown and Doren Grimes, accompanied by their fathers, attended Girls' League annual Father-Daughter Banquet and basketball game afterward.

SOPHOMORE TRINH LUU enjoyed one of the many luncheons that were held by the club. Members of the club found French customs very intriguing, and were eager to learn.

FRENCH CLUB ADVISER Sean Macbeth had trouble deciding which elegant dish to sample first. Macbeth benefitted the club by sharing his knowledge of the French culture.

French Club kept active

ANAHI'S French Club, under the direction of Sean Macbeth, was a rather popular club. All members were interested in learning more about French language and culture. Several luncheons were held by the club to try the various french delicacies. Most members found it to be very intriguing.

SOPHOMORE LAURA IBSEN held the office of vice-president. She put in much time and effort for the benefit of the club. The club was a successful organization.

Colony cared for children

ANAHEIM held a nursery school assistant class for the first time ever. The class occupied two periods of class time with approximately 25 students and 30 children attending. Four days per week children were present, with the other days devoted to planning the other four days. Adviser Hazel Ellis did a beautiful job in directing the students in the field of child care. The students enjoyed learning to direct the children in activities and found it very rewarding. Most important was the fact that the class was enjoyed by the children.

FBLA enjoyed 30th club year

CELEBRATING their 30th anniversary of activity at Anahi this year, members of Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) participated in many worthwhile and educational activities. Included were the FBLA Southern Section Fall Workshop at Fontana High School, a tour of the Nabisco Corporation in Buena Park, and the National Leadership Conference in San Francisco. Raising money by selling food and drinks in a concession stand at home football games, members of FBLA received needed capital in which to work with. Advised by Mr. Cox and Mr. Jachimski, the following officers led the club: Gloria Flores, president; Elizabeth Flores, vice-president; Clara Cummings, secretary; Kevin Platt, treasurer; and Nichole Huyen, reporter.

BECAUSE THEIR MEETINGS WERE less formal and more on a friendly basis, members of FBLA often enjoyed congregating. Mr. Cox, advisor, was grateful for the large size of this year's club.

ELIZABETH FLORES, vice-president of FBLA, took over the responsibility of leading club meetings when the president was unavailable. Her leadership helped to prevent temporary chaos.

Math-Chessers computed wins

"CHECKMATE!" was a familiar exclamation among interested members of the Math-Chess Club this year at Anahi. Because of the small size and mutual interest between the previously distinct clubs, they decided to malgamate. In order to raise money to benefit their club, members of the club sold candy apples at home football games. From the profits, a chess computer was bought for student use, which was an ideal purchase for both aspects of the club. In the spring, members competed with students from other schools in a math contest held at Orange Coast College. Leading the club were Gary Watson, president; Bill McMaken, vice-president, treasurer; and David Lonchar, secretary.

DAVID JOHNSON, a member of the Math-Chess Club, often tested his chess talent by challenging an electronic machine. He soon discovered that he could easily lose to a chess computer.

Inter-club council directed clubs

Club presidents of all the clubs on campus made up the Inter-Club Council. The main purpose of ICC was to give all of the clubs on campus an opportunity to share their ideas on fund raising projects, activities and the promoting of their clubs. The club excelled in helping new clubs survive, as well as assisting the older clubs with their problems. With every club represented, the representatives would report to meetings the activities or events their clubs were involved in. The clubs president's job would then be to relate the information to their own club members. ICC was appreciated by all club members. One vital function of ICC at the Colony was playing the role of mediator between the students and the administrator.

Lunch time meetings were held whenever necessary and helped to keep all the clubs informed and up to date on any happenings or changes made that could have possibly affected any of them. Matt Doretti, president of ICC devoted much time and leadership.

Press Club activated for fund raising

KEEPING busy throughout the year was the active press club. The club was made up of 'Anoranco' and 'Vintage' staff members as well as other Anahi students interested in the field of journalism.

Pressers were able to raise money by working in the concession stand during all home football games. This hard work turned out to be a lot of fun for those who participated.

Lunch time meetings were held when something of importance needed discussing. Under the leadership of adviser Larry Quille, the Pressers elected Duane Julian, president; Dora Lopez, vice president; David Esrig, treasurer; and Steve Loeschen, secretary. In addition to the officers, Saila Koiso was selected as Lady in waiting for Homecoming. Press Club was a part of what's happening at Anahi in 1978.

Spanish clubs had productive year

CLUB Latino concluded the year with many activities and community projects. Money making events included dances, carwashes, and a booth at the Cinco de Mayo festivity. Cultural awareness field trips and snow trips were among the special excursions that the group went on.

Club officers were Patricia Rivas, president; Ruben Garcia, vice-president; Irma Salcido, secretary; and Felix Gutierrez, treasurer. The club advisor, Richard S. Carillo, felt that the group partook in a busy year.

Ballet Folklorico also had an arousing year. Among the fund raising events were school programs, at junior high schools, candy sells and raffle tickets. Cinco de Mayo was the highlight for the members among other presentations. Director, Elsa Ozuna, agreed that the members were very consistent and enthusiastic about their work.

SENIOR REPRESENTATIVES Lynn Terrell, Jackie Negrete, Chris Seiver and Pam Domino planned many lunch time meetings to make '78 a spirit filled year to remember.

PEP CLUB OFFICERS: Eileen Gathes, treasurer; Jenny Langford, secretary; Mary Marsicano, vice-president; and Sheri Heath, president. These girls used their leadership qualities to help keep the club running smoothly and effectively.

PEP CLUB MEMBERS supported the pep assemblies by clapping and chanting the spirit raising cheers and songs as well as singing Anaheim's own Alma Mater.

Pep Clubbers created spirit

INCREASING enthusiasm and promoting school spirit were just a couple of the many goals set by the Pep Club. These objectives were fulfilled by decorating the gym and lockers with blue and gold paper and balloons and also by participating in the various pep assemblies for the many different sporting events at Anaheim High.

Led by Sheri Heath, president, the club planned the annual spirit week held during the week of Homecoming. It included such activities as Turn About Day, Western Day, Sports Day, Little Kids Day, and Blue and Gold Day. All of the girls worked hard for a successful Homecoming week and to make other affairs prosperous. To help raise money necessary for paint and paper, the girls sold ribbons for all of the football games and also sold candy canes at Xmas.

PAINT NIGHTS WERE HELD quite frequently for the members to come and help decorate the gym by painting signs and blowing up balloons for the pep assemblies.

Drama satisfied another year

IN PRODUCTIONS such as the fall play "Hey Naked Lady," the spring musical "Godspell," and the Bong Show, the drama club shared many of their activities with the Anaheim student body and the rest of their audiences.

The club members put out an emense effort in bringing the Bong Show to the Anaheim students. Although the success of the presentation was questionable, the profits it brought were of great help to the later production of the musical "Godspell."

Meetings were held on Tuesdays to discuss and organize the activities. With the assistance of advisor Richard Lovegren, many events were enjoyed by the group.

Swimmers attend meets, activities

SPONSORING the waterpolo banquet and swim team beach party, as well as participating in various waterpolo tournaments and county swim meets kept the swim club members extremely active. The club, whose membership consists of most poloist and swimmers, was established to promote team unity and spirit. They met regularly to discuss game plans and to psych up for upcoming games and meets.

Leading this year's club was Edgar Abbes, president; Dan Kruse, vice-president; and Tom Tanaka, secretary/treasurer. First year waterpolo and swim coach Brad Tuttle, served as club adviser through their successful seasons.

Ski Club enjoyed Utah's powder

SKI Club members were blessed this year with an abundance of snow in the local mountains, as well as excellent skiing conditions during their trip to Utah. The trip to Utah was taken December 26 through the 31st including transportation and lodging. The skiers had a choice of Alta, Brighton, Snowbird and Park City to ski each day.

Other activities planned by the Ski Club were ski films aimed at entertainment and development of technique. These activities were planned and led by Bob O'Keefe, president; Todd Keeler, vice-president; and Penny Schwab, secretary/treasurer. Charles Wilson was the adviser and was able to obtain for the members information regarding ski discounts, trips, and weather conditions. The club had come out of inactivity with the end of the drought and had an active ski season.

SKI CLUB MEMBERS found the new-fallen snow, as well as the 30 minute runs at Alta an enjoyable change from the ski conditions experienced locally. The Ski Club spent four days skiing at different Utah resorts.

Mecha's 6th year kept group busy

MONEY making projects, such as the Cinco de Mayo booth, were among the activities held by the Mecha Club. Selling See's suckers kept the club busy during the month of January. The profit of these sells contributed much to the clubs funds.

Club members found themselves involved in various activities. Participating in the planning and development of the 3.3 in-service for the faculty and staff, Tilly Contreras, Annette Gutierrez, and Julie Arce were a great asset to the program. The

The officers of the club were Annette Gutierrez, president, and Carmen Ramirez, treasurer.

OVERSEEING THE PLANS made by the officers was the responsibility bestowed upon Robert Montenegro, club adviser. Montenegro put forth much effort into the direction and counseling to the club.

CLUB MEMBERS, Denise Castro, Annette Gutierrez, and Norma De Leon, discuss future plans for the club including money making projects. Meetings were held weekly during lunch time in Carol Jo Kent's room.

Trip capped '78 Machinists year

THE '78 machinists club, under the instruction of Bob Pirtle, had a busy and productive year. The club was composed of students in Pirtle's classes who showed an extra interest above and beyond the classroom.

The club worked hard all year earning money for their May fishing trip, which capped off the year well. One fund raiser was the selling of keychains. The machinists also supplemented their earnings by making bumpers for Yellow Cab Taxi Service during their spare weekends.

One of the clubs responsibilities was to have the lighted "A" in place for each home football game then returning it back to the school after the contest.

Bob Pirtle feels that if the machinists interest is high enough, which is appraent in some of his club members, that their chance for employment are great in many related fields.

MARK MONNIG, a student in one of Bob Pirtle's classes, is shown using the milling machine. Although Monnig was not an actual member of the club, he participated in many of there fund-raising events including selling keychains.

ZOLTAN JOKAY, a foreign exchange student finishes up on one of his classroom projects. Many other students broadened their horizons learning about the opportunities in the field. Instructor Bob Pirtle offered guidance to the students.

Many skills in sports learned by members

GOOD sportsmanship, some really good athletes, a lot of work, and a lot of fun, resulted from this year's GAA. Anaheim's GAA is one of the largest in the district, one very important reason for this is the spirit and pride kept by the girls from year to year. Another reason for the success of our GAA is the dedication put out by advisers Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Fee and Mrs. Taylor, who help the girls learn skills involving the many sports related to being in GAA.

"Lunch with GAA" is a famous GAA quote referring to the board members who gave up lunch once a week to come up with ideas to raise money and organize the activities of GAA. Some activities included sports days, fund raising, the Big Bop Dance, which is sponsored by GAA, the father-daughter, mother-daughter rec nights, and the final event of the year is the annual GAA banquet when many awards are given to many of the outstanding members.

There are a variety of sports to satisfy each of the girls — volleyball, badmitten, tennis and basketball are just examples of the sports the girls enjoyed this year.

LEADING THE GERMAN CLUB throughout the year were officers Cheryl Brown, Jon Zimmerman, and Gloria Flores. Meetings were often ran in orderly manners.

ROBERT SAVAGE, an active Colonist and member of the German Club, added thoughts of wisdom to their meetings by offering suggestions for future activities.

German Clubbers studied roots

THERE'S more out there than just America," stated Jon Simmerman, president of Anahi's German Club, explaining his views that most students are ignorant about the various cultures and way of life of people in foreign countries. Because of the fact that America is only a small part of the world, Zimmerman tried to encourage students to find their "roots" as a major goal of this year's German Club.

After raising money by selling popcorn, peanuts, and cotton candy at home football games, the German club members became involved in various activities. Traveling to Mt. Summit and the Big Bear area for a four day snow trip in February, members described this as being the "most exciting" activity all year. Thankful that the drought was at least temporarily over, dedicated members, being skiers, were able to "hit the slopes." In addition to the snow trip, members also celebrated the Oktoberfest and Mayfest, although it is unknown whether or not they participated in any "beer drinking" contests. A picnic at Hillcrest Park in Fullerton and a Christmas party in which sauerkraut and hot dogs were served are two additional activities that the German Club was involved in.

In addition to Zimmerman, the members of German Club were also led by Gloria Flores, vice-president; Dave Boxley, treasurer; and Cheryl Brown, secretary. Composed of a fluctuating 25 members, the active German Club, advised by Herr Paul Peterson, was truly a part of what's happening.

SKIING THE SNOW COVERED SLOPES of Mt. Summit in the Big Bear area, members of the German Club enjoyed their snow trip in February. Because many students did not know how to ski, they spent their time tobogganing & enjoying winter.

What's happening"

THE PRIMARY purpose and goal of each Colonist was to get an education. In doing so, most of their time was spent in the classroom preparing themselves for either college or a vocation following graduation. Students had many fields of interest opened up to them besides the required courses. The variety of academic and non-academic courses offered at the Colony ranged from the sciences to art. These courses enabled students to express their creative talents and to pursue courses which were related to their careers or ROP classes which provided extensive training in specific areas. Whether it was class participation or special projects, each student had the chance to work to the best of his abilities.

OFFERING THEIR PROFESSIONAL ASSISTANCE to the senior class officers and the rest of the class were the class advisers James Bolton and Jack Clement. In a team effort, the two lightened the burden for the officers.

Senior heads led activities

AIDING their fellow classmates through a fun year were the senior class officers David Ponce, president; Carla Stephens, vice-president; Robert Orlow, treasurer; and Vicki Lonchar, secretary.

The senior class officers organized several fun-filled events to pull it's class through the year. Such happenings were senior follies allowing the upperclassmen to show one last childlike moment before graduation. The senior class also managed to put out a fine Homecoming with "As Time Goes By" as this year's theme, cap and gown measurements was an exciting necessity for the graduating class as well as ordering commencement announcements.

All the hard work put forth by the officers paid off as the senior class illuminated it's spirit.

James Bolton and Jack Clement acted as the class advisers and aided the officers as well as the class thru the 1977-78 school year in a smooth manner.

Press tandem tested 'goodies'

OCCUPYING their time by planning various activities on campus, Anahi seniors helped make this year memorable & enjoyable for many. Organizing Homecoming, keeping busy with various assemblies and raising funds for their clubs were some of the extra-curricular activities of seniors. Because high school is more than just education, a large number of seniors spent their time at Anahi becoming involved in activities in addition to learning.

SENIORS WITH MUSICAL INTEREST congregated in choral groups and band units to perfect their vocal and instrumental talents. With such varied interests, the seniors performed a wide variety of scores.

Seniors explored in social sciences

DISPLAYING much interest in the social sciences such as psychology, sociology, current issues and economics was the class of '78. The seniors proved to be studious as well. Psychology being the study of the mind and such disorders in individuals rose much curiosity as did sociology and the study of such behavior on a group level. Current issues was also favored by many and gave the students the opportunity to be in the know as far as state and national news as well as campus affairs. A course that all of us could have used this year with skyrocketing prices was economics. Such classes were a part of what's happening in 1978.

Senior staffers pondered work

DEVOTING much of their energy to the yearbook many seniors worked diligently to put it out. Academics was a large part of every seniors life at Anahi. Aside from their scholastic involvement many graduates interested themselves in several of the clubs on campus.

Included on each seniors agenda was total involvement in some kind of sport, whether it was football, basketball, tennis or any of the many on campus. Senior support was abundant in the audience.

Along with senior support was the traditional senior spirit. The graduating class upheld this spirit throughout the year and passed it on to the underclassmen. The upperclassmen mingled well with the juniors and sophomores, being careful not to be too lenient on them.

As graduation ceremonies neared the senior class illuminated with both anticipation and pride, all the time setting a good example for the seniors of tomorrow.

WITH MUCH HARD WORK and dedication the 1977-78 "Vintage" staff produced the yearbook. Larry Quille, Chris Seiver, Jane Kropp, and Lydia Marques find that working as a group can be amusing as well as beneficial.

'Super Teams' excited seniors

KEEPING thoroughly busy throughout the year, the seniors supported various clubs as well as the sports on campus. One of the year's highlighting events was the week Super Teams took place. Many seniors participated in the lunch-time competitions made many new friends with the underclassmen.

The organization of such events took long hours of devotion by the graduating class. The enthusiasm and spirit that grew in the crowds was incredible, and inevitable with the activities in '78.

Frolicking their way through a fun year, the seniors of '78 made quite a mark in their academic achievements as they prepare for furthering their education elsewhere. Such activities like Kiwanis Bowl included scholastic ability, excitement as well.

AFTER SPINNING EIGHT TIMES around a baseball bat, Suzanne Woods showed her bewilderment during the izzy-dizzy relay. This disorientating event was held during Super Teams Week.

Innertube race excited seniors

OUTSIDE of the classroom, the senior clem and connies found a variety of activities in which to partake and to relax their minds after strenuous studying. Student leaders did their best to keep their constituents informed and involved with events.

The Super Teams competition was held in March and attracted many participants and spectators at the lunch rallies. Spirit Week, the week of the Homecoming was the time for the Colonists to show their school spirit by dressing up. Some of those special days were blue and gold day, sports day, bum day, and the comical annual turnabout day.

Dances, clubs, and sports provided a different kind of entertainment. In between the Homecoming and Prom were smaller dances: Winter Formal, Sadie Hawkins, B-Bop, and the Halloween ball. With seniors going out for all sports from archery to water polo, clubs were not as active as in years past, but clubs did exist for all those interested.

Homecoming by seniors made hit

ALTHOUGH homecoming was only one of the activities in which seniors participate at Anahi, it always has more meaning for them than for the other classes. The senior class officers organize and plan the event, while their classmates choose the King and Queen. However, what makes this event so special is that Homecoming celebrates the return of former graduates which reminds seniors that they too will become alumni. They know that passing activities will be for them the last time.

Science courses taxed graduates

EVERY graduating student at Anaheim was required to complete at least one semester of science. With this in mind, semester courses were offered in life and physical sciences. Biology was the most popular of the Life Sciences courses, while many students chose the laboratory courses such as chemistry and physics. Although most students took extra courses to increase their knowledge, and to better their scientific background for college, or for the ever increasing number of technical jobs now available.

Students interested in majoring in the field of science often took chemistry, physiology, or physics. Biology, astronomy, geology and meteorology were also popular courses for students headed for college.

CINDY STEWART listened attentively to the lecture in her chemistry class. Only one science course was required for graduation, however, many seniors chose to major in this important field.

Seniors' schedules kept all occupied

THE CLASS of 1978 participated actively in the myriad of colony events. Functions varied from serious theatrical and musical presentations to the frivolous "Bong Show." Each activity was designed to augment rather than diminish academic achievements. Events provided relief from the threat of classroom boredom and extend enjoyment to all the students.

SENIOR GINA ARATA, backed up by Whitney Moore and Sue Woods, makes a nice return during action in a girls' volleyball game. The skill of the girls & their keen rivalry make volleyball a very popular sport on campus.

Seniors displayed talent in sports

SPORTS and athletics were a major part of the lives of Anaheim High seniors, both boys and girls. Those who participated strove as individuals and as a unit to not only develop their physical abilities, but also to achieve the worthy goals of cooperation, teamwork and sportsmanship. Such goals were reached only through the dedication of coaches and students alike, along with many hours of practice. Challenge was the key word during the 1977-78 year. Many of the teams competed against the finest teams in Southern California. Competition was seen for the girls as their program developed.

SENIOR GINA ARATA, one of the colony's more avid tennis players, returns a serve during a GAA game. This popular sport was ably coached by Mrs. Armstrong from whom the girls learned the finer aspects of the game.

Upper classmen kept traditions

THE PAINTING of the stadium steps has been a tradition at Anaheim High for nearly twenty years. Unique to this school it has created a friendly rivalry among the three classes and has promoted a positive school spirit.

The tradition call for the year of the senior class graduation, in this case "1978," to be painted upon the steps of the stadium at the athletic field. The rivalry emerges as the junior and sophomore classes attempt to paint over and replace the senior year with that of their own graduation. This of course is done surreptitiously and in most cases in the dead of night. One exhausting weekend it was reported that the stadium was re-painted six times. On occasion, students returning to classes on Monday morning will find the alumni have returned and their graduation year now reappears upon the steps.

Traditionally the steps are also the location where the seniors gather to have their class group picture taken.

SENIOR, ESTHER SCHERZINGER, participated in Anaheim's strongest and favorite tradition, painting the stadium. This tradition has been promoting spirit and rivalry between the three classes for more than 20 years.

Seniors shared in campus activities

SENIORS showed little reluctance to perform in public. The many activities in which they participated included not only the two school plays, "Hey, Naked Lady" and "God Spell," but in such other performances as in the Gong Show, the Super Teams, the Senior Follies and Kiwanis Bowl to mention only a few. And who can ever forget the performances of the cheerleaders at the pep assemblies? The experience the seniors gained from these activities will be of enduring value.

MEMBERS OF THE GIRLS' LEAGUE BOARD performed a traditional skit at the annual Father-Daughter Banquet held at the school cafeteria. The affair required much hard work and planning by the board members.

Senior customs sustained spirit

THOUGH every senior class is spirited, the class of '78 showed how enthusiastic a class could be. Having numerous clubs and activities to participate in, the seniors were kept busy throughout their last year at the Colony. The upperclassmen took total advantage of their senior privileges. Going out to lunch, missing class, and just kicking back were widely used by the seniors and pushing the sophomores around was enthusiastically performed. The traditional senior porch was carefully guarded and all trespassers were dealt with harshly. Seniors enjoyed acting spasmodically and entertaining the lower classmen.

The class of '78 enjoyed themselves immensely in performing all the antics and stunts that other students and faculty members expected of them. Although their reign is over the '78 class will always remember AHS.

PAINTING THE STADIUM has been one of the main traditions upheld by Anaheim Colonists over the years. Matt Doretti, ASB President, joined in the ritual job along with fellow senior class men.

WITH THE ASSISTANCE of a very handsome clean-up crew, the annual Father-Daughter Banquet ended as a successful activity. The Colonist crew consisted of Ken Faul, Kelly Stowe, Matt Doretti, and Dan Tambourine.

KEY CLUB was a big hit on campus this year. The only problem was that president Dan Kruse had a busy task trying to keep members like Tom Tanaka interested in the weekly meetings.

Club teamwork engaged seniors

SCHOOL pride and teamwork were displayed in numerous ways among the senior class graduates. Ken Faul, Kelly Stowe, Matt Doretti, and Dan Tambourine surprised the sponsors of the Father-Daughter Banquet, Girls' League Club, by lending a hand in the activities. This was just another example of how the Anaheim High School graduates of 1978 became a part of what's happening in various events.

Seniors learned today's science

TODAY America lives in a scientific age, dominated by technology and the laws of nature. In order to fully comprehend this world in which we live, students of the '77-'78 school year enrolled in some of the science courses offered at Anaheim High. Biology, physics, chemistry, physical sciences, and life science were some of the classes seniors could choose for their enlightenment.

John Hamann, biology instructor, witnessed another class of seniors reluctant to attack preserved frogs. Emerging from the class, biology seniors found themselves knowing much about living things. Other science classes educated seniors and prepared them for the difficult college classes. Anaheim's science classes provided their students with the opportunity to possibly become an important part in the scientific world of today.

CURIOSLY ANALYZING the structure of hair, Dan Kruse kept busy as his lab partner, Dora Lopez looks on. Besides doing labs, biology students also endured Mr. Hammen's many factual lectures.

SENIOR DOUG PETTIBONE prepared to shoot a freethrow for "Wilson's Wonderful Wallopers" in the Superteams Competition. Despite Pettibone's efforts, the "Wallopers" didn't place.

THE PAST repeated itself once again when the 50's were revived by Anahi's GAA sponsored "Big Bop." The annual event attracted such people as Jane Vienna, Cheryl Brown, Shelly Frawley, Sue Gunderson, and Grace Murillo. Those who came enjoyed themselves as apparent by these 5 smiles.

Anahi festivites attracted seniors

THROUGHOUT the year, the senior class of '78 promoted pride and dedication. The traditions of Anaheim were upheld once again with annual activities such as the Superteams Competition, the various sports, and also starting new ideas. The leadership of the senior class was visible to the many underclassmen. Girls sports continued to grow as in past years due to the senior participation. Sadie Hawkins and Cinco de Mayo were flocked with the efforts of seniors. The constant guidance rubbed off on the juniors and sophomores which made the year a lot easier and a lot more fun. The Anahi class of 1978 has a lot to be proud of.

AT THE SADIE HAWKINS DANCE, Jenny Langford, Eileen Gathas, and Laura Ibsen worked at the Girls' League sponsored store to raise money for club events. Sally Saloon served homemade cookies and drinks.

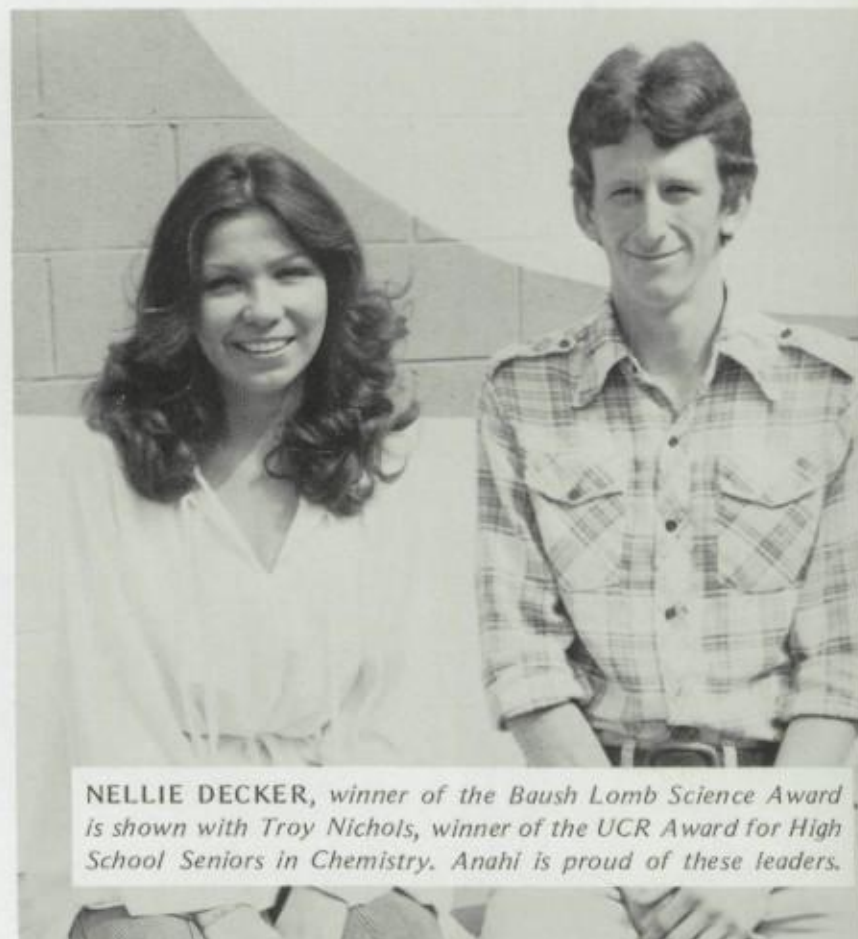

SENIOR BASKETBALLER Janet Radcliffe guarded her opponent carefully and aggressively to benefit the varsity team. Radcliffe was a great asset.

CINCO DE MAYO queen candidates spent an enjoyable breakfast with Mayor Bill Thom and other city dignitaries. Dora Lopez was involved in a part of what's happening on campus and community projects.

ENGRAVED PLAQUE WINNERS in General Fields were TOP: Gay Stuva, liberal arts; Troy Nichols, math and science. FRONT: Corlis Hutchinson, vocational arts; and Cassie Miller, fine arts.

NELLIE DECKER, winner of the Baush Lomb Science Award is shown with Troy Nichols, winner of the UCR Award for High School Seniors in Chemistry. Anaheim is proud of these leaders.

WINNERS OF THE Bank of America Specific Field Certificates were — TOP ROW: Pamela Smith, laboratory sciences; David Esrig, social studies; Stacey Hollister, music; Faun Brown, home economics; Sarah Asher, art; William McMaken, mathematics.

FRONT ROW: Nellie Decker, English; Sherri Plattfoot, foreign language; John Kelly, trades and industrials; Carla Stephens, drama; and Devra Hansen, business. Anaheim is proud of these winners.

AWARDED THE California Savings and Loan Award was Matt Doretti. He was also student body president.

GLORIA FLORES proudly captured a couple of awards. She was honored by the ROTC and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

THIS YEAR'S Seroptomist Award went to Cindy Steward. Her role as yearbook editor helped earn the honor.

Recognition given to honor students

DESPITE jobs, senioritis, and distractions by friends, a number of Anaheim seniors maintained high level of academic excellence in their classes. In order to recognize their achievement, various businesses and community organizations honored ambitious students with awards and scholarships.

One of the goals of the organization, CSF, was to maintain a high level of academic excellence on campus. From its members were picked Gold Seal Bearers. Bearers had to have been in CSF at least five semesters to receive this seal on their diplomas.

Bank of America showed interest in academic happenings on campus by choosing eleven certificate winners and four plaque winners for outstanding success in specific fields of study.

Individual awards were given including the Outstanding Student, Bausch Lomb, ROP, UCR Chemistry, and Seroptomist Awards. Anaheim takes pride in these successes of tomorrow.

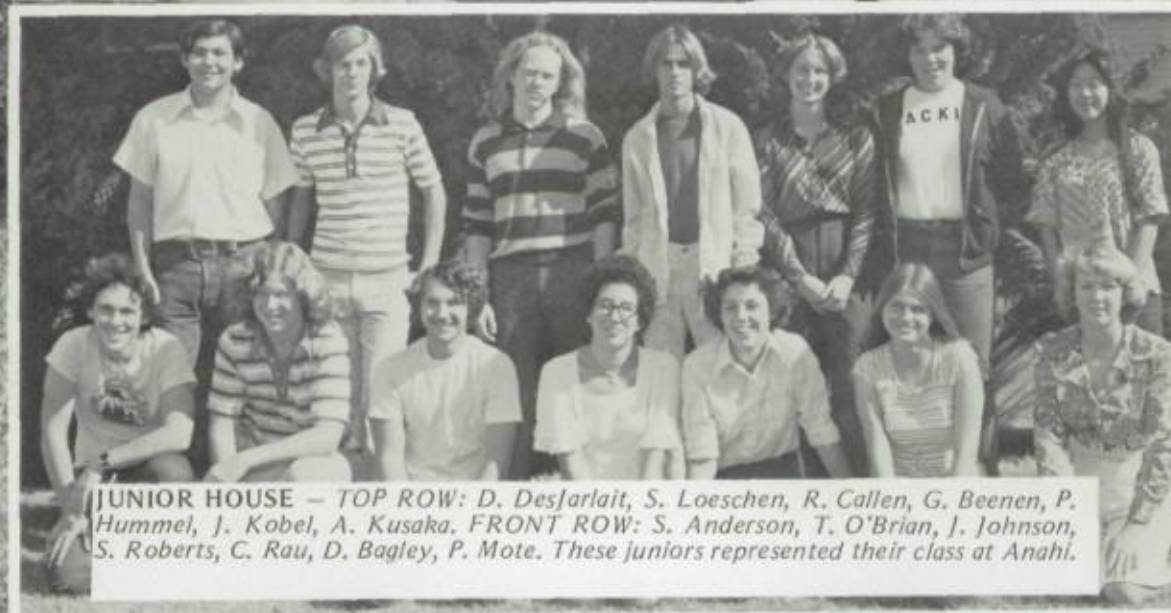

GOLD SEAL BEARERS — TOP ROW: G. Flores, T. Tanaka, J. Beghart, M. Doretti, T. Nicholas. SECOND ROW: D. Hansen, L. Asaro, E. Gathas, J. Thomsen. FRONT ROW: C. Saurbier, S. Plattfoot, P. Smith, N. Decker. At least 5 semesters in CSF.

JOHN MOTZKUS, the adviser of the junior class, displayed his many talents by helping Anahi students.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS — Joe Pascale, president; Vicky Nye, secretary; Lisa Detanna, treasurer; and Cary Sowers, vice-president. Learning leadership qualities, helping students, and enjoying themselves were just a few of the ways the junior officers spent their time this year at Anaheim.

Class officers guided juniors

EXPERIENCE and talent must exist coherently; the absence of one or the other will result in chaos and ineptness. The above idea, stressing the importance of trying new things, is probably what the junior officers had in mind in choosing to represent their class. Leading Anahi juniors through an active year of organized occurrences, the officers of the junior class, in the opinion of many students, proved to be both talented and successful. Joe Pascale, president of the junior class, helped make decisions for the welfare of all Anahi juniors. Pascale also assisted the other class officers by his leadership and efforts. Holding the remaining offices of the junior class were Cary Sowers, vice-president; Lisa Detanna, treasurer; and Vicky Nye, secretary. These students, concerned with the government of their school, helped make school enjoyable.

History, English tempered juniors

CURRICULAR activities, remembered by most students as the numerous academic courses of study offered to them in school, consumed a large majority of most juniors' time. History and English, required classes for all juniors, challenged the intelligence of many students. Learning about the Civil War, World War I, and reading Shakespeare's "Macbeth" prepared juniors for their senior year, in addition to widening their knowledge about these subjects. Wishing to enroll in advanced courses, many academically talented juniors chose to take Honors English or AP History for their own benefits, better preparing them for their future years in college. Although history and English might have seemed difficult and unnecessary for many Anahi juniors, they probably subconsciously opined that in future years, the knowledge from these classes would prove substantially rewarding and advantageous.

RUMINATING ABOUT the many classical works of English literature, Jim Maldonado experienced his Honors English class. Taught first semester by Mrs. Kent, many juniors enriched their lives by reading classics.

Science courses pressed juniors

DISSECTING preserved specimens of terminated frogs, experimenting with electricity, and learning the periodic table of elements built the scientific wisdom of many juniors. Biology, chemistry, and physics, three of the science electives offered to Anahi's juniors, demanded careful observation and thought from all students. Because one year of science was an established requirement for graduation, it was necessary for all students to take it for at least one year. Physical and life sciences were two courses offered to students desiring to enroll in easier science courses and still receive high school credits. Because it was necessary to study scientific material before each test, most students termed their science classes as being "very difficult," except for students with extremely high intelligence, or those with a high degree of natural intuition.

MEMORIZING FACTS about cellular respiration, cell structure, and anatomy, junior Rick Taipale studied his biology book. Juniors really enjoyed dissecting frogs for observation.

Co-curricular pursuits kept Colonists busy

HHEY, "NAKED LADY," a story about six starving individuals, occupied many hours of junior's time, both by participating in the production, and by watching the play. Lisa Detanna, who was a memorable part of the play, displayed to others her dramatic talent, proving to everyone that Anahi juniors are truly "a part of what's happening". Although the dramatic abilities of juniors did not compare with those of Barbara Streisand or Charlton Heston, at least they gave it a trying attempt.

Volleyball and other sports also occupied much of juniors' time. After straining their mental abilities from learning in the classroom, juniors were able to relax by competing in sports. Juniors, while participating in sports, helped make Anaheim High more enjoyable.

Connies, Clems appreciated class breaks

LUNCHTIME! was a common thought of many Anahi students when the 12:10 bell rang each day. Receiving a 30 minute break from their many classes, students often enjoyed this part of the day due to the fact that organic and sigestible materials relieve the stomach of an empty feeling when consumed in proper amounts. Although food was a big reason why lunch was so popular, other reasons were because lunch was a time to converse with friends, taunt enemies, complete homework, and attend club meetings. Because the campus of Anaheim High is so large, covered with many areas suitable to relax and enjoy the advantages of eating, many ate in different spots. Among the favorites were the lunch areas, in various classes, and to the truant, Taco Bell, Tasty Freeze, Carl's Jr., and home.

CATCHING UP ON THE latest news, Anahi boys gather around to eat, talk, and listen to what their friends have to say. They really enjoyed their lunch and nutrition break.

MAKING SURE THE GLUE went on just the right spot, was Chris Johnson. The students in Wood-shop were taught the correct use of equipment they used while working on the projects that were then turned in for a class grade.

SMOLDERING TWO PIECES OF METAL together was a difficult job, but Dave Schumacher worked at it dilligently and finally got it. Metal was just one of the many shop classes offered at Anaheim High for those interested students.

Language, Arts had appeal to juniors

OFFERED again this year were foreign language and industrial arts classes. Many juniors took advantage of these popular, as well as educational courses that may help them later in their career placement.

The language classes consisted of learning the fundamentals of writing, speaking, and spelling of their particular chosen language. Classes were offered in all levels of spanish, french, and german. Each of these classes were taught with a certain flare for teaching that helped make learning more enjoyable to the students.

Wood, metal and auto were the shops that were offered for the Anaheim students. In each of these classes the students learned the safe and correct way to use the instruments for sanding wood, soldering metal and how to repair a non-running automobile engine making it run smoothly again.

LEARNING FRENCH for college requirements was Cary Sowers studying hard for a test in Mr. Sean Macbeth's class. The french class was made more enjoyable by Macbeth's skillful teaching methods.

Anahi juniors found sports advantageous

ANAHEIM has been sports oriented almost since the school was built. Football has always been the most prominent, and has drawn many people to the games to watch the Colonist's gridmen in action. The players showed spirit and pride by the way they performed and the records showing many winning seasons of each sport. Although the sport of football was often times considered by students as their "favorite", other sports were also enjoyed. Sports was truly a memorable part of Anaheim High for many of the student body.

RECEIVING LIPS FROM COACH RUIZ for outstanding hit against Western, was Mike Chairavalloti. As a guard he was a real asset to the center of Anaheim's line.

Spirit aroused by junior girls

PARTICIPATION in extra-cutticular activities kept many Anahi girls involved, while teaching them to be better Colonists. Because of their involvement during pep assemblies and Spirit Week, the girls showed how much pride they have in their school and how the middle-class-women can be a part of what's happening at Anaheim.

The many junior/class girls were present at all dances and many participated in the number of sports offered for girls. Clubs were a great part of the Anahi Connies school life, ranging from the active Key-wanettes to the sports active GAA. Pep club was joined by many, but mostly by juniors who try out for cheer or songleaders for their senior and final year at Anahi.

Though the girls were busy with their clubs, dances, sports games for them and the boys, each put all effort forth in all other classes and kept their grades up. Even if every girl has different ideas of their lives ahead, each girl was happy being a spirited Connie.

CHEERING FOR HER SECOND YEAR at Anaheim was Debbie Acuna, and for her first year in cheering Bronwyn Llewellyn, as the Junior Varsity cheerleaders. The junior class was proud of them.

Officers led under classmen

SOPHOMORES of the '77-'78 year were an enthusiastic group of students. They did an excellent job in supporting activities, athletics, and academics. From the class was elected a small group of officers and representatives. Elections were held in autumn at the beginning of the school year. These sophomores quickly learned the style of Anaheim student government from John Motzkus, their adviser. This year's offices were held by the following students: Tilly Contreras, president; Sheila MacDonald, vice-president; Julie Riviera, secretary; and Marlayne Acosta, treasurer. The sophomore house also provided leadership for a third of the student body. Officers for this year displayed great effort and enthusiasm in fully representing the sophomores and were responsible for and became an intricate part of the happening at Anaheim High School.

Sophs learn fundamentals

ALL NEW sophomores were required to take Drivers Education. The class had four parts to it, the book, the class, the simulators, and the car. When it came to actually driving the car, they realized that it was no joke. They learned about the "rules of the road" in class, and practiced their skills in the simulators, but this was different. After their first driving experience they discovered it wasn't as difficult as they had expected.

This year sophomores were given an advantage by receiving new health books. Health assisted many sophomores on the breath of life, by teaching them the values of physical fitness, nutritional training. Another aspect of health was studying first aid for emergency situations. Although Drivers Ed was enjoyed by more sophomore students the health classes provided them equally with the knowledge needed to graduate.

Sophs recovered during lunchtime

SOPHOMORES found they needed their lunch break to reoperate from some of their more monotonous classes. Occasionally the students were provided entertainment during lunch period. Competitions were held throughout spirit week for everyone who displayed their costume for the given day. Sophs also enjoyed the entertaining sounds of the band that was hired to perform at Anaheim. Super Teams contention was also held during lunch. Not always did activities go on, but the lower classmen usually found something to do, so noon was the most anxiously awaited time of day.

Sophomores enjoyed participating in club events, cheering at football games, and decorating lockers. Now that the upper classmen have shown the sophs the rules and traditions of Anaheim, the hard way they are ready to have a nice, peaceful junior year.

Lunch became the sophomores time of gossip. Friends got together and discussed the activities of the day. Many students enjoyed the break, it gave them time to relax and prepare for their upcoming classes.

Sophomores kept busy with studies

SOPHOMORE class members were required to enroll in and receive a passing grade in drivers' education and health. Each lasted one semester, but English and physical education lasted for the duration of the sophomore year. Also, elective classes were offered to sophs, including mathematics, sciences, and foreign languages. On the more creative side were courses such as ceramics, homemaking, art, drama, and music. Those sophomores with interests in industrial arts were offered a wide range of classes. In these classes were taught the skills of working with wood and metal besides automobile maintenance. Sophomores were also offered drafting and electronics.

Activities involved newcoming sophs

ANAHEIM opened up new opportunities for the new-coming sophomores. The sophs enjoyed the freedom that high school life gave them, and the many events on campus. Some of the activities they became involved in were GAA, Band and Drill Team, pep assemblies, which were favorites among many students. The sophs in GAA were able to participate in such events as football, baseball, basketball, and field hockey, which were a few of the many areas girls were enthusiastic about. Many of the students were involved also in Band and Drill Team performances during football halftime and highlighting the year the annual Band and Drill Team Spectacular. Having assemblies helped boost up the pride and spirit of the new sophs.

ONE ASPECT of learning to drive for the sophomores was taking a course to know and understand the rules of driving. Most students managed to pass and continue to the car.

Assemblies gave sophs enjoyment

HIGHLIGHTING the sophomores year was being able to see an assembly from time to time. Some of the events were pep rallies, John Goddard films, and band and choir.

Pride-filled sophs soon became accustomed to going to pep rallies before every other football game, continually upholding the Colony tradition. Also among the assemblies were the educational John Goddard films which shared the thrill and excitement of his African expedition which was enjoyed by most sophomores. Enjoying the music of the band and choirs, sophs added their excitement to the productions put on by both choir and band. All in all each assembly put time and effort into each program and will be a lasting memory for each soph students first year.

TAMMEY HEMERICK had accessories, imagination, and Mark Conrad, and was told to make Mark into a new person. This is just one of the examples of the type of things that happened through Spirit Week.

Campus action occupied sophs

MANY SOPHOMORES came to Anaheim knowing students only from their own junior high. Much of the first quarter was spent in making acquaintances with these other students. Spirit Week played an important role in the raising of moral and loosening of tension among the many new students. Sophomores dressed like little children, sporting champs, movie stars, and members of the opposite sex. The sophomores actually contributed more spirit than the other classes in this and many other activities. They were seen at the dances, fund raising drives, and sporting events. All of these new faces at Anaheim High held all the traditions associated with blue and gold.

Seniors enjoyed teasing tradition

THOSE EVER loving sophomores of 1978 have managed to keep their pride and spirit growing stronger. Traditions do not make it easy, although they seem to make it through the teasing, put-downs, and involuntary showers.

Many traditions of Anaheim are celebrated by seniors. Of course these customs usually include "mutilating" the sophomores. The seniors aren't literally vicious, they just enjoy teaching sophomores the "Do's and Don'ts" of being a student at Anaheim. For example a "Don't" is a sophomore girl wearing blue and gold socks, known as senior socks, during GAA—she gets thrown in the showers, and may never see her socks again.

When their sophomore year is over they start to realize that their graduation is just around the corner, then believe it or not they kind of wish they were sophomores again.

What's happening"

THOUGH defeat dominated the gridiron, the Colonists with boundless determination, came through to win games, meets, and tournaments throughout the '77-'78 sports year.

Backed by fine coaching the basketball teams for the first time in years, surprised everyone with their winning seasons. The sophomores ended with a 12-2 record to take first in the league while the JV and Varsity teams took third and fifth places.

In several different sports, competent coaching staffs and determined athletes were responsible for winning seasons. Win or lose, the Anaheim Colonists played like proud champs.

Westminster beats Anahi's gridiron

ANAHEIM 7, WESTMINSTER 29

IN THE first pre-season game of the year, the young and outnumbered Anaheim Colonists were defeated by the overpowering Westminster Lions, 29-7. Lacking experience, the Colony offense gained yardage only in the air with 85 yards passing. Throughout the worrisome battle the running game failed, causing many losses and fumbles. Defensively the Colonists were well led by senior linebacker Ken Faul who had 11 tackles and 7 assists.

Only 69 yards rushing were given up by the Anaheim Colonists, with the Westminster Lions rushing 34 times.

Junior quarterback Anthony Rivera achieved 7 completions on 10 attempts for 73 precious yards. Rivera tossed the only score for Anaheim to junior wide receiver, Tim Carrillo, who led the other Anaheim receivers with 27 yards.

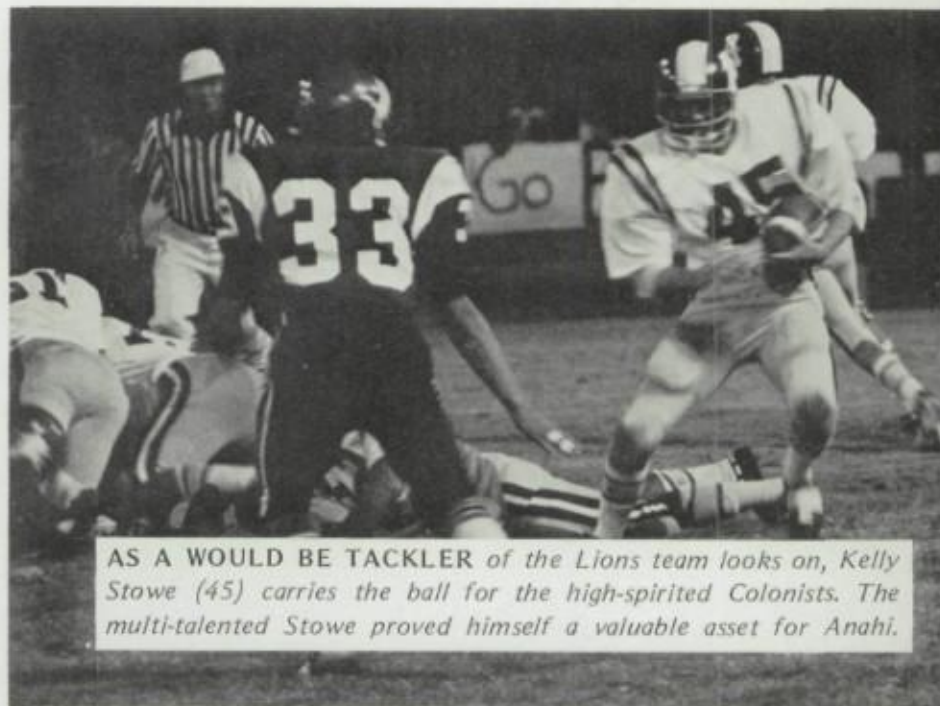

The Colony mustered all the strength they could find, but they were overmatched by the domineering Westminster team. The Colony gained valuable experience as each of the players strived to improve. The Colony lost.

ANAHEIM 0, REDLANDS 10

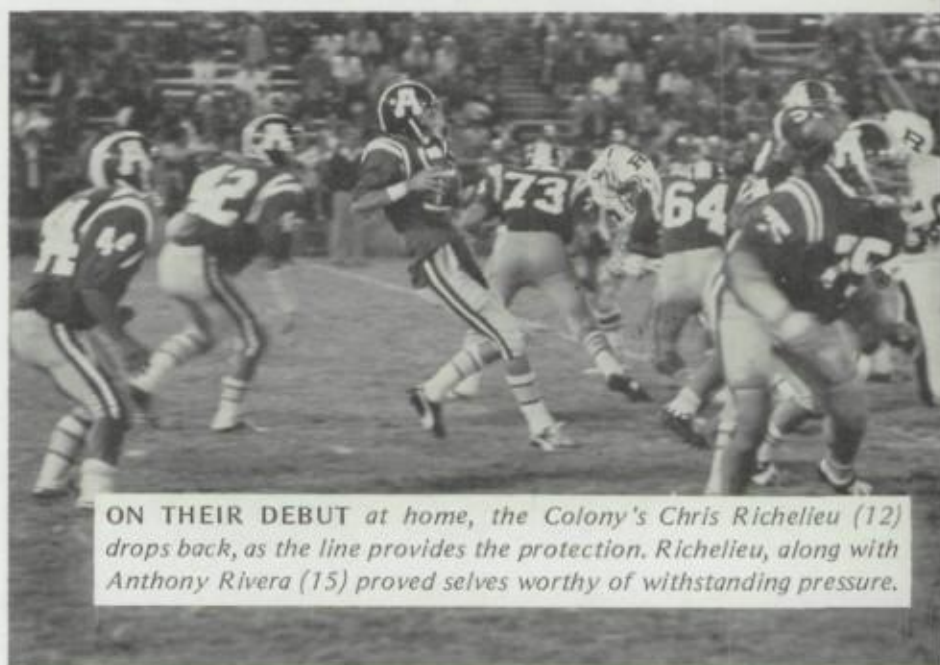

IN THE last of the pre-season games, the Colony lost to Redlands 10-0. The lack of experience dwelled on the Colonists throughout the contest. Anaheim gained a total of 132 yards. Quarterback Chris Richelieu was 5 for 9 passing who along with Anthony Rivera, gained over 100 yards in the air. The Colony defense was led by senior linebacker Ken Faul who had 9 tackles and 8 assists.

Senior defensive tackle Mike Sanford also aided the red strippers with 8 tackles. The Anaheim defense looked very promising once again but an offense still needed time to jell their team. The Colony was now 0-3 going into the Freeway League action. The two losses gave the gridmen some experience and some time to put things together better.

The pre-season was now over and now it was time for the official League games to begin. The Colonists would now prepare for the upcoming game against Sunny Hills.

AS A WOULD BE TACKLER of the Lions team looks on, Kelly Stowe (45) carries the ball for the high-spirited Colonists. The multi-talented Stowe proved himself a valuable asset for Anahi.

ON THEIR DEBUT at home, the Colony's Chris Richelieu (12) drops back, as the line provides the protection. Richelieu, along with Anthony Rivera (15) proved selves worthy of withstanding pressure.

AGILE TIM CARRILLO (91) swiftly scampers away from the clutches of the pursuing Westminster men. Carrillo's fast speed and ability to out maneuver the other team was a tremendous asset to the ever mighty Colonists.

JUNIOR QUARTERBACK Chris Richelieu (12) runs to the outside to evade the blood-thirsty Terriers. The Colony put up an immense fight, but couldn't pull out a win. The Colonists added another loss to their record.

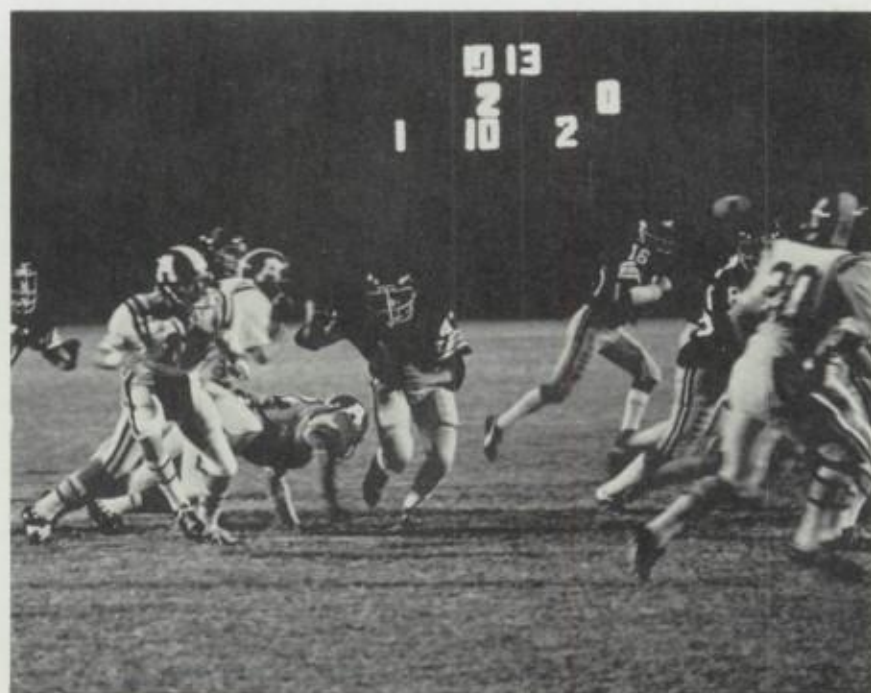

TOP ROW: W. Atkins, J. Gorman, G. Dena. FRONT ROW: R. Stalhut, J. Barron, S. Ruiz. The coaching staff put in much overtime in preparing the players as well as creating plays to elude the upcoming team.

Last second loss disappoints fans

ANAHEIM 14, SUNNY HILLS 15

STARTING off the regular season play, the Colony lost against Sunny Hills, 15-14. Leading throughout the battle, Anaheim just fell short in the fourth quarter when the Lancers bounced back with a long scoring pass that robbed the Colonists of a victory. Leading the offensive charge, was junior I-back Richard Gonzales with 84 yards rushing. With junior quarterback Chris Richelieu at the helm, the offense gained 132 yards in the air, and 117 yards on the ground. For the game Richelieu was 7 for 17 without any interceptions for a total of 117 yards.

The Colony's defense was led by Ken Faul, who had 13 tackles and 4 assists. Dave Ponce, who had two key jerichos, received a sticker for each of these important interceptions. The defensive team consistently held the Lancers throughout the game. The Anahi blue blanket was always present on the field, along with the great hits.

CHRIS RICHELIEU (12) tosses the ball to a teammate, with the Westminster Lions hot on their trail. The Colonists put up a prodigious and chivalrous battle, but the Colony lost as Sunny Hills scored near the finale.

Warriors, Rebels defeat Colonists

ANAHEIM 3,

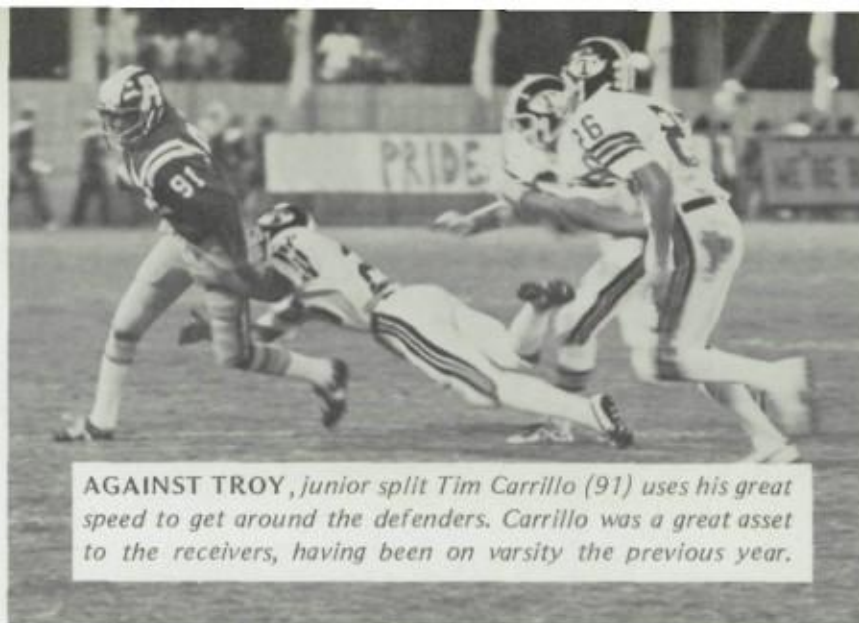

TROY 14

A GAINST Troy, the Colonists lost 14-3. Even though the offense gained over 230 yards, the only Anahi score came on the field goal by senior Scott Teegarden. Junior I-back Richard Gonzales led the offense on the ground with 55 yards. Quarterback Chris Richelieu completed 8 passes for 91 yards, while Anthony Rivera completed 2 passes for 32 yards.

Anchored by junior linebacker Mike Frank, the red striped Colony defense held Troy to only 180 yards. Senior defensive end Dan Perez led the defensive secondary with a jericho for Anaheim. Great performances were also shown by junior guard Jon Louis, senior defensive back Randy Horton, and junior defensive back Steve LaFortune. With an overall record of 0-4, the Anahi Colony still refused to give up. This really showed the pride and sacrifice they gave for the blue and gold.

JUNIOR QUARTERBACK Anthony Rivera (15) slips past these Troy defenders. Rivera split the quarterback spot with junior Chris Richelieu (12). The two Colonists showed great skill along with anticipation for next year.

AGAINST TROY, junior split Tim Carrillo (91) uses his great speed to get around the defenders. Carrillo was a great asset to the receivers, having been on varsity the previous year.

ANAHEIM 6,

SAVANNA 14

A LTHOUGH the Colony lost their fifth straight game 16-4, the intensity was there. The Anahi defense was awesome containing the well-known Savanna passing game. Linebackers Ken Faul and Mike Frank led the red strippers to an endless fight, never giving up. At the half there was no score on the scoreboard, and the game looked very promising to the Colony. The blue blanket seemed to hamper the Rebels offense, and the Anahi offense was ready to go.

Anahi moved the ball well on the ground. Sophomore David Brown and junior Richard Gonzales gained most of the Anaheim yardage. Savanna scored for the first time late in the third quarter. Anaheim fought back when Lou Villanueva blocked a punt and Cary Sowers raced 36 yards to score six. However, the Colony failed an onside kick and Savanna made their final score.

DEFENSIVE BACK Tim Carrillo (91) put the hit on this Savanna receiver. The Colony totally halted the Rebels passing attack, which Savanna was known for. After a scoreless first half, Anahi just fell short of a win.

Anaheim puts end to losing streak

ANAHEIM 14, BUENA PARK 7

AT LAST the Colonists marked their first win of the season downing the Buena Park Coyotes 14-7. With a flat unimpressive first half, the Anaheim Colonists came back in the second half as a new football team. Defensive back Tim Carrillo raced over 50 yards on a fumble caused by junior reserve defensive end Joe Andrukaitis. This was the first Anaheim score of the game.

Making his debut as starting tailback, David Reyes gained over 200 yards during the night with an average of 8 yards per carry. This great accomplishment earned him Orange County prep player of the week.

The Colony pulled in 3 jerichos while Ken Faul, and Steve LaFortune led the Anahi defense. Sophomore David Brown lead two goal line stands for Anaheim.

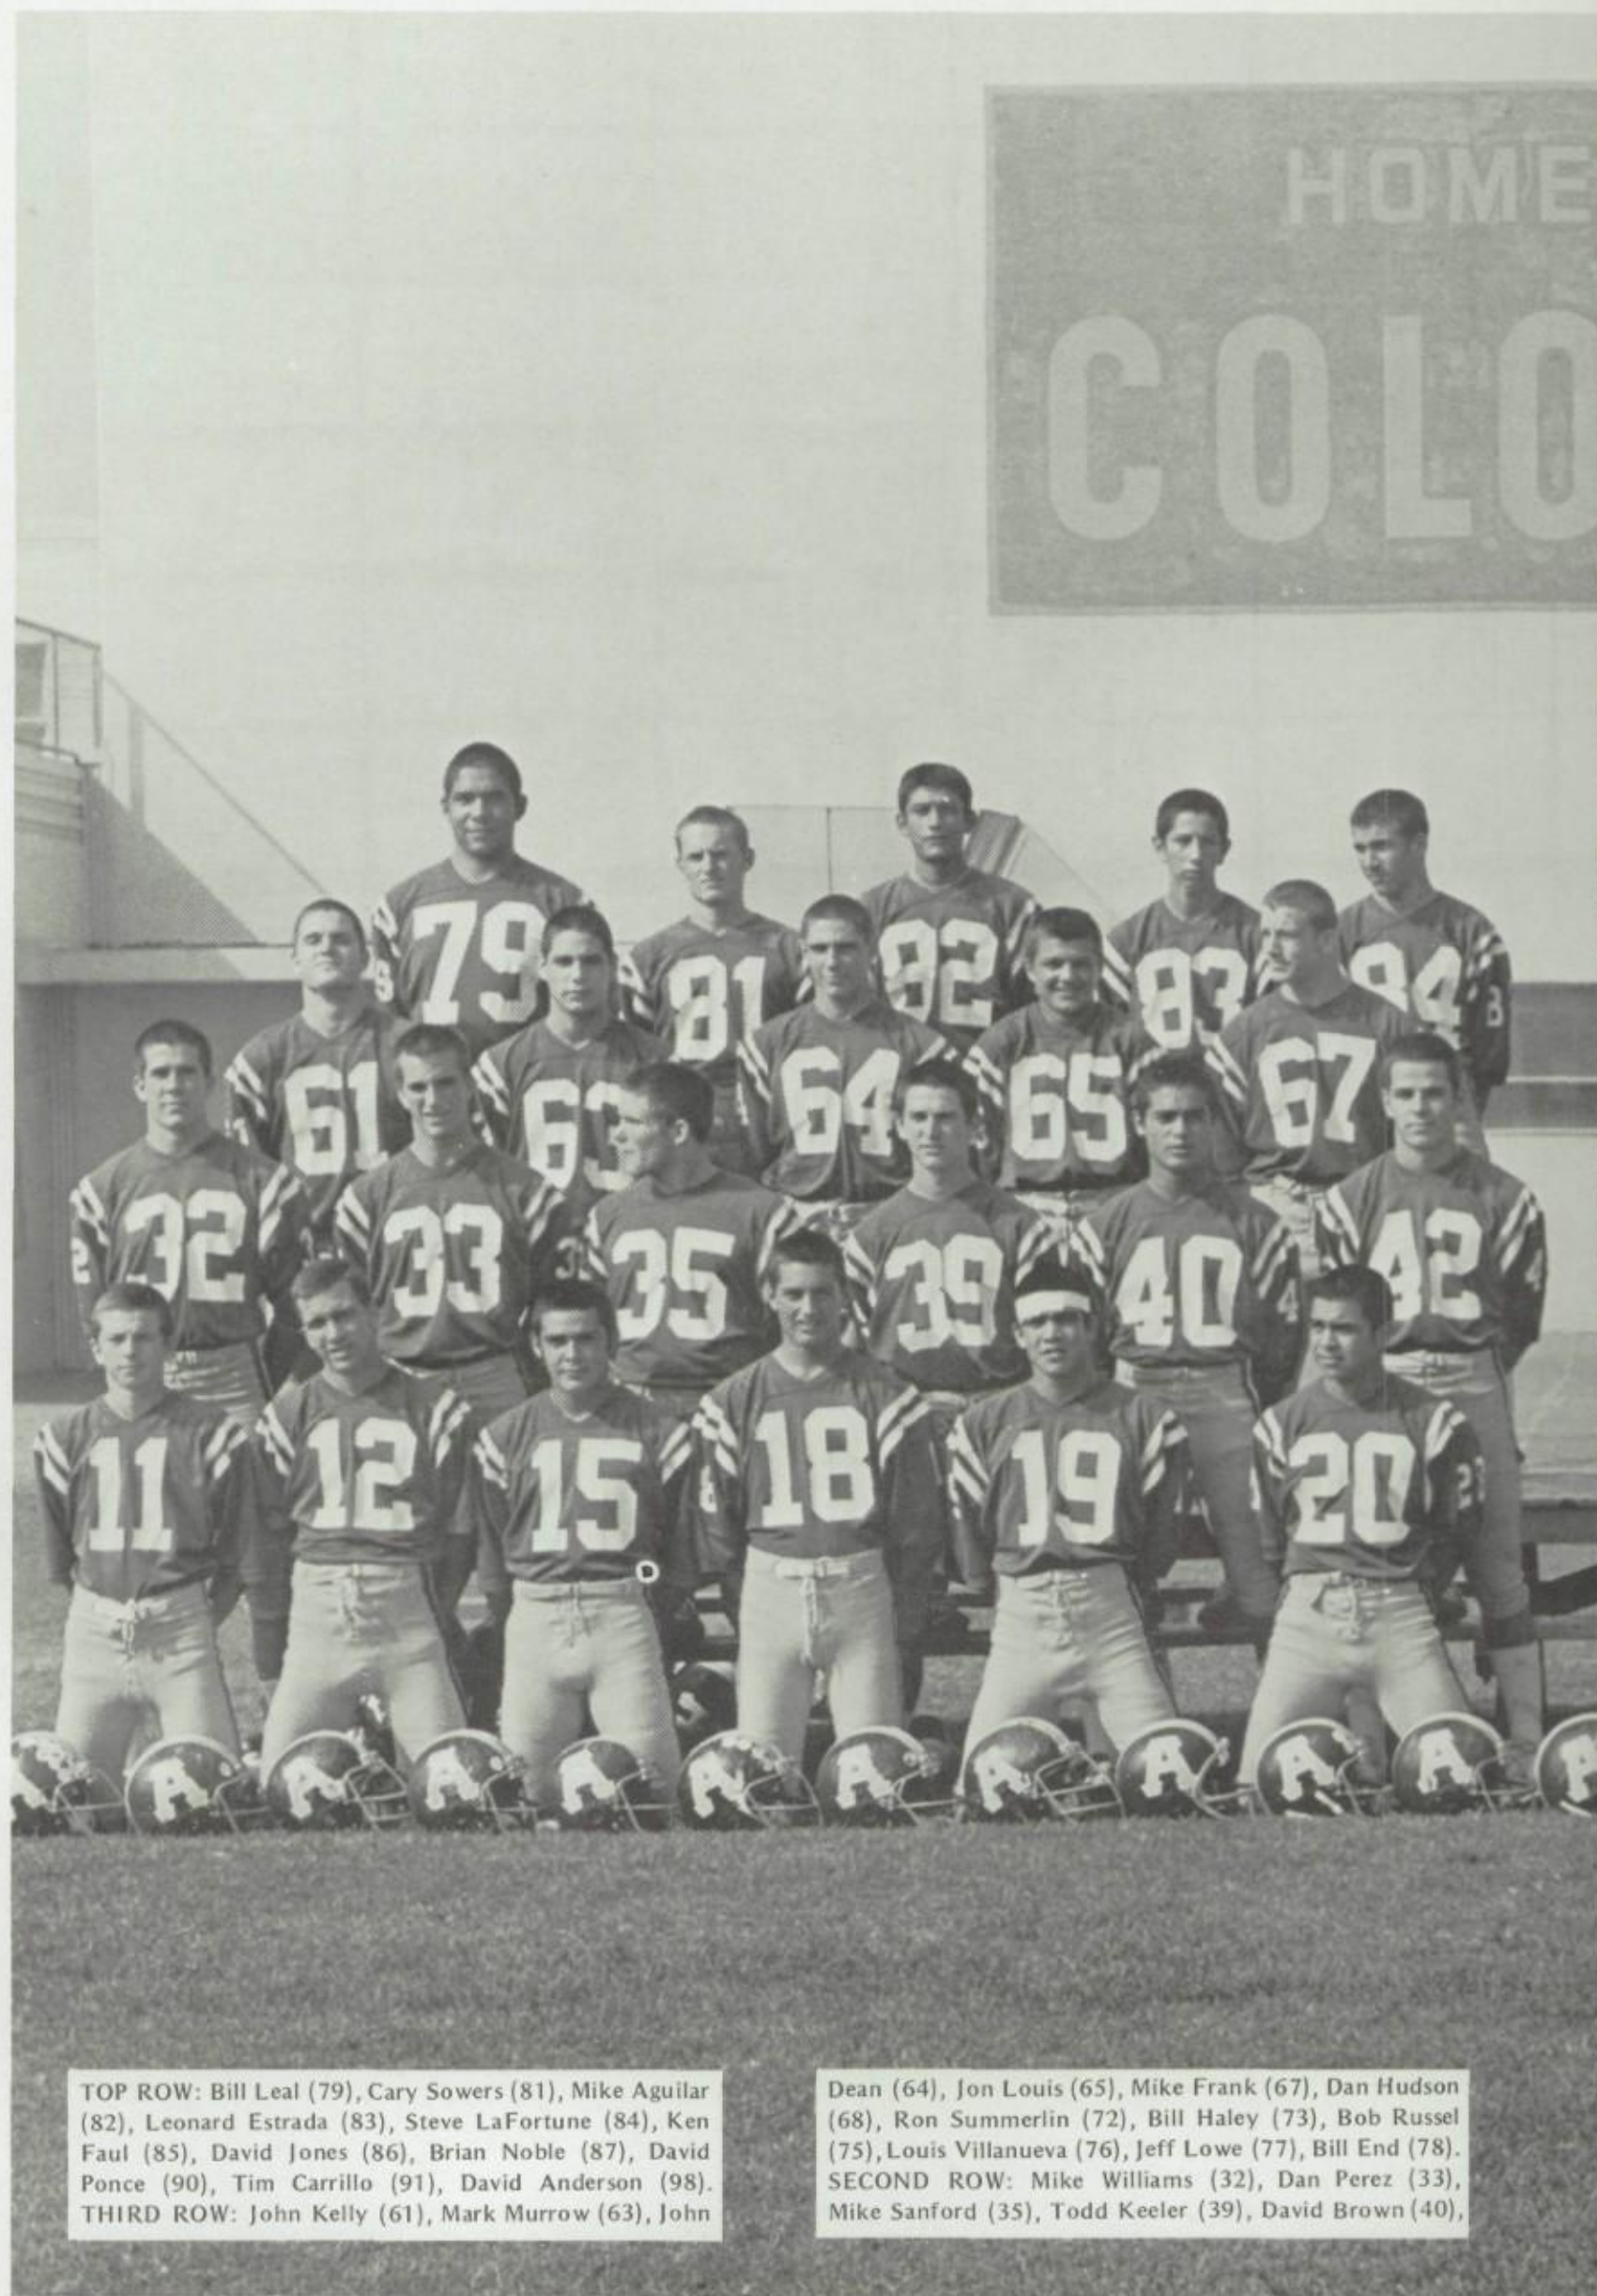

SENIOR KEN FAUL (85) attempts to down a Savanna ball carrier, while Mike Frank (67) comes to assist. Frank (67) and Faul (85) were key players in the defensive line. The Anaheim Colonists lost.

HERE THE OFFENSIVE LINE explodes out after the signals of quarterback Chris Richelieu (12) were given. The line had one of their best games in this battle against Buena Park. The Colony marked their first win, 14-7.

DURING ANAHEIM'S HOMECOMING game against the Savanna Rebels, senior Ken Faul (85) puts a tremendous blow to a Rebel ball carrier. Junior teammate Mike Frank (67) runs over to help downcast the Rebel.

JUNIOR MIKE CHIARAVALLOTI (42) blasts a Patriot leaving him dazed and amazed. Chiaravalloti was a valuable and versatile player playing both on the offensive and defensive units. The Colonist team lost 17-7.

SENIOR SCOTT TEEGARDEN shows good form in kicking off, while Ron Summerlin (87) protects Teegarden's kick. Teegarden (22) did a fine job for the Colony. The Colonists stomped the Pioneer team 26-6.

Colony began to show improvement

SENIOR KEN FAUL (85) tries to shake a Sentinel after intercepting a pass, while Mike Booher (21) was on the way to assist on the play. Faul fought and performed his job well.

ANAHEIM 26,

WESTERN 6

THE CRY was "Defense" at Handle Stadium when the Colony went against the Western Pioneers. With the bell at stake, the Colonists ripped their rivals 26-12, which included 10 points from the defense.

Leading the offense was David Reyes with 122 yards and an average of 5.5 yards per carry. Richard Gonzales had 83 yards and an average of 7.6 yards per carry.

Leading Anaheim High School's passing attack was quarterback Anthony Rivera with 2 completions on 3 attempts for a total of 26 yards gained.

Anchoring the defense were senior defensive tackle Mike Sanford and junior defensive end Mike Chiaravalloti who ran in a blocked punt for six after Brian Noble stuffed the ball on a punt rush. Mike Williams and Ken Faul caused the two safeties to be scored against the Pioneers. Once again Anaheim High retained the bell.

ANAHEIM 21,

MAGNOLIA 7

A GAINST the Magnolia Sentinels, Anaheim proved their capability once again, crushing them 21-7. The Colonists offense outgained their foes almost double, and the blue blanket dominated throughout the game. The only Magnolia score came on a kick-off return. Anaheim set up a score when Cary Sowers lipped a Magnolian punt receiver causing him to fumble, while Joe Andrukaitis quickly recovered the ball for Anaheim.

The "oreo" Colonist backfield consisting of Richard Gonzales, Mike Chiaravalloti, and David Reyes had another great showing and, with the help of the line, made some key runs and executed plays to high standards.

ANAHEIM 7,

LOWELL 14

IN A HARD fought battle, the Colonists lost to the Lowell Patriots 14-7. Winning 3 in a row, Anaheim had the shot at a play-off berth if a victory was present, but they were beat on a touchdown with seconds left. The Colonists fumbled a total of 5 times, including twice near a score.

Anaheim High scored first when David Reyes punched over behind fullback Mike Chiaravalloti. Throughout the game the Colony drove down the field only to fumble. Lowell could not use their running game against the blue blanket defense.

Anaheim's team fought back late in the game when David Reyes caught a pass and then raced 40 yards, but several plays later, Anahi fumbled and later lost 14-7.

AS THE COLONISTS and Patriots collide the referee looks on in disbelief. The football battle was of great importance to both teams, and both Lowell and Anaheim fighting hard for the win that AHS lost 14-7.

Using his great speed all year was Defensive Halfback TIM CARRILLO (91). Carrillo's quickness was able to catch many receivers by surprise when they found it impossible to beat him deep.

18

Firing out from his offensive stance is BILL HALEY (73). Haley was known by his fellow linemen as being a consistently powerful blocker since he possessed the greatest experience.

Sherermen end '77 with 5-4 record

LOSING their first two games, the sophomore Sherermen came back strong for a league record of 5-2 and a seasonal record of 5-4. Each game the players pulled together and made all wins a whole team effort. The lower-classmen scored 120 points for the season compared to the opponents 68 points. The sophomore gridmen were gaining useful experience for next years JV and varsity teams.

The coaching staff was headed by Dr. Bob Sherrer; Dean Taylor was the line coach; Glenn Bain the backfield coach; and Dave Maas the ends and specialties coach. Each was well qualified for their jobs.

This years team captains were David Avila, tailback; and Raul Victoes, center. Both of these and Raul Victoes, center. Both of these players were voted captain because of their good sportsmanship and leadership. Mike Coons, fullback, and Manuel Guerrero, tackle, were voted and chosen as the teams outstanding players. Both of these teammates helped promote undying spirit.

RECEIVING A PASS from quarterback Steve Latham (11), Art Rameriz (19) starts down the field and is immediately set upon by a Magnolia Sentinel and easily he stepped over the other player.

BLOCKING, being the biggest part of a football game was done well against Savanna, as shown by Manuel Guerrero (73), and Dave Flores (43). Both players were talented in their positions.

Poloists 'drowned' in league action

FOR THE first time in many years the Colony waterpolo team was unable to breeze through their league compiling win after win. They ended the year with a sorrowful 2-4 league record and fourth place. To spite their inability to win games, the poloists still worked hard and gave it their best effort. Coaching the team were Brad Tuttle and Bill Robinson. Tuttle expressed that his squad did well considering the second consecutive change of coaches in as many years. Another reason the team did not do so well was of the small turn out and that almost a third of the varsity's team members were not able to finish out the season.

Although the team as a whole did not play that well, some individuals on the squad played exceptionally brilliant polo. Among these were Doug Pettibone, Dan Kruse and Matt Doretti. Pettibone made first team all-league while Kruse and Doretti made second team. Tuttle was happy to see Edgar Abbes and Tom Tanaka improve.

poloists were not able to win every time they had a game, they were able to keep a great attitude and were able to intimidate many of the other teams. Coach Brad Tuttle felt the small squad did well.

SETTING UP TO BLOCK A SHOT for the Colonists was Matt Doretti (23) while Edgar Abbes and Dan Kruse kept their men covered. Defensively the team played well as a unit, but they had trouble finding a permanent goalie.

COACH BRAD TUTTLE was able to use time-outs to his advantage by discussing newly formed plays and pointing out the other team's weaknesses. The coaches feel that the prospects for next year's team is promising.

FLINGING THE BALL down the pool was Doug Pettibone. Although he was not usually a goalie, Pettibone was able to master any position. He was a very valuable player to his teammates.

FIELDMEN MATT DORETTI and Tim Coombs fought to gain control of the ball. Fernando Acuna was able to score thanks to Doug Pettibone, who kept his opponent blocked out of the play.

FINDING HIMSELF IN A picturesque position, poloist Tim Coombs was able to heave the ball past the goalie. Coombs helped the Colony throughout the year and was a definite asset for the squad.

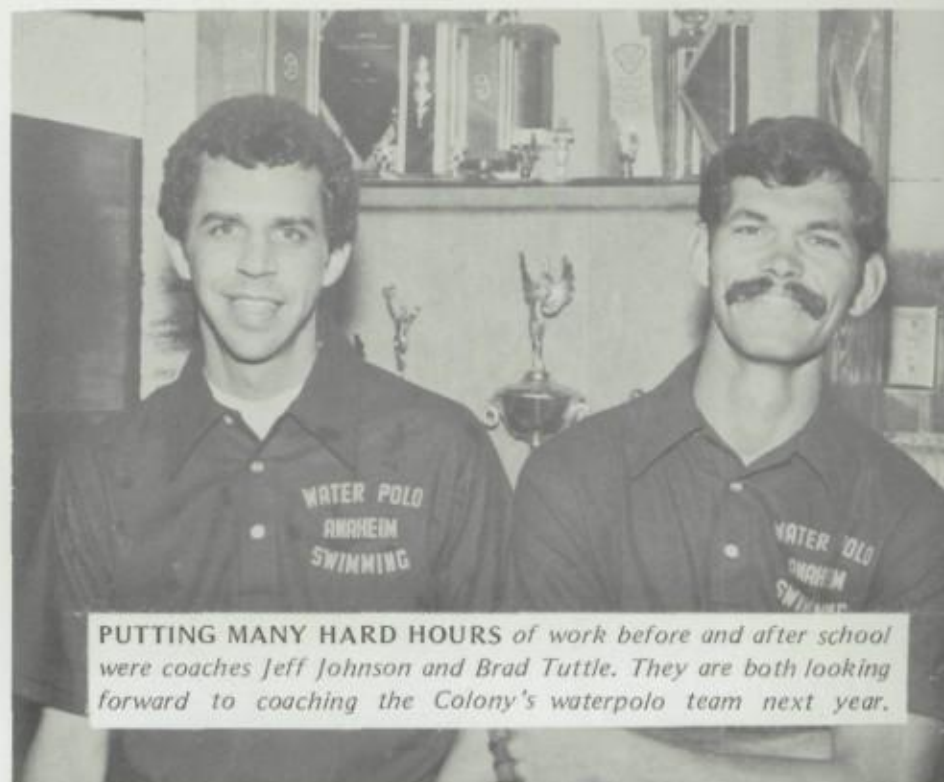

Soph aquamen found Freeway Leaguers tough

FIELDING only eight players, the sophomore team found it difficult to over-power the opposing teams. Inexperience along with such a small team made it tough for each player to block. Although they only won one game, the coaches felt it was good experience for each player for next season.

Gayle Berkowitz was the first female player in the history of Anaheim to play on the team, primarily a mans sport. Brad Tuttle felt that Gale was an asset to the team and that she will be a strong player for next year. Gale enjoys playing waterpolo and swimming and will return next year.

Anaheim had an excellent coaching staff that put in many hours daily to develop a good team. Waterpolo demands a lot of physical endurance and many hours of work before and after school, and without such firm dedication a swimmer could not even be a competitor.

The Colonists attack was led by David Rowe, Larry Hartmann, and Joe Andrukaitis, each scoring victories. The next encounter, the colonists were handed their first defeat, by the Troy Warriors 30-6, with Rowe scoring their only six points. Harriers posted best mark in past decade

GOING TO CIF finals was the goal of Anaheim's cross country team. With this in mind, the harriers trained hard in the morning and after school to be ready for competition. They exerted much effort and hard work, as was evident by their 8-2 seasonal record. Finishing second in league competition they secured a spot in CIF.

David Ramirez, senior team captain, led the varsity team and consistently turned in the fastest times for the team. Ramirez was voted Anaheim High's most valuable runner of the year. Jesse Ricke, also a team captain, ran varsity the entire season and was a great asset to the team, helping arouse spirits among team members.

Anaheim's cross country team competed in many invitational track meets. Among them were the Mt. Sac and Buena Park Relays, where Eric Marsh and Fernando Rodriguez were medalists.

The sophomore squad was the smallest unit of the group. Led by Mike McDonough, John Redman, Gil Lucero, and Chris Imperial, the team worked hard to place sixth in the Freeway League meets.

For the second time, Anaheim had a girls' team. With its newness came victory. Esther Scherzinger placed first in league championship and CIF, after coming in first in every event she ran in. She was also awarded the Dr. Pepper Award, making her eligible for a $500 scholarship to any college that she chooses to attend.

Foreign exchange student, Saila Koiso showed her endurance being the second strongest runner. To spite the size of the team, the girls managed to capture a well-deserved fifth place in the competitive Freeway League.

RUNNING AGAINST MAGNOLIA'S CROSS COUNTRY TEAM were Fernando Rodriguez, running last, Jesse Ricke in the lead, and David Ramirez pulling from behind to win first in the 3-mile run around LaPalma Park. Anaheim won the meet against Magnolia, 48-15, putting Anahi 2nd in league.

DAVE RODRIGUEZ, Jesse Ricke, Ed Aguilar, and Eric Marsh run together as their planned strategy was to take the lead in some races against their competitors, while other times the tactics differed.

VARSITY CROSS COUNTRY—TOP ROW: Ed Aguilar, Dave Carr, Jesse Ricke, and Ron Herrera. FRONT ROW: Dave Ramirez, who was senior team captain, Eric Marsh, and Fernando Rodriguez.

JESSE RICKE, co-team captain, was one of the first CIF finalists that Anaheim High School has had in the past two decades. His key was his ability to secure important race positions.

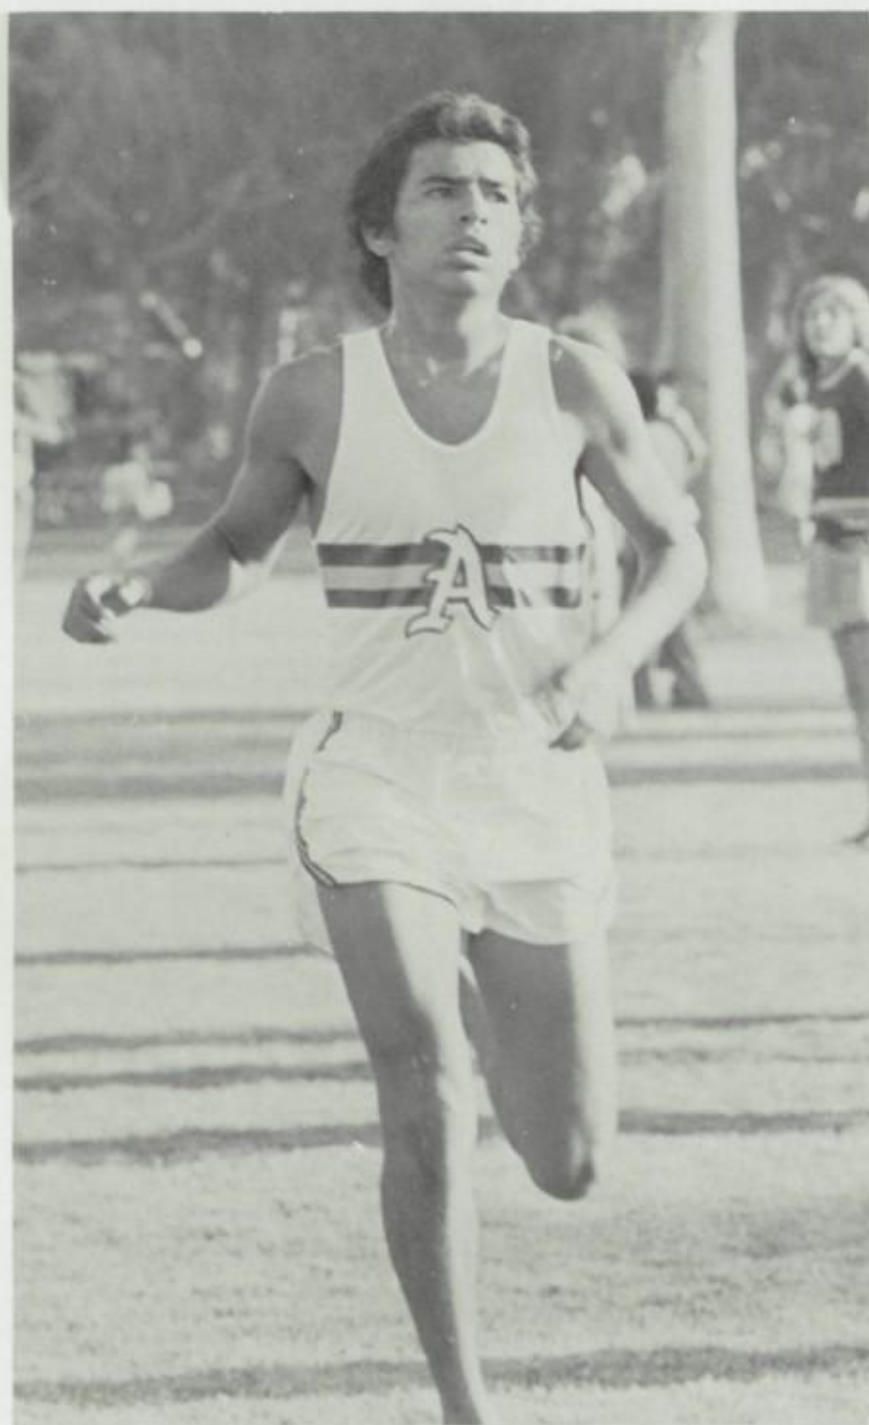

Novice runners gained experience

FOR the first year, Anaheim experienced having a girls' cross country team. The girls' team was led by Esther Scherzinger who went undefeated in league competition and placed first in finals. Foreign exchange student from Finland, Saila Koiso, was the teams second strongest runner and a tough competitor. Rosario Ramos, Henrique Loof, Cathy Floriani, and Rhonda Morgan also put out much effort to put the team in fifth place in Freeway League. Another girls' team is slated for next year.

The junior varsity team was led by Chris Conkle and Troy Ament. These strong runners had many victories and were partly responsible for putting Anaheim ahead in Freeway League Competition. The remaining members of the squad made many contributions to the team's success when they also turned in good times. Only having one shot putter on the team was a disadvantage, but John Boxley's determination in the event proved quite rewarding. The team did have its lower, discouraging moments when valuable runners, Mark Stout, Zoltan Jokay, and Frank Machado were struck with injuries. Despite these costly injuries, the boys' junior varsity team worked hard and managed to work its way into fourth place in the Freeway League competition.

DAVID RAMIREZ, team captain, led the boys' varsity team. Ramirez was constantly turning in the fastest time for the squad. He also provided the other members of his team with encouragement when it was needed.

CHALLENGING SOPHOMORE, John Redman, was Esther Scherzinger. Eventually, Scherzinger managed to edge Redman out of the lead. Much endurance was required from the team to come from behind in the tiring two-mile races.

COACHING ESTHER SCHERZINGER on to victory was Coach Dave Motyka. Finishing first became a habit for Esther who went undefeated in the League. Here, she is shown approaching the tape in a meet against Lowell.

MAINTAINING A STEADY PACE was Cathy Floriani on the second mile of a race around La Palma Park, location for many cross country competitions. Floriani placed second behind Scherzinger who took first.

Varsity Basketeers preformed well

FINISHING the 1977-1978 varsity basketball season with their best record since 1968, the basketeers performed well throughout the year with a 7-7 record.

Leading the varsity crew was all-leaguer and team 'most valuable player' Robert Orlow. The 6'5" center averaged well above 12 points a game plus many rebounds. Orlow's high game was in a losing effort against the Savanna Rebels when he scored 22 while the Colony lost 49-46. Another asset was senior guard Brent Hernandez who ran the quintet's offense well as he scored between 8-10 points a game plus many assists. Walt Evans, a transfer student, was a key factor in Anaheim's first league win over Buena Park 48-45 as he scored 14 points.

The varsity unit started league play winning their first four games including two victories in overtime. The Magnolia victory was exciting as the Colonists were down by 3 points with just under 10 seconds to play and pulled out the victory thanks to a John Miller tip-in.

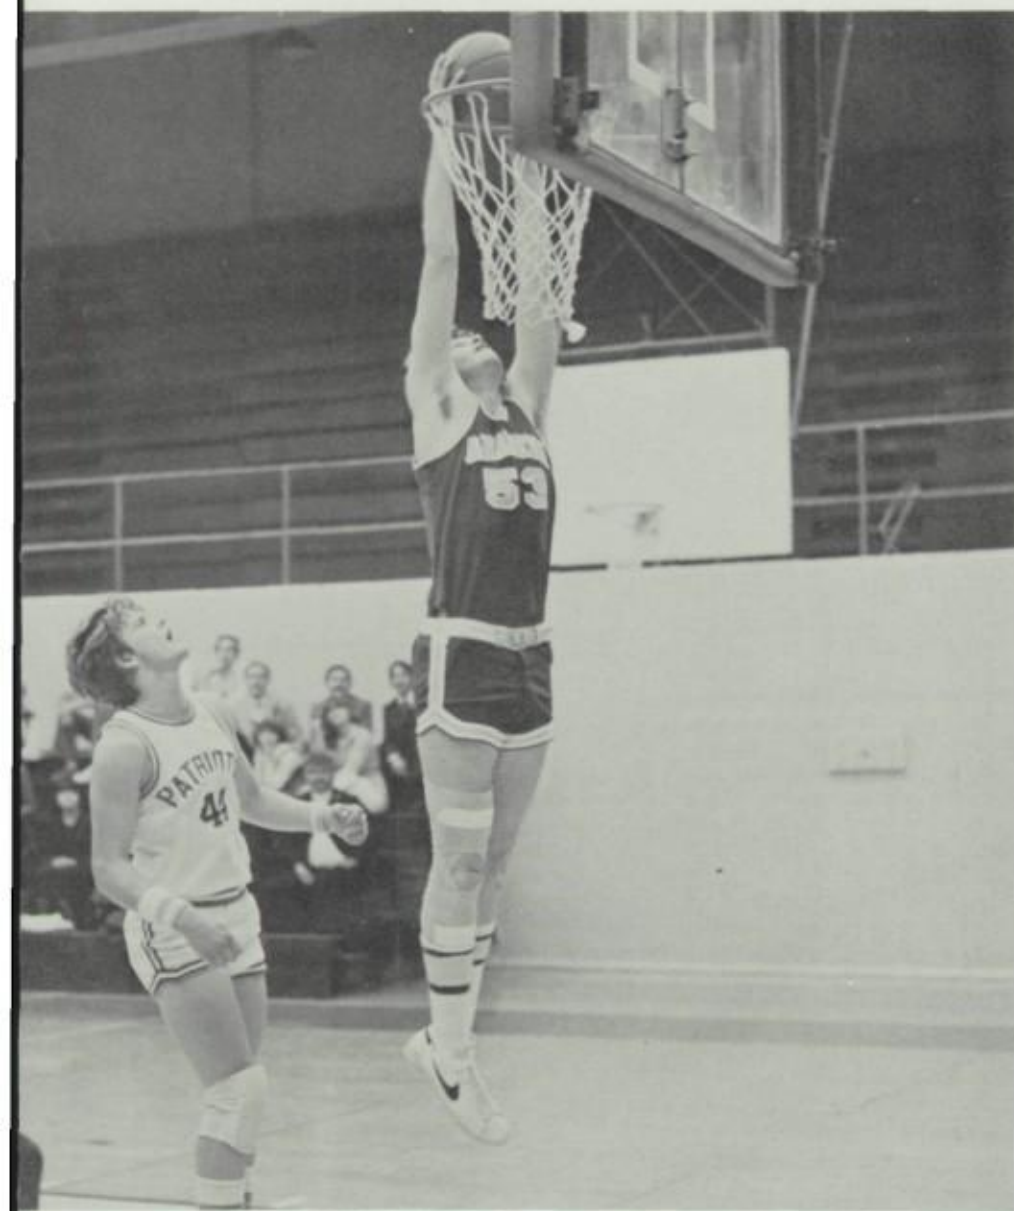

SENIOR FORWARD Randy Horton shoots a jump shot against Western. Horton was voted most inspirational player. He started many games for the Colonists squad this year.

TEAM CAPTAIN Brent Hernandez dribbles by a Lowell Patriot. Hernandez was the Colonists most steady performer with his high game coming against Magnolia as he scored 16.

GUARD DEAN THALAS scores over a Western Pioneer. Anaheim won this contest by a 59-51 tally before a home crowd. Thalás earned a starting job with 10 points against Lowell.

TAKING ADVANTAGE of his 6'8" frame, junior center John Miller slam dunks the ball against Lowell. The Hoopsters won 52-45, avenging a previous 65-47 loss at the hands of the Patriots.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER — team captain Robert Orlow snatched one of many rebounds. The 6'5" senior performed well all year, accumulating all-Freeway League honors due to his consistency.

COACH DAN MILLER, sketches some quick instructions during a timeout. Miller was assisted by Marty Biefeld and Dave Collins. Miller prepared the Colonists well for the upcoming opponents.

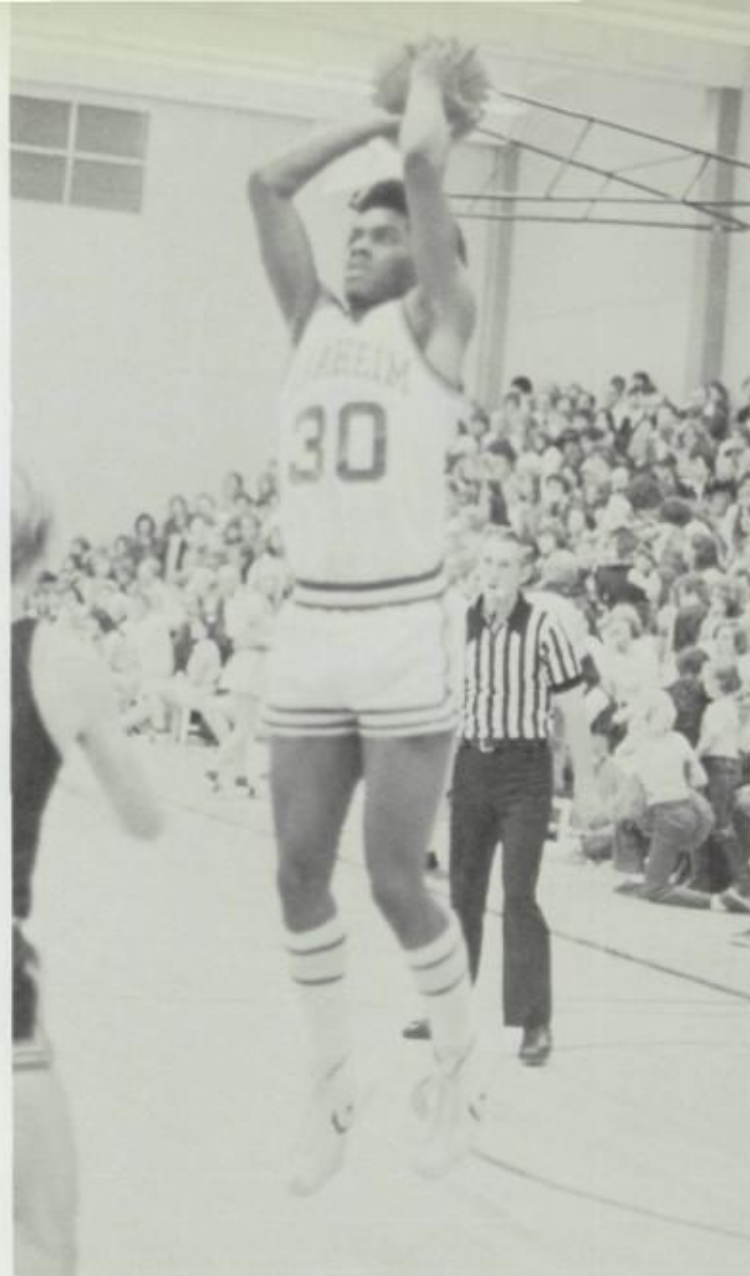

Basketballers took fast start to year

AFTER jumping out to an early 4-0 record and first place in the Freeway League, the basketballers fell upon harder times losing consecutively to Lowell, Sunny Hills, Troy, Buena Park and Savanna. Breaking the dryspell, Anaheim knicked off Western 53-51 with Orlow scoring 16 and Randy Horton 10. Junior Jeff Covey, returned to action this game only to again dislocate his shoulder, but scored 2 points. Anaheim then beat Magnolia 56-55 with Hernandez scoring 16. Revenging an earlier defeat, the team then beat the Lowell Patriots 52-45, led by the fine shooting of Dean Thalass and Robert Orlow. To spite losing their next 2 games, the unit still finished with a respectable 7-7, a fifth place finish.

Next year's squad looks steady as four varsity lettermen are returning. John Miller, Jeff Cronin, who broke his foot midway through the season, Mark Armendariz and Jeff Covey are all returning next year, which will be a strong nucleus to start from. With this even stronger squad, and considering the enthusiasm that was built up this year, next year should be a great one.

Professional baseball player Dave Collins and junior varsity coach Marty Biefeld helped Coach Miller with some of the practice procedures which included heavy conditioning at times.

WALT EVANS, senior transfer student, shoots for a duece against the Western Pioneers. Evans clutch free-throwing clinched the upset victory over the Buena Park Coyotes in their first game.

JUNIOR JEFF CRONIN banks in a five foot jumper against the Savanna Rebels. In this contest, Anaheim won in over-time by a 60-57 score. Cronin started for the varsity before breaking his leg in a practice.

POINT GUARD BRENT HERNANDEZ shows good form on an outside jump shot after dribbling off a John Miller screen. The Hernandez-Miller tandem totaled 18 points against Lowell and 27 against the Pioneers.

CENTER JOHN MILLER and guard Dean Thalass crash the offensive boards against Lowell. The key to Anaheim's seven victories was their rebounding. On this play, Miller snatched the rebound igniting a fast break.

SOPHOMORE GUARD Mark Armendariz follows through on a free throw. With four returning lettermen, Cronin, Miller, Covey and Armendariz, next years team looks promising and are eyeing a league title.

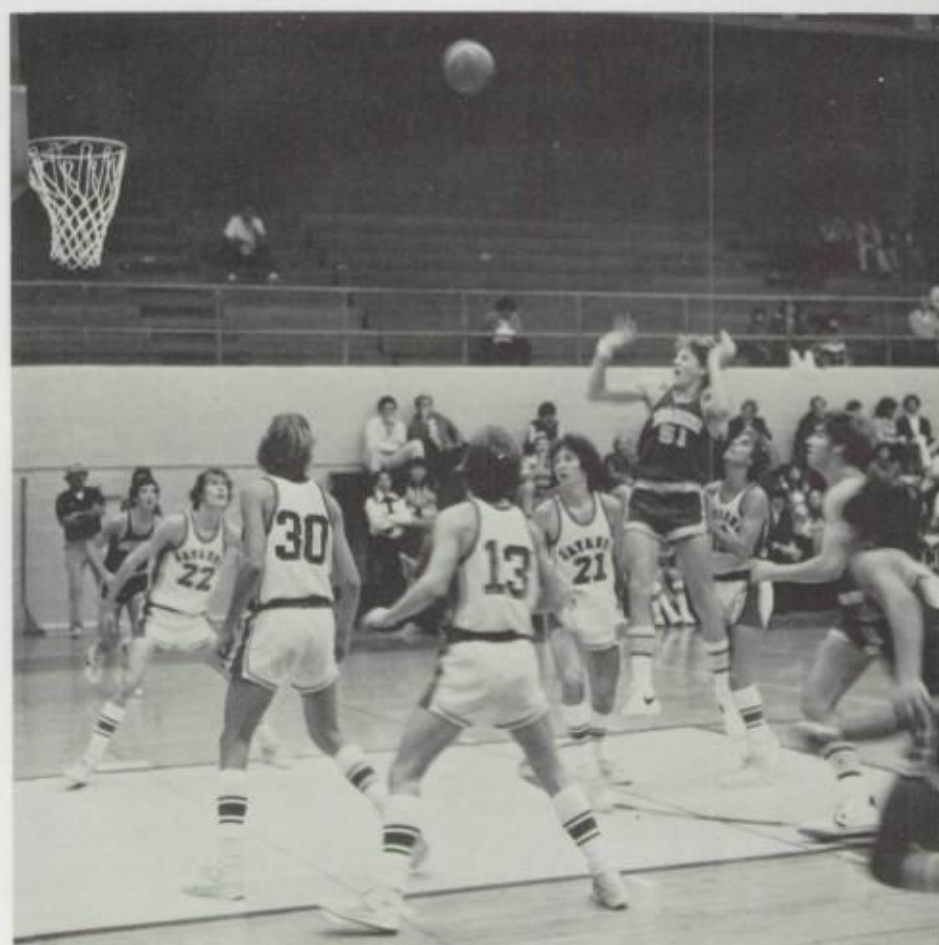

DEAN THALAS hits the front end of a one and one free-throw opportunity. Thalass was the Colonys best free-throw shooter and voted by his teammates most improved player. The Coyotes won that contest 65-48.

TRANSFER STUDENT Joe Stephenson shot a jump shot from the corner of the key. Stephenson, a center, filled in well for the injured Jeff Covey, grabbing rebounds.

FORWARD LARRY HARTMANN shoots two shots, after drawing a foul. Hartmann shot 80 percent from the free-throw line this season with high high game 11 points against Troy.

JEFF COVEY, the junior varsity center is shown shooting a shot in the key. Covey grabbed numerous offensive rebounds before he dislocated his right shoulder.

JV cagers placed 3rd in league

LED by the consistent play of Kenny Paul, Jeff Haaman, Steve LaFortune and Dennis Maguire, this year's junior varsity team finished with a respectable 7-7 record for third place.

In the pre-season, Anaheim won the consolation bracket of the Lowell tournament beating Mission Viejo and Lowell. Jeff Covey was the main reason for the Colonists success before he suffered a costly shoulder separation. Covey averaged over 13 points a game with his high game coming against Savanna with 20 points. The junior varsity finished pre-season with a 3-5 mark.

In league play, the team jumped out to a 4-1 record going into the Sunny Hills contest. The game ended in a tie sending it into overtime. The first two overtime periods ended in a scoreless tie. In the third overtime period, the deadlock was broke by Sunny Hills with a freethrow but with 10 seconds left, Hartmann hit on a 20 foot shot putting Anaheim ahead, but Sunny Hills came back to score and win.

Coach Marty Biefeld did an excellent job in coming up with the 7-7 league mark as the squad was constantly shorthanded but still gave 100 percent all the time.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER Kenny Paul hits a jumper from the baseline. The junior varsity's fate often depended on the accuracy of Paul's shot. He shot well all year.

SHOOTING OVER A TROY WARRIOR, Chris Richelieu, hits on a bank shot. Richelieu's play often sparked the squad with his aggressive rebounding and his accurate shooting.

'Super Sophs' snared victory cup

UNDER the direction of Coach Dave Collins, this years sophomore basketball team won the Freeway League championship with a 61-49 victory over Troy. The team entered the Troy game with a 11-2 record, identical to Troys, but the Colonists dominated the game thanks to Tom Garrity and Bud Alonzo.

The Colonists first league lost came against Savanna when the Rebels stalled the whole game disrupting the Colonists normal pattern and beating them by 26-22.

This squad finished the entire campaign with a good 16-6 record with much of the credit going to Coach Collins. He had the quintet prepared well for each contest. Saturday practices and late evening sessions were not un-familiar to the squad. Next years junior varsity and varsity teams should be stocked with fresh talent.

On the Sophomore JV team, under Coach Dave Motyka, the team finished with a 5-9 league record. Most Valuable player Steve Bumpass and Ron Kessler led the team.

GUARD BUD ALONZO shoots for two points in the first period championship game against Troy. In this contest, the sophomores won by a 61-49 tally. Alonzo performed consistently well running the squads offense.

DRIVING THROUGH THE KEY, forward Brian Noble lays the ball in the hoop. Noble was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates while his high game was 22 points against the Magnolia Sentenils which Anaheim won.

BUD ALONZO attempts to shoot after dribbling around a Troy defender. Alonzo was fouled on the play then made both free throws. Alonzo was voted Most Inspirational Player with his high game coming against Lowell.

JUNIOR TIM CARRILLO put forth a burst of effort and pulled away from a challenging San Clemente runner. Carrillo was known for his relay efforts as well as his triple and long jump scores. Many juniors racked up scores for the team.

THE FINISHING LINE TAPE is dropped as Anaheim's Jessie Rickie flies through it for first place. The crowd watches Ricke, a fine athlete and great contribution to Anahi's varsity track team who also competed in the 880 and 200 mile races.

KEVIN MC CULLOUGH, a point winning varsity trackster, was a part of the minority of seniors to juniors on this years varsity squad. McCullough leaped high for a good distance in the long jump.

TODD KEELER, the final runner in the 440 relay, held Anahi's lead and crosses the finish line in first. The thinclads put together an excellent relay team.

IN THE first four meets run by Anaheim's varsity tracksters, Anaheim won one and suffered three defeats. Starting off well in their first pre-season meet the varsity won by a landslide 78-40 over San Clemente. Unfortunately in this first meet, two of Anahi's sprinters were injured. The team had suffered with the loss of Greg Gange and Todd Keeler. The varsity team underwent its first defeat at the hands of Sunny Hills when they lost 30-97. This small turn-out of track members lost to Troy 84-42, and again to Savanna 93-30. One of many outstanding athletes was junior Tim Carrillo who put forth tremendous efforts and always had a good showing in the triple and long jump. Earl Jones another junior, was a returning letter-earner making his mark in the 330 low hurdles. The varsity thinclads overall leading point earner at the time was also one of the two captains, Jesse Ricke. Ricke also ran the 440 relay, 880, and 2-mile. Co-captain to Ricke was David Ramirez who also ran the 2-mile along with other events. The tracksters kept on trying in spite of a dismal beginning.

Thinclads suffered tough rivalry

ED AGUILAR AND JESSE RICKE jumped out to a quick lead in the first dual meet against San Clemente. Jessie Ricke captured first place and Ed Aguilar came in third. The two earned a total of six points.

MARK SEDAM closed in on leader Jesse Ricke at the hand-off point in the 440-yard relay. The Colonist trackmen went on to place first in this race. The final score of the meet was 78-40 in Anaheim's favor.

FERNANDO RODRIGUEZ placed first in the 880 for Anaheim in a home meet against San Clemente. With outstanding efforts like this, the varsity tracksters proceeded to win this dual meet 103 overall.

WORKING BEHIND THE SCENES giving needed advice were: Dr. Bob Sherrer, Sue Polzin, DAve Motyka, Gene Donnelly, and Curtis Cole.

Soph tracksters starred in duals

BY THE third track meet, the sophomore thinclads had already begun breaking records. Fernando Rodriguez held two in the mile and the 2-mile. Doug Franklin, another record holder, set his in the triple jump. Other thinclads with impressive times were Armador Nunez in the 100, 200, and 440 relays; Eric Marsh and Richard Kosiek both dominated the mile and 2-mile. Art Ramirez stood undefeated in the shot put with his teammate, Mike Coons putting forth a consistant effort. In their first meet, the sophomores annihilated San Clemente with final score 103-11. In their second and third efforts, the Colonist novices humbled Sunny Hills 95-11 and Troy 88-34.

AMADOR NUNEZ, a promising sophomore, darted across the finish line for first place in the 440-yard relay. Coach Bob Sherrer has high hopes for this team to come back even strong next year.

JAMES BOWERS, sophomore pole vaulter, cleared the bar in an all out effort against San Clemente. Bowers earned the team five points with this jump, and continued earning points throughout the year.

IN THE SOPHOMORE 440-YARD RACE it was Mike McDonough placing first with Mitch Atkins coming second and Scott Guy third. The trio blurred to the finish line gathering for the Anahi squad a total of nine points.

JUNIOR PITCHER Steve Valdez readies himself to lay down a bunt against the Troy Warriors, with coach Glen Bain watching on. Valdez had the second lowest ERA in Orange County, a 2.05.

PITCHER STEVE VALDEZ throws a devastating curve against the Savanna Rebels. During this game Valdez pitched without a flaw, allowing only one hit. Pitching like this kept Anahi's chances alive.

GIVING HIS ALL for Anahi, Brett King takes a head first dive into third base against the Savanna Rebels. King was one of the most consistent hitters on the varsity squad this year.

UNDER the direction of coaches Dave Moss, Glen Bain, and Sergio Avina, Anaheim's varsity squad had a very good early season record. This year's varsity squad was stuck in one of the toughest leagues in CIF which accounts for some of the squads close losses this year. Pitching for the colonist was senior David Esrig, and junior stand-out Steve Valdez. Leading the colony this year on the offensive side was junior David Reyes. In one of Anaheim's most memorable games this season, the Colony suffered greatly by the umpires' many questionable calls. The Colonists fought back only to be beat by one run. This kind of team effort typified the varsity squad this year. After this type of showing, the Colony will look forward to next year on varsity level.

JV baseballers had great year

UNDER head coach Steve Ruiz the Anaheim JV baseball team posted a great season. After losing their first league game by one run to the Troy Warriors, the Colony jumped on the Coyotes of Buena Park 9-5, & went on to win their next three out of four games. Pitching for the JV team was Joe Stephenson, and Troy Ament. Stephenson in pitching for the Colonists, pitched fantastic for seven innings allowing no earned runs. Unfortunately due to unusual circumstances, Stephenson, and the Colonists lost the game 6-5. Throughout the season the Colony had sound defense and an aggressive hitting attack. Due to the success of the team, next years Varsity will look forward to a successful year.

COACHES GORMAN AND RUIZ get ready for a tough game against the Savanna Rebels. During this game the JV's smashed the Rebels 7-1 with their consistent defense and their powerhouse offense.

INFIELDER TROY AMENT awaits the next pitch from a Magnolia Sentinel. Ament was an asset to the junior varsity squad with his consistent hitting and good fielding. On this pitch, Ament lined a single.

COACHES Rudy Kominek and Matt Stein stressed basic skills in directing the sophomore baseball squad to a great season. Starring for the Colonist this season were John Tagge and Brian Nobel. Starting off on a good note the Colonist baseball squad edged out the Troy Warriors 7-6 in a very exciting game. Boosting their season record to a perfect 2-0, the baseballers blew out the Buena Park Coyotes 11-0, showing an awesome hitting attack. Next years JV squad will be improved.

they were still big in spirit and determination which helped them to place third in league finals. Even though the swim team was composed mostly of seniors they were still able to improve and place well in league.

Finmen placed third for finals

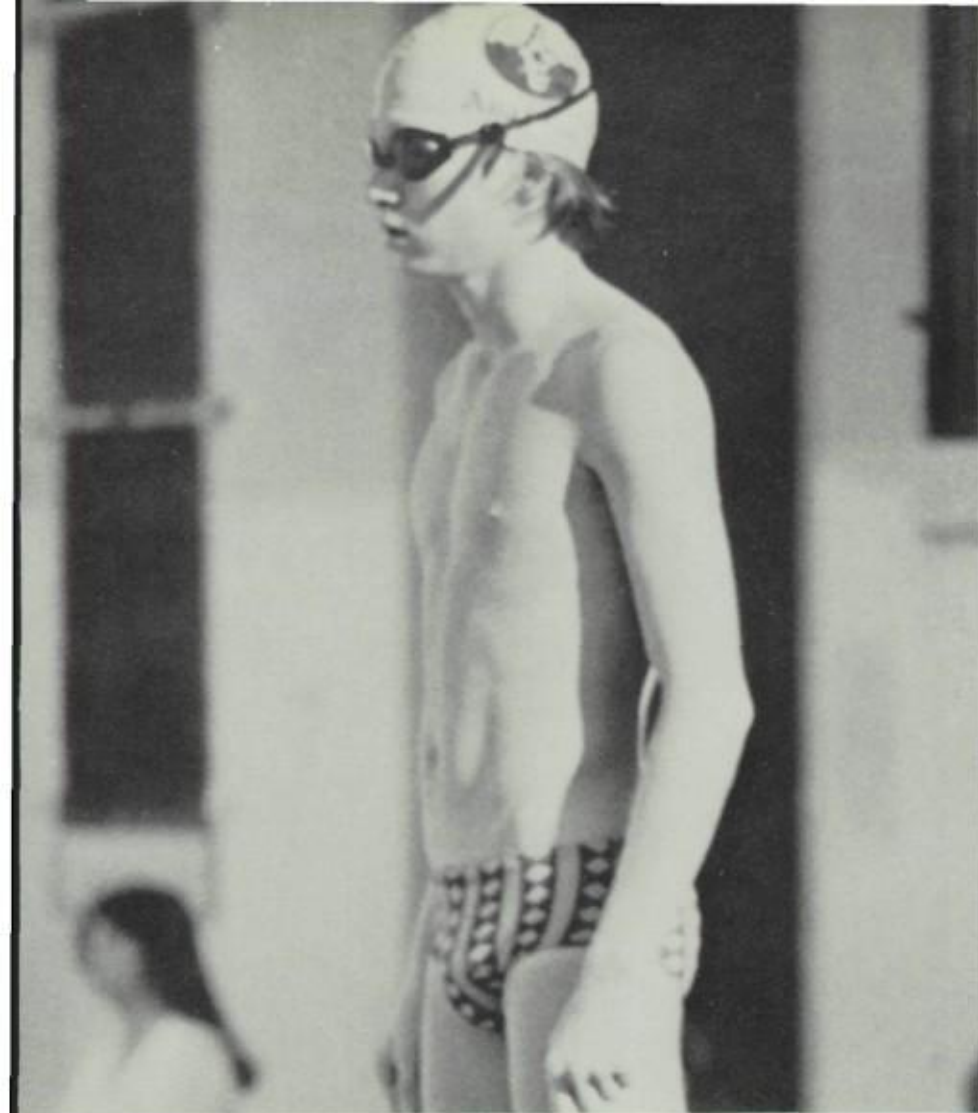

DISAPPOINTMENT was the theme for this year's varsity swim team. Unfortunately, there was a very small turn out which proved to be the biggest impediment for success.

Under the guidance of head coach Brad Tuttle, the finmen got off to a disastrous start by being blown out by Sunny Hills, Troy and Buena Park. They were able to get back on the right track by crushing both Western and Magnolia. They finished the league in the same fashion that they started it — by losing to Lowell 52-97.

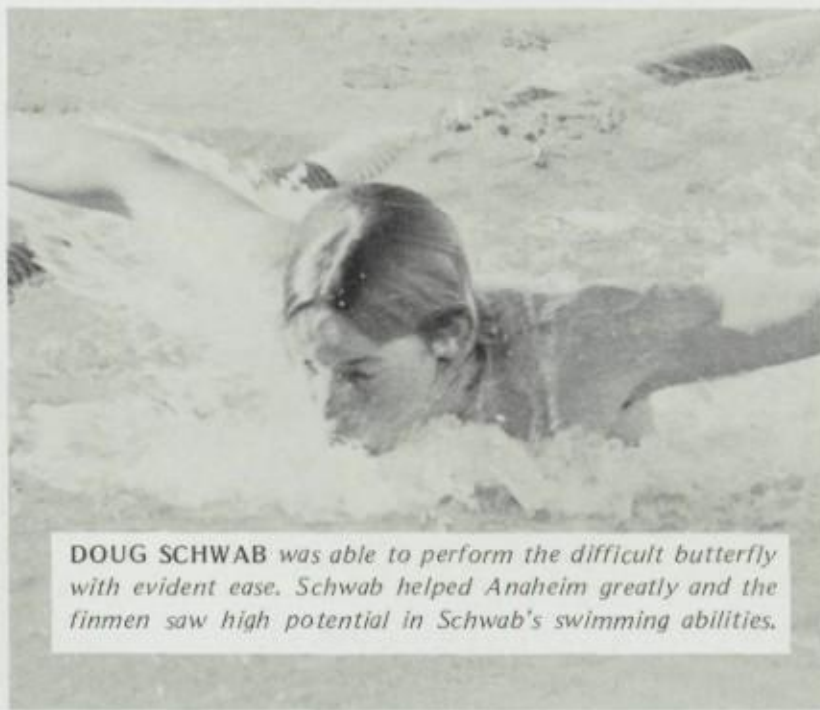

Although the team as a whole did not produce many victories, there were individuals on the team who displayed a great deal of talent. Sam Moreno, only a sophomore, was the only Colonist to qualify for CIF. Tuttle was pleased with the performances by Matt Doretti, Doug Pettibone, Dan Kruse, Edgar Abbes, Tom Tanaka, and captain Tim Coombs.

DEMONSTRATING THE MOST EFFECTIVE way to bounce off the wall during a turn was sophomore Sam Moreno. Coach Brad Tuttle and Doug Pettibone looked on very concerned during one of the swimming meets.

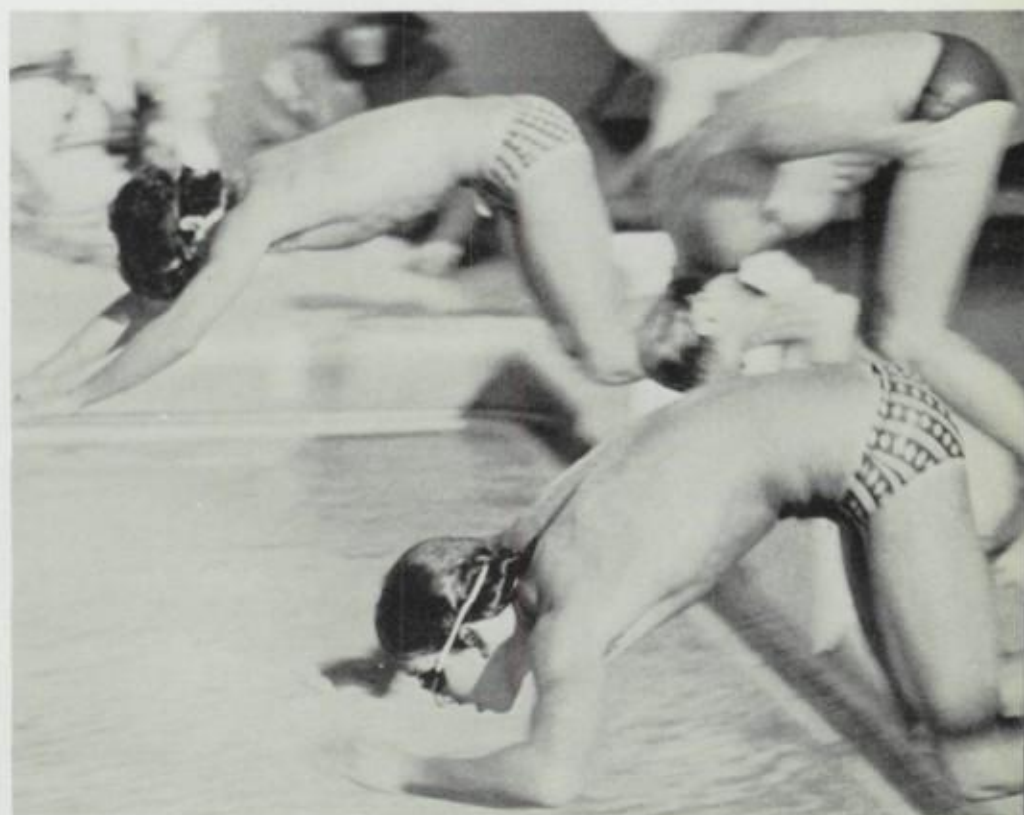

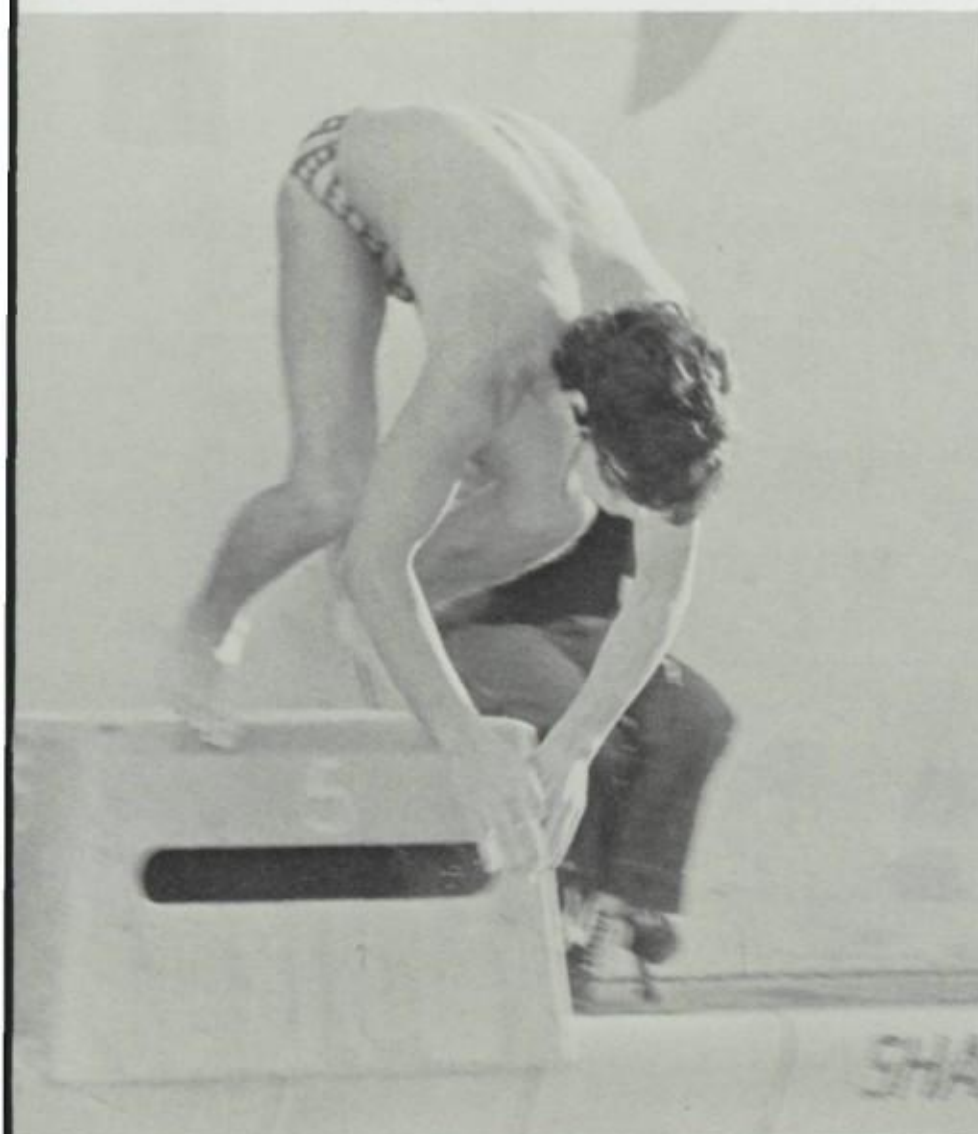

AQUAMAN TIM COOMBS set up mentally as his race was about to begin. Coombs was team captain for the Colony and coach Tuttle felt that he really helped to inspire his teammates for a more competitive year.

DOUG SCHWAB was able to perform the difficult butterfly with evident ease. Schwab helped Anaheim greatly and the finmen saw high potential in Schwab's swimming abilities.

JUMPING OFF to an extremely quick start in the 100 yard butterfly was Doug Pettibone (front) and Edgar Abbes. The 100 fly was one of Pettibone's best races and the team is sorry he will not be here next year.

ENTERING THE WATER for the 200 yard free style race was Colonist Ed Abbes. Abbes was very successful throughout the season and especially in the 200 which was one of his best races in league action.

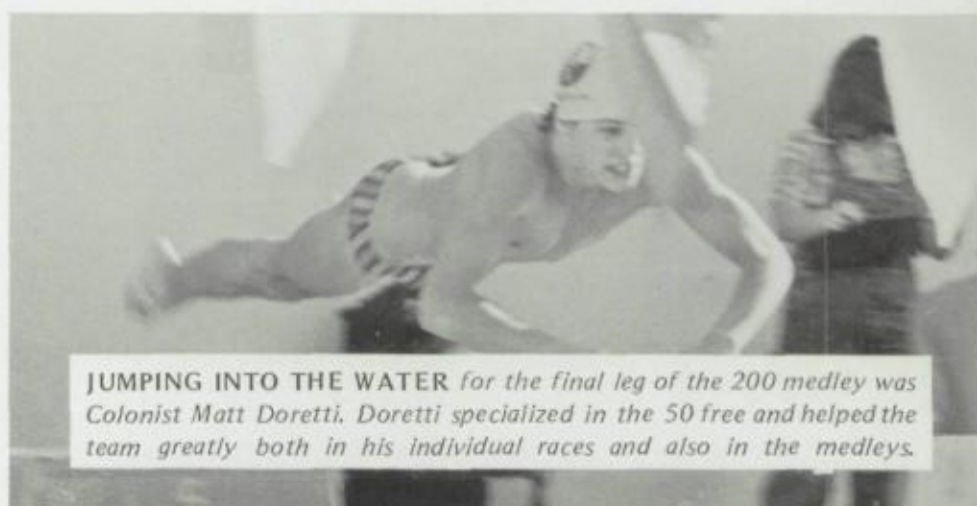

Soph Moreno gained spot in CIF swimming

FINISHING league action with a 3-4 record and fifth place the Colonists entered league finals with nothing to lose. They did their best and managed to end up in a very respectable third place behind Sunny Hills and Troy.

Even though most of the swimmers on the team were seniors, the undergraduates still earned recognition. Brad Burt, Doug Schwab, Todd Pumphrey, Gary Simmons, Jim Maldonado, William Mota, and Sam Moreno, who earned a trip to CIF, were all very capable swimmers. Coach Tuttle believes that with these talented swimmers, the prospects for next year's team is promising.

BACK-STROKER DOUG PETTIBONE took off the block with fine form. Pettibone was a three year varsity swimmer and specialized in long distance races and also in the back-stroke. He was successful in league finals with a victory in the back-stroke.

JUMPING INTO THE WATER for the final leg of the 200 medley was Colonist Matt Doretti. Doretti specialized in the 50 free and helped the team greatly both in his individual races and also in the medleys.

POSSESSING THE ABILITY to hit people behind his back was Edgar Abbes. Tom Tanaka was able to use his great strength to shove Abbes away.

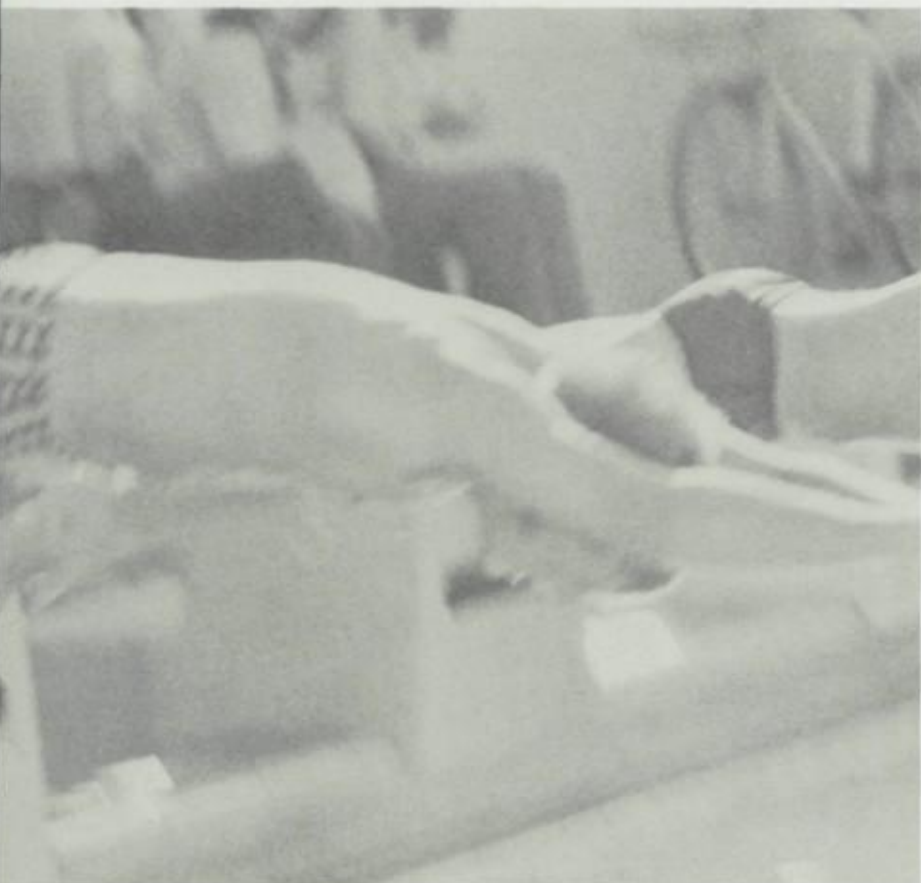

BECOMING PSYCHED UP for his next race was varsity swimmer Dan Kruse. Kruse exhibited outstanding leadership abilities throughout the season.

PREPARING FOR the third leg of the 200 yard medley was breast stroker Doug Schwab. The 200 medley proved to be a very successful race for the Colony with such swimmers as Schwab and Matt Doretti on the final leg.

GARY SIMMONS, only a sophomore, jumped off the blocks in the individual medley for a very quick start. Simmons was really capable and competed on the varsity level in all their meets throughout the season.

Tennis buffs finish 3rd in league

ANAHEIM'S varsity tennis team battled dreaded Freeway League opponents to a very respectable 9-6 record. They also came in third place behind Sunny Hills and Troy. Under the inspiration of coaches Jack Clement and Lenny Hardeman, the racqueteers exhibited great improvement throughout the year.

Paving the road to victory for the Colonists were Duane Julian, Ed Aguilar, Kevin Platt and Rafael Rivas. These were the singles players for Anaheim and collected the majority of the team points. Also helping out considerably were John Casey, Gabe Demes, Wyle Ishi, and Ken Pearson who formed the two double's teams.

Even though this year's tennis team did not have the depth that many of the other teams had, they were still able to defeat many strong teams. This was due mainly to the great enthusiasm displayed by the racquetmen. The high point of the season came against Savanna when the Colonists were down 10-13 and needed four straight matches to win. Fortunately, everyone won and the Colonists went on to defeat the dreaded Savanna Rebels 14½-13½. Clement was happy with the outcome of this season & hopes next year's team will be equally talented.

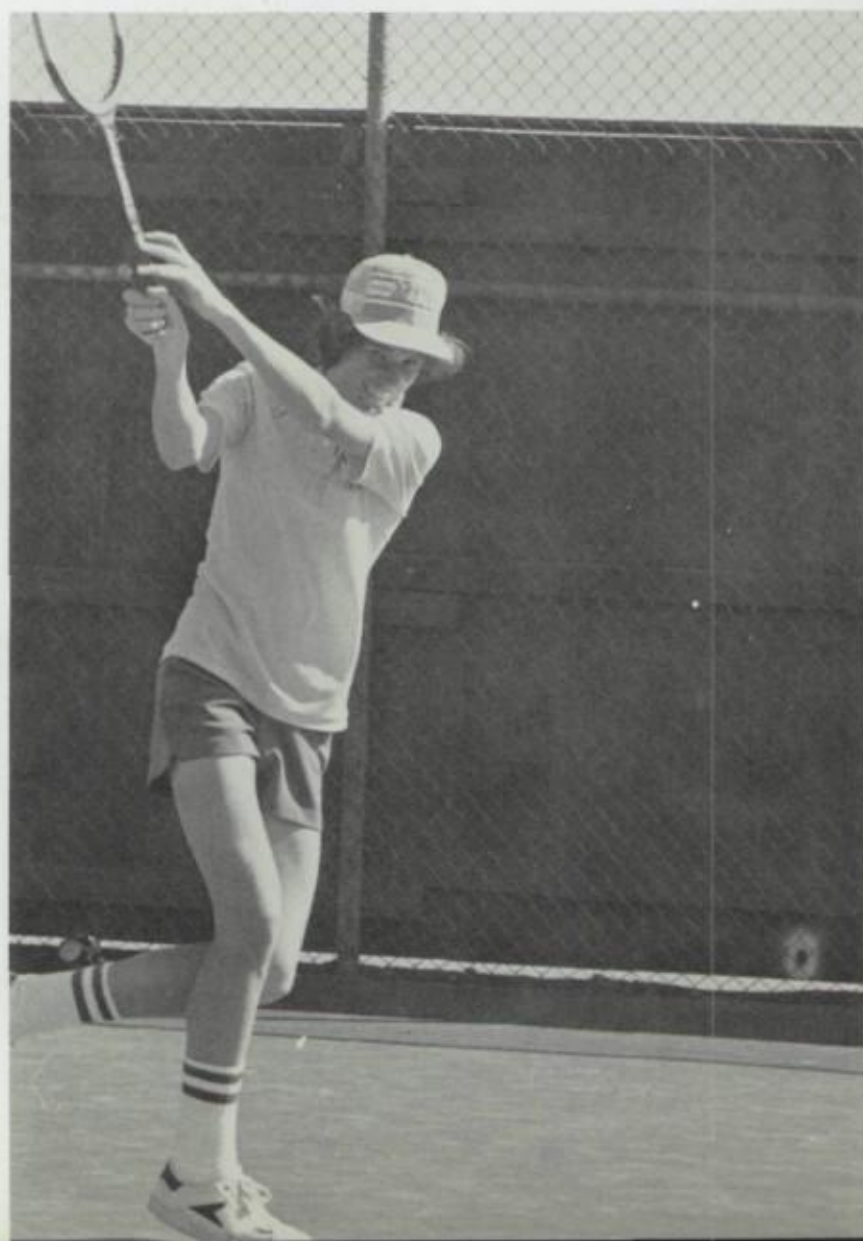

TENNIS TEAM — TOP ROW: J. Clement, R. Rivas, K. Pearson, E. Aguilar, J. Casey, R. Orlow, D. Julian, K. Platt, J. Tunnel, W. Ishi. FRONT ROW: G. Demes, K. Luu, F. McElowney, U. Lee,

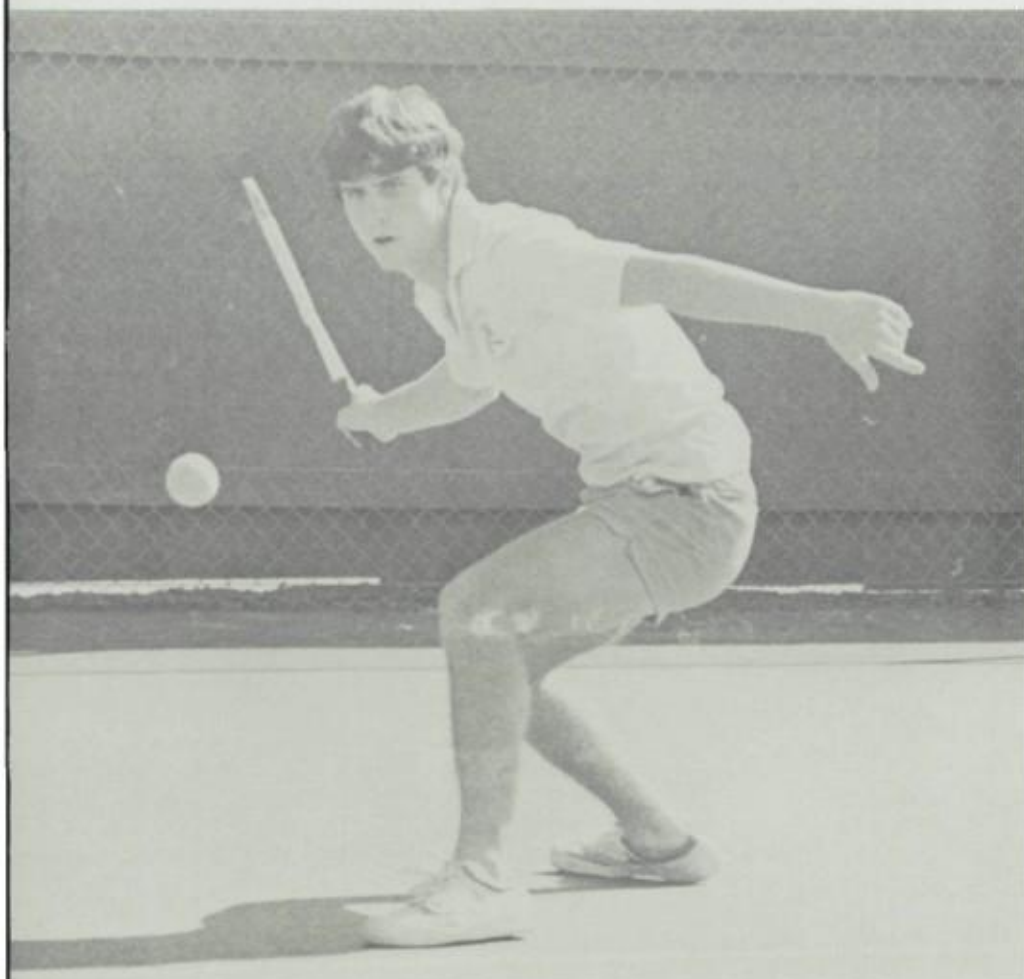

C. Sowers, T. Hunsaker, J. Guevarra. The racqueteers improved throughout the season and were very delighted with their second consecutive winning season. Many new faces showed up to help.

COACHES JACK CLEMENT and Lenny Hardeman reviewed the lineups they were going to use in one of Anaheim's matches. They helped team members by helping to show proper stroking procedures and also tactics.

SMASHING A BACKHAND down the line for a winner was racqueteer Kevin Platt. Platt was probably the most consistent player on the team and he helped the Colonists down the path toward a victorious season.

BETTER KNOWN for his touch rather than his power was Eddie Aguilar. His best match came against Buena Park where he only allowed one game to his opponents. He improved in league action.

THROUGHOUT THE SEASON, Anaheim's double's teams were the deciding factor in winning or losing a match. Ken Pearson and Wyle Ishi made up one team while John Casey and Gabe Denes the other.

Soccer team recorded best year

THE SOCCER team had many exceptional players. Among them was junior David DeAnda, he was voted the Most Valuable player of the team and of Orange County. DeAnda was also the high point scorer of the team. Gilberto Martinez, team captain, David DeAnda, and Jose Reyes were selected to the Orange County All-League first team. Reyes was also awarded the coaches award. Jose Alcala, Juan Bedoy, Miguel Martinez, and Gabriel Padilla were all selected as the Orange County All-League second team. The soccer team is awaiting next year because of its returnees.

Being a newer sport at Anaheim the soccer team had a rewarding season. With a discouraging pre-season record of 2 wins, 3 losses, the soccer team went into league play with determination and intensity to win. They proved their strength by their season record of 12 wins, 1 loss, and 1 tie. Going to the second round of CIF only to lose by one point in five overtimes. This was the first year for Richard Carrio to be coach of the team. He feels, "one reason Anahi captured a League Championship was for the strong defense and line-up that we had."

Volleyballers found seasonal play difficult

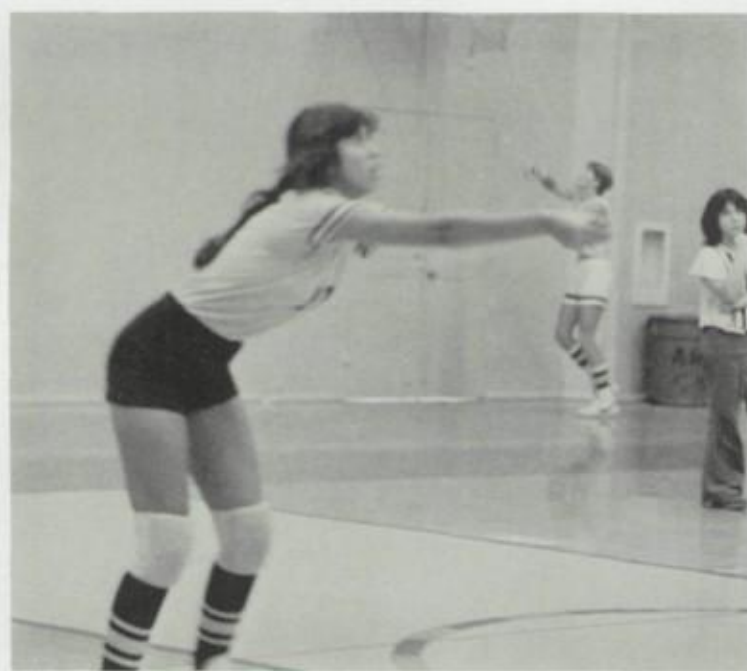

ALTHOUGH the girls varsity volleyball team had a disappointing season, the games proved to be very exciting. Despite a 1-6 record the first round and a 0-6 record the second round, the team kept good spirits about themselves.

Team captain Suzanne Woods, played well all season to become the high point player of the year with a 48 point total. Pulling a close second was Janet Smith with 45 points. Witney Moore came in third with a respectable 39 points for the season.

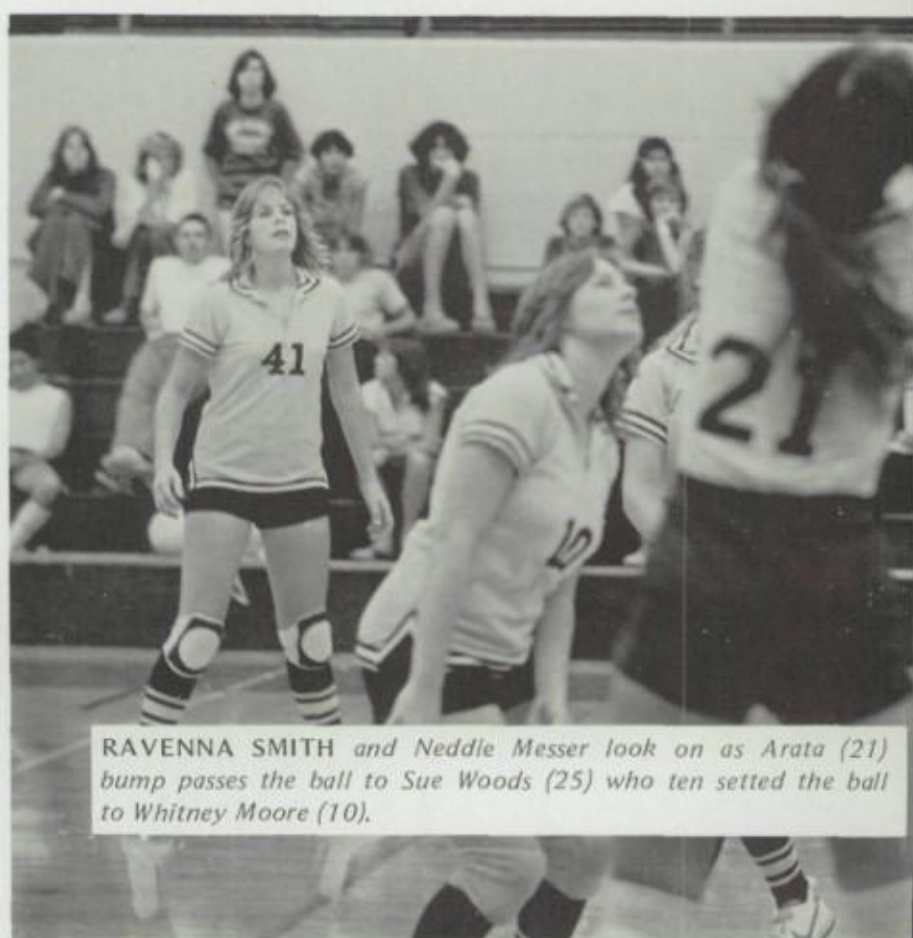

The team consisted of seven seniors and one junior. Even though the team was small they played well together, being very consistant with the three hits to one side set-up.

This year the varsity team was coached by Miss Jan Ralstan, who will be coach again next fall. She felt it wasn't winning or losing but how they played the game that mattered.

BLOCKING THE BALL against a spike made by a Santiago Player, Neddle Messler and Ravenna Smith managed to save the ball for the winning point.

BUMPING THE BALL for another player to set, was Gina Arata (21). Arata proved to be an asset to the team, returning the ball as well as spiking it.

Volleyballers found opponents tough

JUNIOR varsity volleyball had a big turn-out at the starting of the season but after losing eight players and having only nine left to play, the team managed to pull through with a 3-11 season.

Monise Johnson, a sophomore, was the high point player of the year. She managed to score fifty-nine points against opposing teams.

Two other players that proved to be assets to the team were Marie George and Tracey Waffle. George, a new student from New York, was an excellent spiker. Waffle, who came down from the varsity team, helped the junior team to some victories. All in all, the team seemed to play well together.

Experiencing much difficulty in her first year, Sheri Johnson found coaching challenging but rewarding. After a years experience, Johnson is looking forward to a more successful season next fall.

RECEIVING A SET from Tracey Waffle (40), Penny Schwab (32) spiked the ball trying to keep the action going in a tight match against Lowell.

WITH LORI DEROSA (21) looking on, Suzi Lynn (35) bump passed the ball in an effort to prepare it for a spike from Marie George (14).

Hockey players had 6-3-1 season

JUNIOR varsity hockey finished a successful season with a record of 6 wins, 3 losses, and one tie. The team was guided by Coach Diane Taylor and Lynn Terrel, captain. With only three returning players, the JVs had mostly first year girls. But despite inexperience, the team held their own against Freeway League opponents.

Outstanding players included: Debbie McCloud, Irene Lopez, Lori DeRosa, Debbie Petrilla and Jody Ambrose. As a group they performed as a team with each individual giving her all out to add to each others skills and victories.

Coach Taylor contributed to the team's spirit and taught her girls the importance of sportsmanship and the many essential skills of hockey.

BECAUSE OF HER SPEED and agility, Janet Radcliff (11) was known as "Rabbit". Janet was one of three Colonist players to make CIF first team. As this year's varsity outer, she scored numerous points and earned many MVP certificates and Big Macs.

Anaheim's septette gained CIF honors

DEBBIE Arata, varsity coach was a major asset to her team. Her fairness, devotion, and high standards of sportsmanship guided the Varsity team through a rewarding season. Each foul word uttered cost the offender 50 cents. By the end of the season, 13 dollars were collected and used for a pizza party.

From the Anaheim team were chosen six players for all-CIF teams. The three for first team were Leslie Brown, Janet Radcliff, and Cathy Richardson. Second team members from Anahi were Kelly Okamoto, Nancy Pulieo, and Marie George. The Varsity squad was filled with experienced talent and with it and lots of work, the team brought home a third place in League.

First half of the season, the team couldn't come up with a win, but continually tied. It was not until after the season was well under way that they started being victorious. Varsity lost only twice, and both times to Lowell. Ending with a record of 4 wins, 2 losses, and 4 ties, the team played fast, hard games throughout the season. It was on occasions that the opposition broke through the strong defense; and the offense played equally powerfully to bring about four wins.

LESLIE BROWNS (23) and Cathy Richardson (14) stood ready for a dive from their Buena Park opponents. Along with Janet Radcliff, Leslie and Cathy made CIF first team. Kelly Okamoto (13), Nancy Pulieo, and Marie George were second CIF teamsters.

DEBBIE ARATA, Varsity coach, devoted time and energy and added personality to her team.

Raqueteers had struggling year

STRUGGLING through a tough season Anaheim's girls tennis team put forth valuable effort and enthusiasm throughout the Freeway League competition. The team concluded the season with few victories but played well and never gave up. Many newcomers appeared on the team including sophomore Marcy Wilks who had the highest individual scores among the members. Michele Ayub and Beth Hawkins also concluded the season with high scores. Returning veterans included Grace Murillo, Devera Hansen and Carol Saubier.

Coach Armstrong felt that the members put in a lot of time and effort while at every game the tennis members gained valuable experience as they hoped to improve their tennis techniques.

SENIOR VICKI LONCHAR displayed her smashing backhand hit while returning a volley from her opponent. Lonchar performed with agility and effort, she proved to be an essential tennis player. Anahi is proud of her.

Girls' basketball played competitively

STARTING with a nucleus of experienced players, the Colonist Girls' Varsity Basketball team showed marked improvement in their play this year as they participated in Freeway League competition. Although they were unable to finish with a winning record, they played competitively in all their games, losing several by only a very few points.

Providing the needed experience that has been missing in the past, were returning varsity players Janet Smith, Janet Radcliffe, Julie Trofholz and Janell Shakelford. Up from the junior varsity were Chris Tozer and Ravenna Smith, who along with transfer student Cheryl Campbell and Sophomore Marie George, rounded out the varsity squad. The girls were very ably coached by Athletic Director Dan Miller who also was the head coach for the boys Varsity basketball team. The leading scorers on the team were Cheryl Campbell and Julie Trofholz although in a number of games the high point honor went to others.

JUNIOR CHERYL CAMPBELL leaps high in an effort to gain control of the tip after a jump ball in action during a game at the Colonist gymnasium. This was typical of the action which made girls' basketball so popular.

SENIOR JULIE TROFHOLZ displays perfect shooting form on this jump shot near the baseline, as Senior Janet Smith screens her opponent away from the basket. Julie was consistently a leading scorer throughout the year.

JANET RADCLIFFE waits in anticipation of the outlet pass during action under the basket in one of the girls' home games. While not a high scorer Janet made valuable contributions with her playmaking and steady defense.*

FOLLOWING THE BALL in anticipation of capturing the rebound is Colonist Chris Tozer and an opposing player. Chris was one of the team's outstanding players and contributed heavily to the team's successful year.*

Young basketballers lacked experience

THE SEASONAL record of the girls' JV basketball team fails to reflect the enthusiasm and dedication which was displayed by these girls who in general were playing their first season of organized basketball. Faced with the same schedule as the Varsity, the JV squad was able to win but three of their Freeway League games, however they played their opponents very closely in a number of other games. The experienced gained by these girls from participation in competition at the JV level will be of considerable value to next year's varsity team. The JV team was coached by Mr. Howard Terry.

JUNIOR DIEDRA DIMUCCIO scored two points on this jump shot over the outstretched hands of the Sunny Hills defender. Diedra is expected to be a major contributor to the success of next year's basketball team.

Anaheim connies enjoyed victories

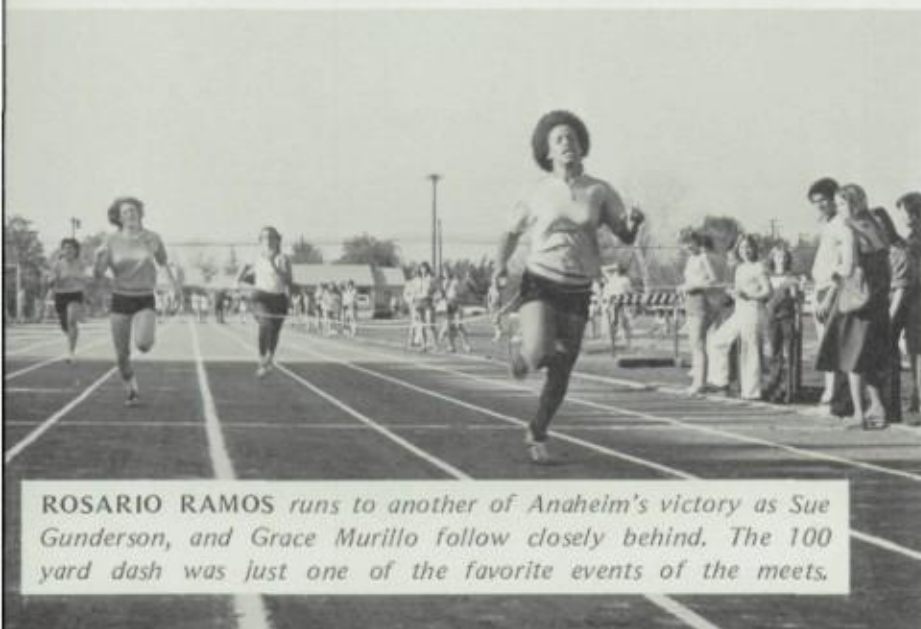

ALTHOUGH girls' track has just recently begun its traditional status at Anaheim, the second year of the sport upheld the spirit and dedication needed for a successful track team.

The track results proved that Anaheim's connies worked just as hard, and could be as successful as the boys.

Under the supervision of Coach Sheerer, the girls practiced many hours throughout the season to get in shape. Although the girls faced a lot of competition, they managed to finish with the pride and sportsmanship traditionally upheld as an Anaheim Colonist.

SHOWING HER SKILL as a member of Anaheim's varsity track team was Tammy Hemerick. The spirited sophomore held pride in running to many victories. One of her better activities was the 440 relay.

ROSARIO RAMOS runs to another of Anaheim's victory as Sue Gunderson, and Grace Murillo follow closely behind. The 100 yard dash was just one of the favorite events of the meets.

Badminton girls displayed spirit

ANAHEIM'S badminton team demonstrated determination and outstanding effort as they struggled through the tough Freeway league competition. Anahi's badminton team acquired few team victories, but individually they came through with some outstanding moments. The Varsity singles team was led by senior Karina Herrera, who won almost all her matches. Other strong singles players were Wendy Turner, Francisca Valerio and Corlos Hutchison. The teams biggest disadvantage was their inexperience in playing.

The girls started out the season by losing to Lowell and Troy, but came back to win the last few games in league. Coaching the team for the first time was Joan Fee.

JACKIE KOBEL and Carol Saurbier paired up to make a super doubles team. Both girls contributed a great deal of effort to the team to become the number two doubles pair. Concentration was necessary for this sport.

MARINA HERRERA proved her agility in her attack of the bird. Her style was to stay low and hit the shuttlecock high. This style and her endless determination helped her earn recognition as most valuable player.

Swimmers benefited by returnees

STRIVING to keep their Freeway League Championship title the Varsity and JV Girls' swim team worked harder this year than ever before. The girls were very dedicated and practiced every morning 6 - 7:30 and afternoons 2 - 4. The coaches worked with the girls constantly perfecting strokes, turns and dives. Through the long strenuous workouts, the swim team experienced a very rewarding season.

The varsity team benefited from eight returning varsity swimmers: Eileen Gathas, Suzi Linn, Rhonda Morgan, Sue Porter, Chris Seiver, Nancy Taylor, Jill Waffle and Tracy Waffle. Their experience and pride were two of the factors that made Anaheim one of the strongest teams in the league. Also of aid to the varsity team were junior Cheryl Campbell and sophomores Karen McMaken and Gayle Berkowitz. Berkowitz had exceptional times in the 500 yards free style relay.

Coaching the varsity team were Vicky Barker and Kerron Cozens. Barker coached the team throughout the season, while Cozens returned to coach mid-way through the year after seasonal employment.

Under the guidance of coach Howard Terry, the JV team also enjoyed a fine season. The girls put considerable effort into getting into shape so that they could perform to the best of their ability. The major difference between the varsity and JV teams generally was not that of skills but of experience. Competition at the JV level was the means which these girls gained that experience.

Girls tyrannized tough FL squads

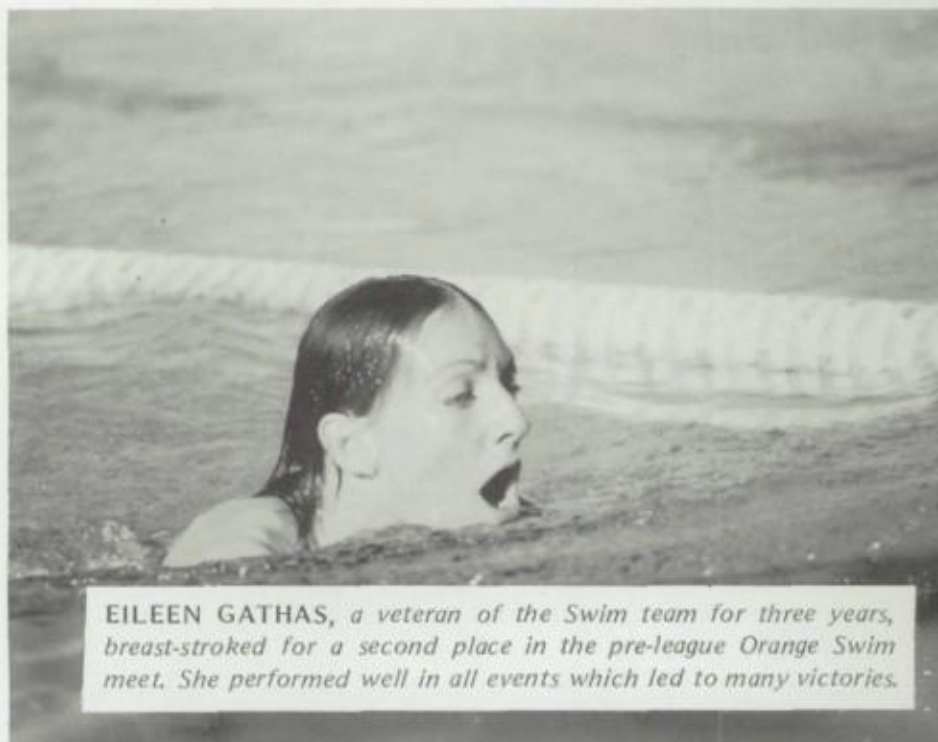

UNDER the joint guidance of Mr. Howard Terry, Vicky Barker, and returning coach Kerron Cousin, both the varsity and JV teams benefited greatly from their knowledge and experience. Each swimmer had individual time spent with one of the coaches, who criticized their swimming ability and helped them to correct their flaws. The varsity coaching position this year was shared by Vicki Barker and Kerron Cousin, who returned to the team in mid-April from seasonal employment. The JV team was coached by Mr. Howard Terry.

SUZI LINN, a three year varsity member, swam the grueling 500-yard free style event during the Los Alamitos meet. Linn was tough competition for her opponents, while her experience and endurance benefited the team.

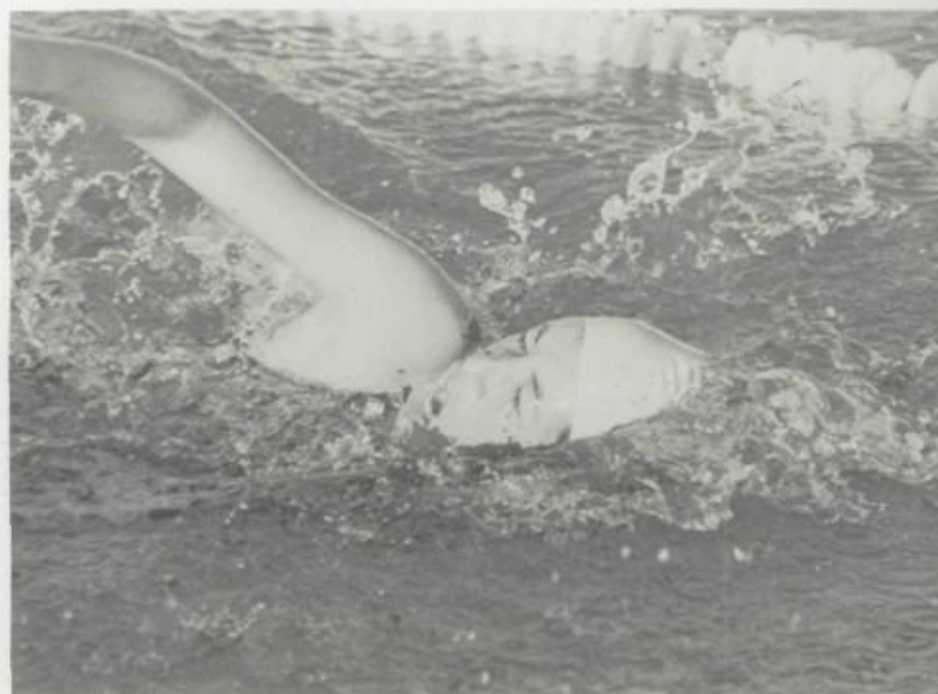

COACH HOWARD TERRY and assistant coach Vicky Barker supervise an afternoon workout. The team benefited from both their knowledge and experience in coaching the swimming techniques.

SUSAN PORTER gave a smile of victory after completing the 100 yard breast stroke in first place. Porter was a member of the varsity team three years and was a valuable asset to the team each and every year.

EILEEN GATHAS, a veteran of the Swim team for three years, breast-stroked for a second place in the pre-league Orange Swim meet. She performed well in all events which led to many victories.

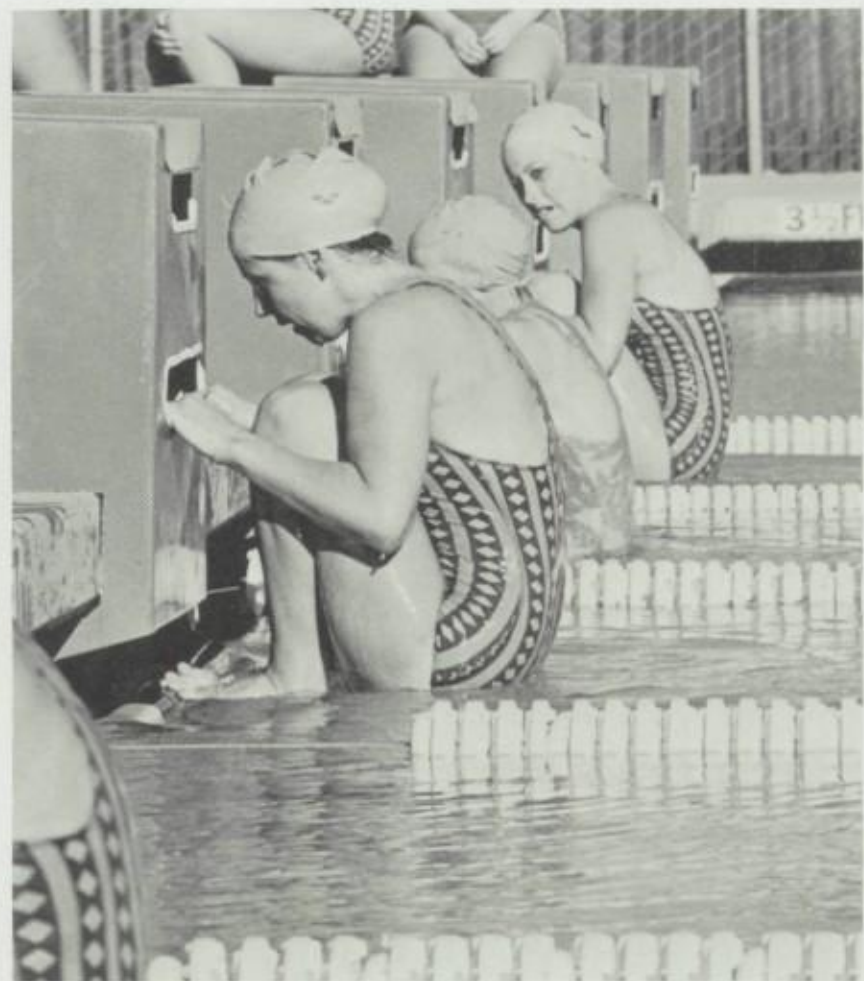

SOPHOMORE GAYLE BERKOWITZ performed excellently during her first year on the varsity team. Her specialty was 500-yards free, in which she would often beat her competition by minutes, leading Anahi to victory.

WHILE RELAXING in between events, the Swim team cheered on fellow teammates and also tried to get a tan. The team put more effort and time into this season than ever before to retain their League Champion title.

SENIOR JILL WAFFLE and sophomore Laura Ibsen prepared to start in the backstroke. Ibsen, although a novice, showed much promise when the year progressed, as she perfected her start to get an early advantage.

THE VARSITY 400-yards free style relay team showed excellent starting formation. The varsity team worked hard throughout their entire season to make this season as successful as last. Their effort was well rewarded.

Softballers had excellent start

STARTING off the year with two strong softball teams was a great asset and privilege for Anaheim. The JV and Varsity were busy practicing and learning new techniques so they could be CIF champs for the third year in a row, which all say they can do for Coach Van.

Seniors Janet Smith, Julie Trofholz, Ravenna Smith, and Leslie Brown were the returners who brought experience and excitement to the varsity team. The JV's were supporting a powerhouse full of outstanding players as Cathy Torres, Dee Dimuccio, Donna Russo, and Mary Brockway. All other players were a part of a great team.

At deadline time the varsity had played two tough games against Katella and Orange winning both of them. All the girls on each team worked hard to accomplish the right to keep the name and title "Home of The Champs."

"what's happening"

TACKLING upsets or bolts out of the blue as they came along, the faculty did their best to handle and uphold the tradition of academic excellence at Anaheim. Through group effort of the counselors, faculty, administration, and the Student Body much was achieved during the '78 year.

Though after a year of new administrative leaders the Colony experienced a few new ones. A new counselor was sent to replace 41 year veteran Mason Henry as head counselor for the '79 school year and Art Bosna from Savanna High as new assistant principal.

Although there will continue to be modifications made in the academic program at Anaheim future Colonists will be given the same opportunities to grow in their knowledge as they have in the past.

Doretti escorted caliber cabinet

LEADING, guiding, and carefully directing Anaheim's Student Body through a busy and prosperous year was the Student Cabinet. They planned and scheduled events, recommended needed changes, and intelligently discussed the various problems confronting Colonists and administration.

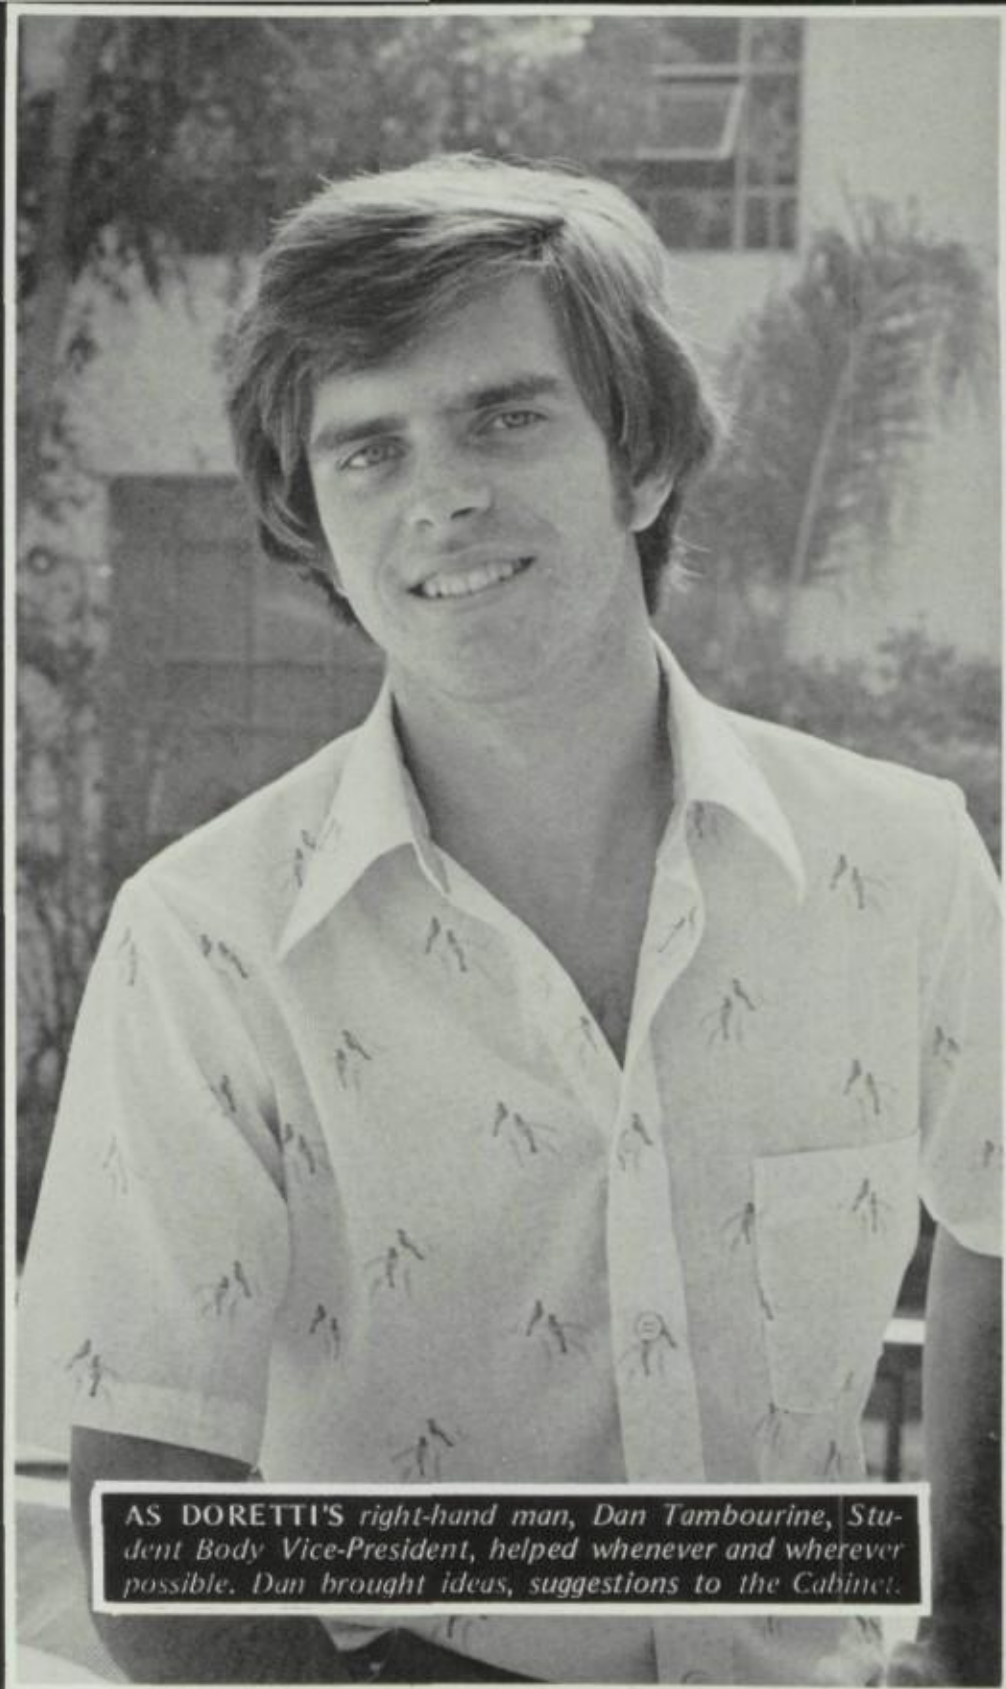

The job of upholding the Student Cabinet and representing Anaheim High fell heavily upon the shoulders of Matt Doretti, Student Body president. He showed much concern and responsibility in the handling of student affairs. He represented Anaheim throughout the community as well as the students and faculty on campus.

The Cabinet met every day during fourth period under the direction of John Motzkus. Because of the Cabinet's lasting efforts and achievement, many students quoted this year as being "very enjoyable and exciting," favoring the rewarding results of the various activities.

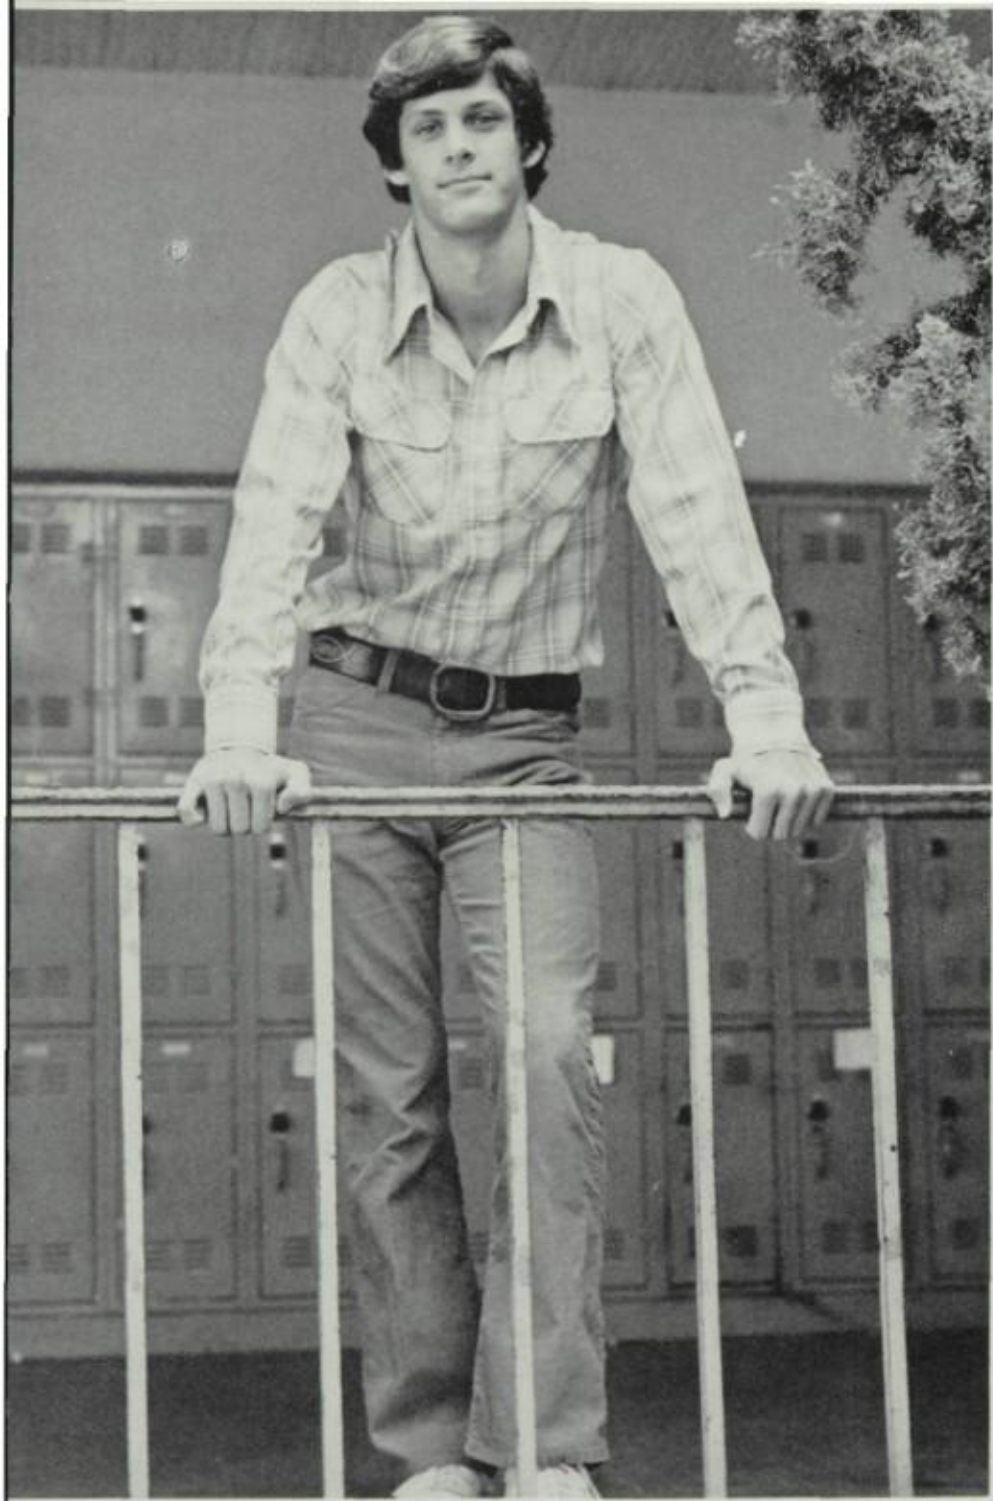

WITH THE JOB of taking minutes at meetings and making sure student funds were properly allocated, Shelly Frawley, Student Body secretary, and Lori DeRosa, treasurer, displayed their talents throughout the school year.

HELPING THE STUDENT CABINET for his fifth year was Activities Director John Motzkus. He contrived exciting ideas for the Cabinet and Student Body in order for this year to be more fun, creative, and successful.

AS DORETTI'S right-hand man, Dan Tambourine, Student Body Vice-President, helped whenever and wherever possible. Dan brought ideas, suggestions to the Cabinet.

AS AN ACTIVE and inovative Anaheim Student Body President, Matt Doretti led all other officers throughout the year. Doretti's job was to attend luncheons, meetings, and being involved in happenings on campus.

PUTTING ALL EFFORT in their jobs were Jenny Langford, comissioner of Student-Faculty Relations, and Janet Radcliffe, Comissioner of Anahl's Activities.

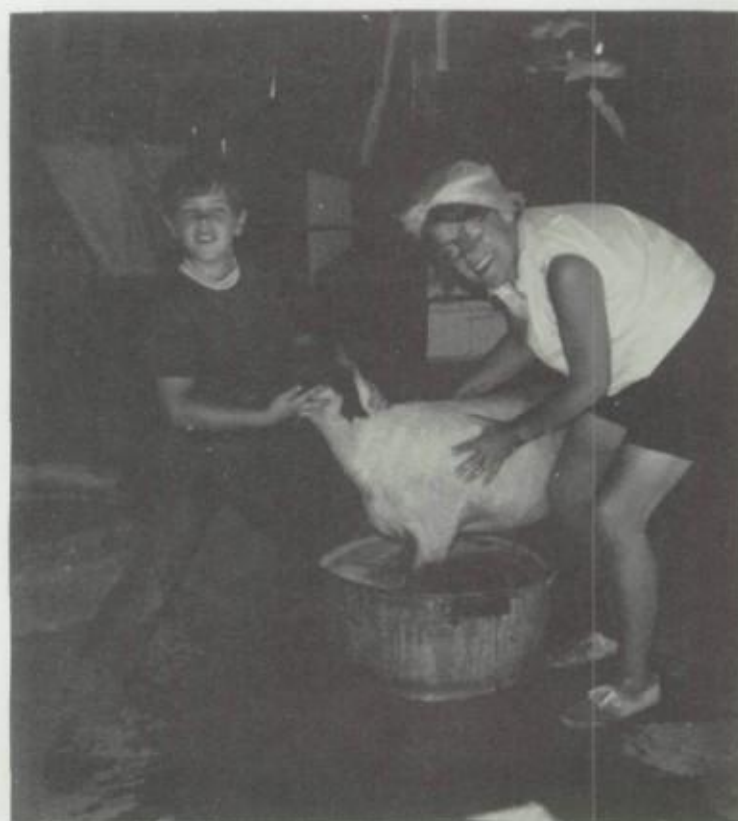

ADVISING THE PRESIDENT was an important task subtly held by three competent students, Cindy Stewart, Sue Gunderson, and Randy Horton, a great team.

Teachers' other side demonstrated

STUDENTS many times seem to forget that the men and women they see every day giving lectures, handing out homework, and sometimes unsatisfactory slips are individuals with the same feeling of happiness, hurt, warmth and understanding as they have. Teachers many times wait with more anticipation for holidays and vacations than students. They're also counting the days, hours and minutes until the last day of school. They are not dictators 24 hours a day. they also take time to have fun, or to just relax. On this spread students will see the impossible, teachers having fun and even acting crazy.

MRS. "B" BODE SHAMPOOED a lamb for a contest entry in the county fair. Mrs. Bode has a wide variety of hobbies including music, swimming, yoga and the almost lost art of china painting.

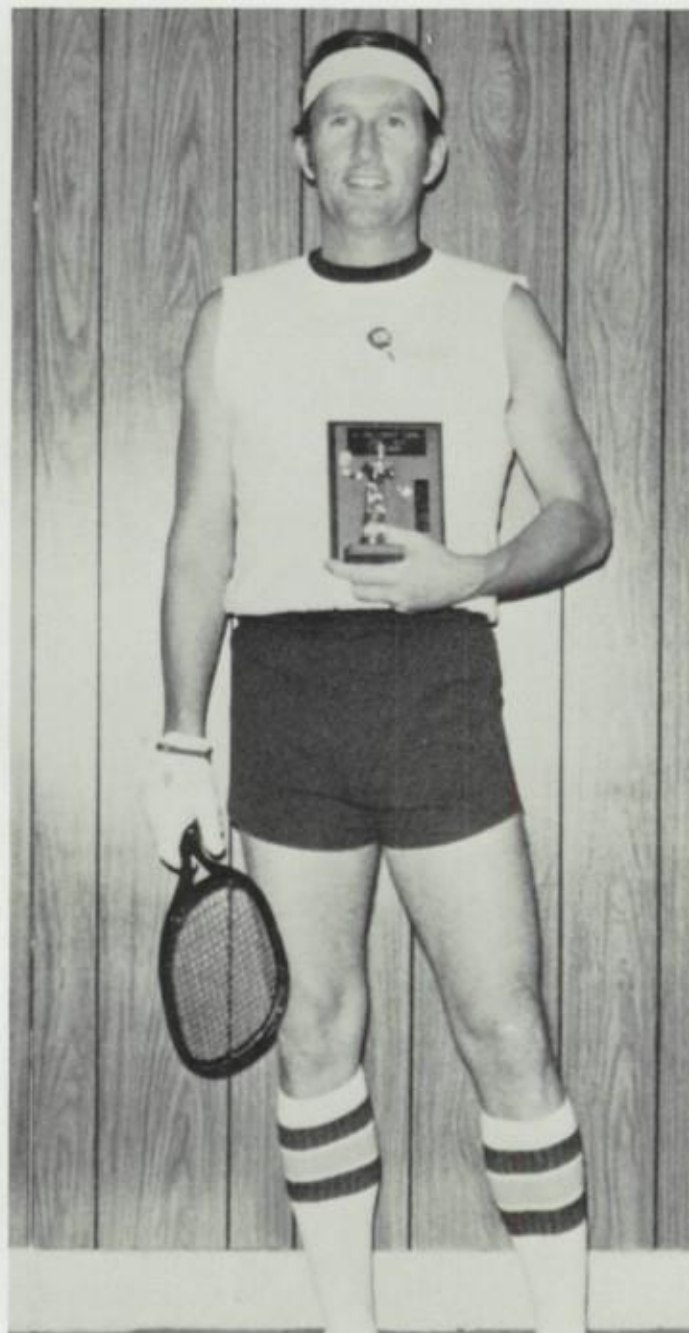

MS. BARBARA MAHAFFIE SPENDS her spare time with her hobby of baking and decorating cakes. Many times during the school year her students were treated with some of her delicacies.

MR. DAVE MOTYKA (the man with the antlers on his head) poses for a Christmas picture with his friends. He wishes to remind you to face the world with a serious intent and a smile.

MR. DALE L. SCHROEDER, after the pressures and duties of administering a high school, enjoys his free time relaxing, and with his family. His favorite pastime, with his son, is playing or watching baseball.

MR. RICHARD FISCHL, a drivers' education teacher at Anaheim for 14 years, displays a racquetball plaque he was awarded at a tournament. Mr. Fischl spends much of his spare time participating in this sport which helped to keep him in physically good shape.

MR. BOSNA HOLDS AND PETS a lamb at the San Diego Petting Zoo. Mr. Bosna, assistant principal at Anaheim High for his first year, spends as much time as possible with his family. He was a positive asset for his year, as his rapport with the student body grew.

PROMOTING LEARNING, especially that of mentally gifted students, was a major goal of Anahl's administrators. Principal Dale L. Schroed often conversed with members of the faculty in attempts to achieve this goal.

TRYING TO MAKE Anaheim High School's 80th year in existence a memorable one for those attending, Mr. Robert Cross, assistant principal, approached students with a smile. His efforts were highly appreciated.

PERPETUAL ENERGY quite often was a characteristic of Mr. John Motzkus, activities director. Displaying his leadership abilities, Motzkus helped Anahl's student government by offering suggestions on future happenings.

BECAUSE OF his fortunate talents in helping students to help themselves, Mr. John Motzkus was the director of Anaheim's activities again this year. Motzkus often guided student leaders with his thoughtful advice.

Activities guided by administrators

STRIVING to make 1978 a memorable year for those attending Anaheim High, Mr. Dale L. Schroeder, principal, and his fellow administrators were very much a part of what was happening on our campus this year. Taking advantage of their true leadership abilities by enforcing the education regulations on Anahi's campus, Schroeder and his assistants proved to be a major backbone of Anaheim High. Mr. Robert Cross and Mrs. Arthur Bosna, assistant principals, contributed their efforts in administration by helping Schroeder manage our school. Bosna, who replaced Miss Cynthia Grennan after she left Anahi, neatly adjusted into the Colony life and was a major help. John Motzkus, activity director, also displayed his administrative knowledge in guiding students throughout the year. These campus leaders were very necessary.

STUDYING AT Anaheim High School was made easier and learning was accomplished more readily through the efforts of Principal Dale L. Schroeder. Both faculty and students alike appreciated his leadership.

ASSISTING PRINCIPAL Dale L. Schroeder once again was Mrs. Thelma Thomas, his secretary. Because she usually fulfilled her responsibilities with indefatigable effort, Thomas was truly a part of what was happening.

TRANSFERRING FROM Nova High to take Cynthia Grennan's place as assistant principal, Mr. Arthur Bosna proved to be a talented administrator. His way with people and consistently positive nature was advantageous.

ENCOURAGING STUDENTS to achieve the maximum as far as learning is concerned, Mrs. Maxine Neely guided academically alert students with her fortunate advice. Mentally gifted students got well acquainted with her throughout the year.

STRENGTHENING the prevalent spirit and pride of Anahi, Mr. Henry guided students.

INFORMING SOPHOMORES of their previous accomplishments and graduation requirements, Mrs. June Morris guided students at March's conference.

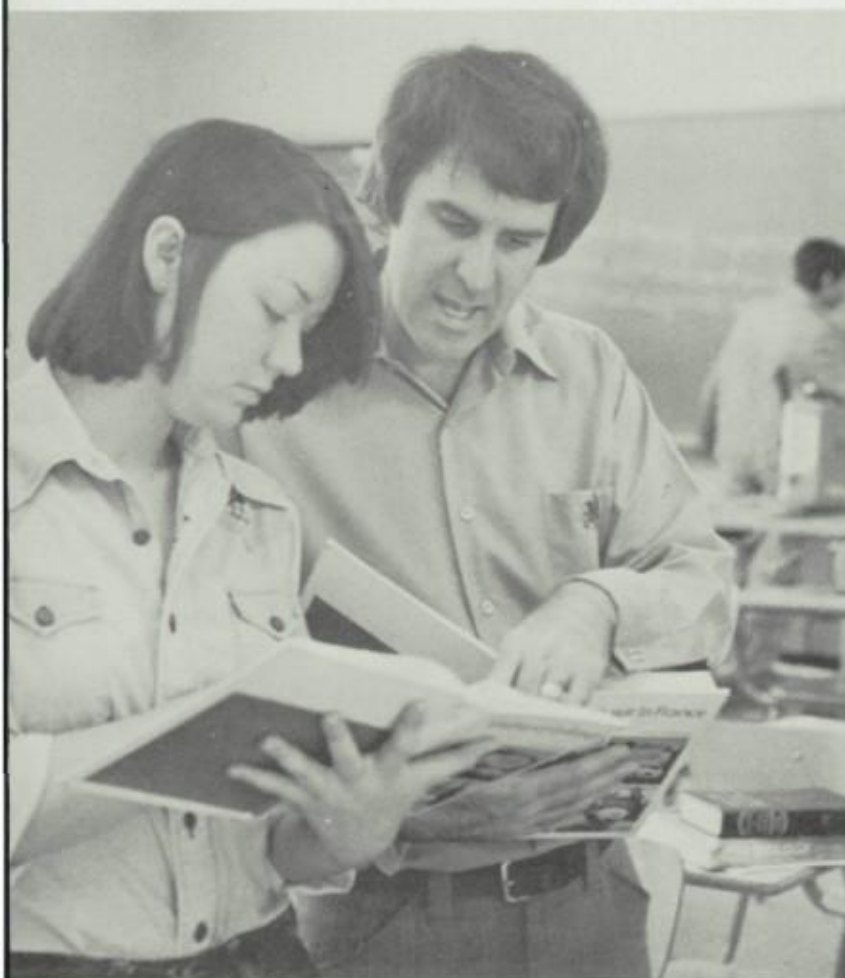

Academic guiders enthused students

GLEAMING from the intensity of their brightness, Anahi's counselors proved to be a "guiding light" to many thankful students who took advantage of their presence. Providing Colonists with information about available classes, graduation requirements, and future careers were some of the counselors' responsibilities. Because of students' desires to learn about future demands for labor and pragmatic interests on how to receive on-the-job work experience in fields of their choice through the ROP program, a career guidance center was made available to students. Because of their faithful work and accomplishments, counselors were a large part of Anaheim.

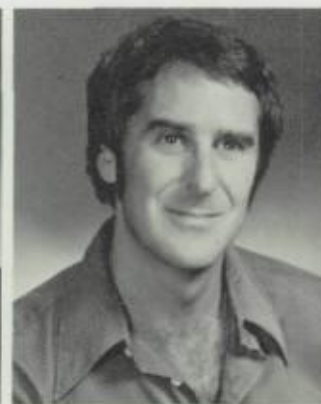

Teaching students to speak in various "tongues" foreign to the average American was the responsibility of the foreign language department. Their efforts enabled many students to speak either French, German, or Spanish as a second language.

TAKING ADVANTAGE of the availability of audio-visual equipment, Mr. Paul Peterson made learning more enjoyable for a large number of students. In addition to teaching German, Peterson also instructed students about life sciences.

HELPING INDIVIDUAL students when they were in need of assistance was one reason why Mr. Sean Macbeth was a popular educator. Tutoring a student "face-to-face" enabled a lot more learning of the French language to be accomplished.

English courses aided students

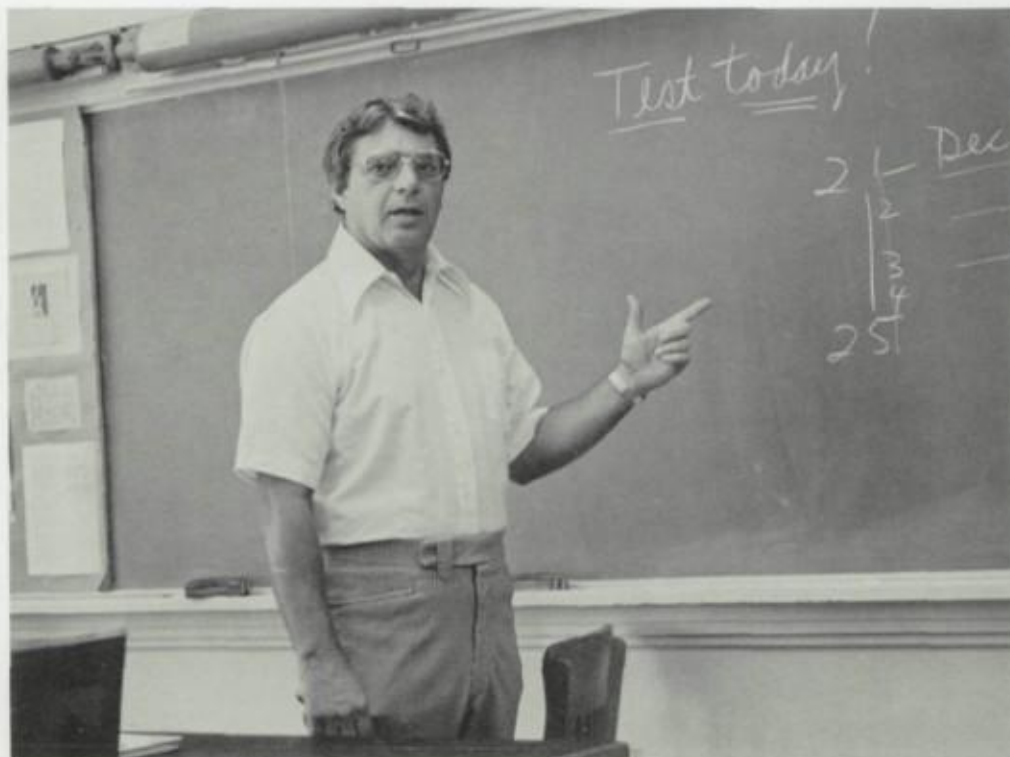

IN THE school year of '77-'78 the students showed much interest in the English, Literature and related courses offered. With the direction of the department head, Jo Carolyn Kent, the English teachers worked together to provide an informative as well as interesting year for the student body. Some of these courses were the study of American and World Literature, Communications, Speech and many others. For the more advanced student was honors English.

A new experience for students and teacher alike was the current addition of Leslie Emmes. She was a great asset to the English department as well as all of the department's instructors.

The motive of all the instructors was to attract the interest of the students and at the same time teach them something that would be extremely important throughout the lives of every student.

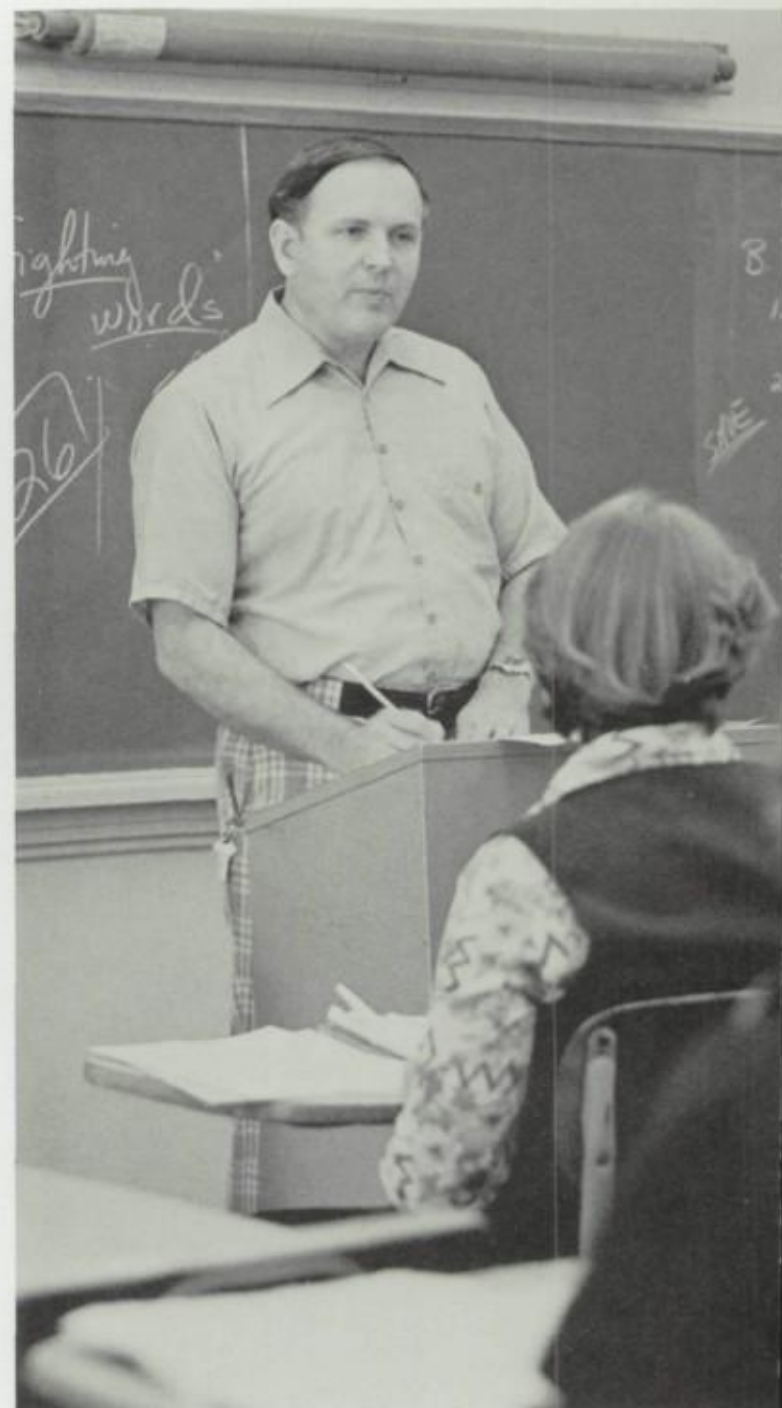

Returning for the second semester was Larry Quille. He left his life of leisurely retirement to aid in the production of the yearbook and paper.

It was a good year for the English Department.

AS A HISTORY TEACHER, John Tonti frequently tested and quized his classes. A 22 year veteran pf Anaheim High, Tonti has been in contact with thousands of young minds, teaching them the great values of being exposed to and learning of historical events.

"BOLTONISM" DOMINATED the class as colorful Jim Bolton spiced his lectures with funny expressions and indistinguishable sound effects, Bolton also proved himself not an artist when he tried to draw oil refineries and congressional buildings on the chalk board.

PEERING OVER HIS CLASSES, Greg Beale carefully gave his class the once-over, looking for any unattentive student. With 28 years of teaching behind him, Beale has learned to interrupt his pupils' actions and practiced what he found the best way to teach.

Studies in history enriched students

SOcial science teachers especially were involved in Colonist confusion and extra classroom activity. Jack Clement and Jim Bolton worked with the Class of '78 as senior advisers. With their unfaltering assistance, the seniors were able to graduate without too many obstacles. Clement also served as boys tennis coach; Chuck Wilson sponsored Ski Club; and Glen Bain, Gardening Club; a few played active parts in the district politics and still others worked school sporting events.

American Government, United States History, psychology, sociology, minorities, current issues, and world history gave students a broad selection from which to choose their social science electives. In his second year of teaching advance placement American History, Jim Bolton led the AP group in panel debates, discussions, and class seminars. Bolton took over for Mr. Larry Decker when he retired after the 1976 school year. 1978 was a busy year, one that reflected the many events of what was happening on Anahi's campus and around the city of Anaheim.

TENNIS COACH and American Government teacher, Jack Clement showed his school spirit by out-fitting in his tennis garb, Clement was also co-senior class adviser.

AMUSING THE CLASS with one of his anecdotes, Charles Wilson shot a grin as the camera flashed his way. Wilson was an easy going teacher who could make his students feel comfortable in his class. Faculty adviser of Anaheim's Ski Club, he himself also enjoyed numerous sports.

Academics kept students occupied

PASSING on their knowledge of the academic courses were John Hammen, Louise Lance, Phillip Lucero, William Rowley, and Dean Taylor in the science department. Several interesting courses were offered: biology, chemistry, and physics were some of the selections. Though the going got tough at times the students hung in and broadened their scientific skills. Mathematics also opened new doors for its students, the mathematics teachers were Gary Long, Warren McCauley, Elsa Ozuna, and Del Weber. The business department provided many advanced courses to serve as prerequisites for college. The enrollment in the business classes was very good and the recipients attitude was too. FBLA Club was offered for interested students; Charles Cox acted as the club's willing and very capable adviser.

Various arts provided for Anahi pupils

ARTISTIC skills in Anaheim students were brought to life and were able to develop under the guidance of Anahi's art teachers. In shop classes, boys could work with wood, with metals, and in electronics. If architecture was what they desired, Douglas Allen offered courses in drafting. For anyone interested in cooking, Julia Voake taught culinary techniques and meals for moderns, Hazel Ellis had sewing and needlecraft classes. With the help of Mrs. Phyllis Platfoot of Katella High, Mrs. Ellis initiated a nurse school program and started to admit children second semester. In photography, Tony Freeman taught his cameramen beginning and advanced skills of taking pictures. Both vocal and instrumental musics were offered under Mr. Ross Davis, the Marching Band, as well as the symphonic band took high awards in all major competitions.

CLEMS IN CULINARY Techniques became a popular sight on Anaheim's campus; senior Tom Colicchio, a varsity baseball player, enjoyed consuming the gastronomic concoctions. Mrs. Voake, a first year Colonist, seemed to like the male additions to her classes.

AUTOMOBILES AND MACHINERY being hobbies of his, Donald Sneed took advantage of his conference period to do some extra puttering on one of his shop motors. Sneed, in 13 years of teaching, has learned a great deal about boys and cars — and how to help both.

STUDENT TEACHING out of Long Beach State, Mr. Bill Iwaki worked with Douglas Allen in drafting and Tony Freeman in photo. Gentle and soft-spoken, he handled class.

GUIDING HER STUDENTS through a good year was Diane Taylor. She was liked by her students and offered an interesting technique of teaching. Taylor fit in very nicely with the rest of the PE department.

LOOKING ON to his students, Dan Miller made the '77-'78 school year a good one for his classes. Miller taught boys' PE and served as the boys' and girls' basketball coach. An admirable teacher.

AS IN the past Anaheim's physical education classes were both enjoyable and healthful for the many students enrolled in the classes. PE instructors were Dee Armstrong, Joan Fee, Diane Taylor, Wayne Atkins, Brant Cowser, Gene Donnelly, and Dan Miller.

Students and teachers alike enjoyed the various classes, among those were tennis, swimming, football, softball, volleyball, badminton, and many other active sports.

Once again the physical education teachers stressed the importance of vigorous physical activity in everyday life. The instructors were very helpful to students in the diet department, clearly stating the necessity for a well-balanced daily meal plan. Another significant facet in health.

Several of these teachers proved to be excellent coaches as well as great teachers in the classroom. With the magnificent courses offered the instructors were very successful in reaching the students needs for an active schedule in fitness. Such popular sports like tennis and swimming were practiced both in and out of the classrooms. Though PE was not a required course for seniors, several took the class.

Health ed, driving required of sophs

HEALTH education and cars were a big part of what was happening on the Anahi campus. Mr. Jon Urbanek and Mr. Robert Hager strove to install nutritional eating habits and healthy ways of keeping fit into sophomore minds. These were important lessons; living in today's spinning world of fast food joints and modern conveniences, youths were tempted to diviate from healthful practices.

To secure a safe driving record, sophs were also put through driver training courses. Through books, simulators, and on the road instruction, students were drilled in proper driving methods and traffic law and safety. A large percent of the Anahi population owned their own cars or had easy access to one. With Friday and Saturday night cruzings, partying, and stadium paintings, to say nothing of regular travel to and from school, driving was a major part of what was happeninh; as a sport as well as transportation.

Faculty members themselves took part in Colonist confusion, on and off of campus. Many spent extra hours outside of school at sporting events collecting and selling tickets, as club advisers, as coaches, and participating in faculty oriented activities.

Health and driver education were both significantly important areas of learning. And each, if put to effective use by students, would serve them in future years of driving, eating, and surviving.

GRADES WERE A NECESSARY part of teaching any class, especially at the end of the quarter. Robert Hager, 23 years at Anaheim High, has instructed many in proper health.

SED annexed to Special Education

SPECIAL Education added a new program this 1977-78 school year. The Special Enrichment Development (SED) took off at a steady pace, under the leadership of Mrs. Marcia Baumfeld, the newest addition to AHS' Special Education dept.

Dr. Robert Sherrer, department chairman, again guided his faculty peers through another year of assisting and working with the handicapped pupils.

As each individual required special attention and aid, each Special Education teacher was personally qualified. It took a unique character to do their work, and every one of them gave greatly of himself.

Visually impaired students took an active role in the Colonist activities. Senior Kevin Rapp and Grace Shukui were both active participants in the vocal music program. Peggy Martinez, a restless and colorful senior, could be seen running around the campus terrorizing underclassmen and upsetting teachers.

The Learning Center provided a homebase for the handicapped Colonists and a central locale for them to meet and receive specialized aid from faculty.

WITH GREAT PATIENCE and understanding, Nancy Hillenburg explained to Kevin Rapp how to identify various stones and rocks by their unique feel. Mrs. Hillenburg has worked with visually handicapped pupils for the past eight years.

PAPER WORK and organization both essential for keeping accurate records and as department chairman of the Special Education program, Dr. Robert Sherrer had more than enough to keep busy.

HAVING BEEN WITH Anaheim High School for nine years, Virginia Beale understood the importance of keeping up on the desk work that goes with teaching. She worked hard with students.

A PART OF ANAHI ACTIVITY, Glen Bain taught United States History and worked in the Learning Center. Football coach and Varsity "A" adviser, Coach Roger Stahlhut was also a part of what was happening.

NEW AT AHS, Marcia Baumfeld put in many extra hours at school in order to make SED an effective program. SED was for special students and required a great deal of involvement and patience on the teacher's part, both which Mrs. Baumfeld gave most readily.

HELPING STUDENTS ACHIEVE the maximum in responsibility was another goal of many of Anahi's personnel. Mrs. Irma Richardson, secretary to Mr. Robert Cross, enabled Eileen Zoota to learn various office skills, including the switchboards.

ANSWERING QUESTIONS about careers and job opportunities was Mrs. Rae Shurtleff. While her help was advantageous in the Career Guidance Center, that of Mrs. Verna Burke was necessary to keep order among records and transcripts.

JIMMIE LEE PEUKERT, Verla Albine, Nadine Hardy, Margie Bradley, and Trudy Denison once again assisted Anaheim students from their nutrition-related work.

Campus personnel assisted students

CHAOS was prevented this year at Anaheim due largely to the advantageous efforts of Anahi's personnel. Their contributions in helping both students and faculty through periods of difficulty helped things move smoothly. Composed of those working in the library, offices, cafeteria, parking lot, and Anahi's campus, the personnel were in a sense just as important as the teaching staff. One member of Anahi's personnel who was very popular among Colonists was Fred "Sarge" Clausen, who guarded the parking lot against needless truancy and vandalism. Although those working in the Attendance Office are not known by many students, it should be pointed out that their efforts efficiently handled the students' absences. Working with high degrees of pride and spirit, Anahi's personnel, because of their efforts, proved to be of much significance to what was happening all year.

MASTERING THE TECHNIQUE of operating a duplicating machine, Mrs. Beverly Fox shared the responsibilities of printing each day's absense lists with her fellow workers. These lists were appreciated by Anahi's faculty due to their practicality.

TYPING THE NAMES of absent students in a list form, Mrs. Loranine Witte helped to prevent needless truancy. Her efforts helped to maintain an advantageous degree of order, allowing happenings to occur more freely and rapidly.

ABOVE: Students were involved, for the first time, in a child-care program instituted to prepare young adults for future responsibilities of handling of children.

ABOVE RIGHT: Coach Atkins was stunned on his 40th birthday when the Colonist football team gave him a surprise party. Many such occasions exhibited the unity between the Colony squad.

RIGHT: Reaching out for God's forgiveness, Bob Miranda's portrayal of Judas entertained the people with his rendition.

Communication aided students, teachers

FINE teacher-student relationships were one of the many things the Colony had to be proud of. Teachers found that communicating to students on a friendship level made their job much more enjoyable and students felt more relaxed to learn. The student body was lucky to have such a dedicated faculty to support its many endeavors.

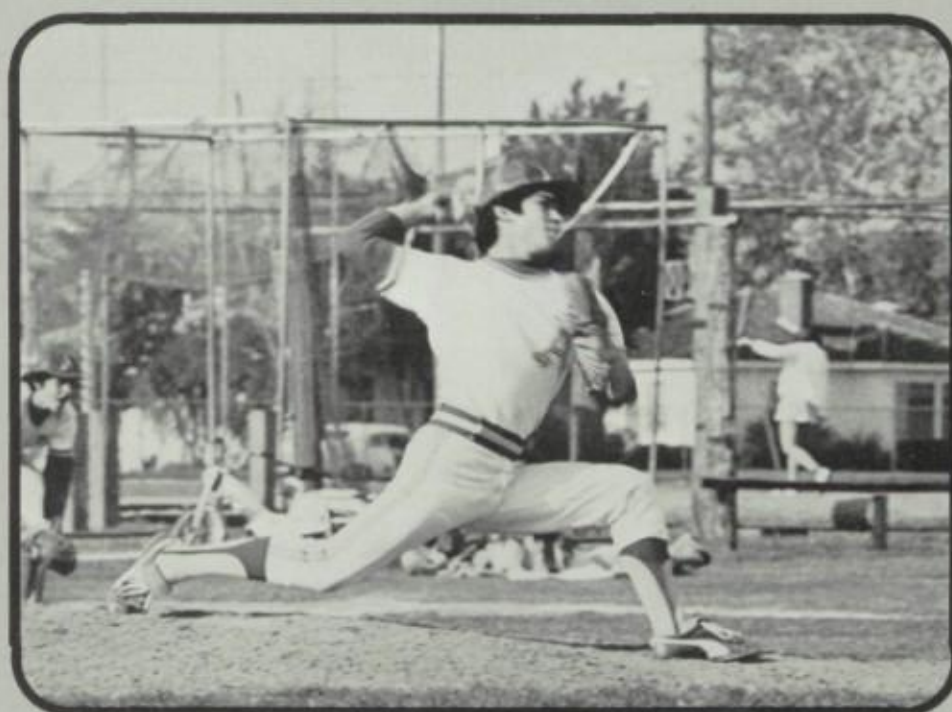

Beginning the school year, the faculty, as well as students, were stunned by the release and subsequent transfer of many well respected novice teachers. Dwindling economic conditions of the school district made it necessary to cut back on school curriculum as well as special interest programs. Although decreasing faculty-student involvement was ever present, the Colony upheld the tradition of academic excellence.

Sports dominated Colonists life

ATHLETICS were certainly "a part of what's happening" at Anaheim. Connies and Clems zealously participated in team as well as individual sports offered. Since the Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced the guidelines for women's involvement in athletics, the Colony experienced a rapid incline in girls participating in the sport scene. Joining the boys for the first time Anaheim had a girls' cross country team. Though competing against many tough competitors the girls took fifth place in the league. Although some boys didn't relish the thought of competing with girls, they upheld the traditional successful seasons.

FAR LEFT: Struggling to have it out, Sue Porter and date David Ponce enjoyed an energy busting pillow fight at the annual Sadie Hawkins dance.

BELOW: The inner tube race was a favorite among the events of Super Teams week. Taking a flying start off the blocks is Pam Smith, Cary Sowers, and Nancy Piliea.

Seniors engrossed with final year

HOW many times have seniors been reminded of the unforgettable phrase, these are the best years of your lives, from parents and teachers? But they don't need to be reminded of the three years spent at Anahi with every day spent with friends and teachers learning.

As the end grew near many seniors contacted a disease known on campus as "Senioritis." Symptoms included ditching fourth and fifth periods to go to lunch off campus or to the beach. The only cure was graduation and friends suddenly realized that they might never see each other again and the last few moments seemed very precious for they may have to last a lifetime.

Staff Wrap-up

CAPTURING the various events of the '77-'78 year was a challenging job for the "Vintage" staff. The staff's efforts were geared toward tying in the happenings of the school year with the theme, "Anaheim a part of what's happening." We the staff feel that though Anaheim High School is just a minute part of the world about us, Anaheim is still a part of it with its many fads, activities, and individuals. Working under difficult times of changing advisers at mid-year, the dedicated staff produced a yearbook of fine quality.

In appreciative memory—

Mr. Clare A. Van Hoorebeke

"He made a good impression on everybody's life, and I think of all the minds and hearts he set straight. He loved everybody and they loved him back, and that face, what a beautiful face, with the impish little grin — if I could only see it one more time. He had a heart of pure gold, and he gave his help to anyone who needed it. He was a fantastic man, I guess you could say he was a man among men, a LEGEND. We love you Van. Peace be with you." — Liz Newham

On April 6 a legend passed when Coach Van succumbed on the campus, the scene of his greatest triumphs as an Orange County football coach.

The "Dutch Master" was a title given him because of his ancestry and his prowess for developing raw talent.

In his 23 years at the helm of Anaheim High's football fortunes, his teams recorded an overall total of 190 wins, 50 losses, and 10 ties. His Blue and Gold varsities won 19 league titles and two CIF big school championships.

Coach Van's teams played before two of the largest crowds in the history of the CIF. Against Downey in 1956 the Vanmen tied the Vikings 13-13 before 41,383. Again in 1966 his varsity defeated Mater Dei 12-7 before 33,374 excited fans.

In addition to the many awards won on the field of play, Coach Van is one of only two California coaches ever honored by being named to the National High School Athletic Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

As one of his ex-players, and now Athletic Director at Los Alamitos said, "He was far ahead of his time. He's the guy who brought booster clubs to high school football and was the first to use film and scouting reports. His defensive concepts of the game put Orange County football on the map."

Van was never one to embarrass another team and coach. He would go out to win but would not run up a big score in the process.

Van was not only an exceptional coach but a person who loved his students and his school. He will long be remembered as a man who had a great influence on all he came in touch with. His work, desire came in touch with. His hard work, desire to always bring out the best in others, and love of getting the job done, served as a fine example for students and faculty alike. We will long remember and respect this man.
